BOOMERANG ARGUMENTS.

Replying in public debate to the liquor man's argument for compensation, Dr. Clarence True Wilson said: "Suppose we grant that they (the United States and the liquor seller) are partners. Suppose two thieves are in business to rob. One of them 'hits the trail' and gives up robbery and crime. Would you say the other thief has a case for damages for injury to his business by the conversion of his partner?"

"When we stopped piracy on the high seas, did we compensate the pirate? When we stopped lotteries, did we compensate those who conducted them? Have we compensated dealers in dope whose business was destroyed by the Harrison act?"

Another point made much by Doctor Wilson's opponent was that the first year after prohibition went into effect in West Virginia the governor of the state had to appeal to the legislature for additional tax measures to make up for the loss in revenue from liquor. "And in the second year," Doctor Wilson replied, "West Virginia swept her state debt off the map. Today she stands among the leading states of the Union in the amount of surplus in her treasury."

LIQUOR MONOPOLY.

Brewers say that beer takes the place of bread. It often takes the place of milk and meat also. Millions of dollars are each year taken from the pockets of workmen and put into the pockets of the brewers. Beer is a very taking article.

ALCOHOL GETS MEDICAL TABOO.

At the annual meeting of the house of delegates of the American Medical Association, held in New York in June, a resolution was adopted condemning the use of alcohol. Such resolution was presented by Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, chairman of the association's council of health and public instruction, and after discussion was passed as follows:

"Whereas, We believe that the use of alcohol is detrimental to the human economy, and whereas its use in therapeutics as a tonic or stimulant or for food has no scientific value, therefore

"Be it resolved, That the American Medical Association is opposed to the use of alcohol as a beverage; and

"Be it further resolved, That the use of alcohol as a therapeutic agent should be further discouraged."

The American Medical Association has a membership of 81,000 physicians and surgeons.

NEW OCCASION IN SHIP-LAUNCHING.

Three boats—large cannery tenders for the Alaska fisheries—were recently launched from one ship-building plant in Seattle. Each was christened with the sparkling nonalcoholic beverage, applestaff. The bottles were entwined in the national colors and hung from the three prows on silken ropes of red, white and blue. The three young women sponsors, said the Seattle Times, carried out the triple ceremony with great brilliancy. The crash of the bottles, sounding at ten-second intervals, bathed the bows of the vessels in glistening foam. "The new christening beverage made good in whirlwind style. Not a hitch, not a halt of pause of any kind, which means, according to tradition, that it is safe and sane to christen a ship with the new Seattle beverage."

THE WHOLE TRUTH.

"A lie that is part the truth is ever the blackest of lies." A part truth, according to a liquor journal: "Kansas, bone-dry, has 75 more prisoners in the penitentiary than it had when drizzling wet."

The whole truth: The Kansas penitentiary is a federal prison and the United States government sends more prisoners there than to any other federal prison because it has plenty of spare room for outsiders and because it is a model of its kind, improving both the health and the morals of its inmates.

ASHAMED OF ITS BREWERIES.

In advertising Milwaukee as a manufacturing center, the Rotary club of that city omits from the list of products any reference to the city's output of beer. The Rotary club represents 25 nationally known firms, not one of which, it declares, is "sister, cousin or aunt of the beer business."

22,000,000 REASONS.

Uncle Sam has 22,000,000 trained soldiers to fight against. Twenty-two million reasons why we should have nationwide prohibition.

Embarrassment of Riches.

"Kicking about trade, eh? Why, the people in your neighborhood are all rich."

"Too rich. They winter in California, and they summer in Maine. I only see 'em about three months in the year."

Fads and Fancies of Fashion

Sensibly Equipped for Housework.

There are trouserettes and trouserettes, and here is the latest arrival among them. In the shops pretty salesgirls go about their work in the wash dress section, arrayed in "service suits." These are of khaki or galathea cloth designed with an eye to style, as well as convenience. Admiring eyes follow them and there is no doubting the fact that feminine taste has turned trouserward, in clothes that are intended for outdoor and indoor work and for outings, mountaineering, camping and fishing.

The particular uniform shown in the picture is for wear at housework or in the garden. It is made in galathea cloth and in lighter weight cottons, like percales, madras and plain gingham. It is designed on the simplest lines possible, but with many attentions to little details in the finishing that make it really pretty. The sailor blouse sets as it should, the waist is well managed and the trousers fit as well as a skirt about the hips. They turn up at the bottom and button about the ankles.

There is a pocket in the blouse and two of them in the trousers, which convenience commands this suit to the girl of today. The sleeves are long, with a band at the wrist. The chances are that they button and can be turned back and out of the way when this is required. If they don't they ought to. There is no use remaining behind the times when styles so sensible and good-looking invite housewives to make things as convenient as possible for themselves.

Suits for Beach and Water Sports.

To swim or not to swim, that is the question to be settled by the summer girl when she contemplates buying something for wear at the beach. If she can content herself with the sands and splashing about close to shore, she may decide on a suit that is pretty to look at but not entirely practical for swimming. Beach clothes and things for water sports are so varied this year that becomingness is a thing to insist upon.

One of the prettiest of the 1917 models in beach suits is pictured here. It is made of black taffeta silk, with full ruffled skirt and loose blouse. It has the odd, Chinese collar which holds its place in summer styles after having outlasted the winter and exerted an influence on incoming styles. The short, puffed sleeves are finished with two narrow ruffles. All ruffles are piped with gold-colored silk.

The soft cap, with frill about the face, is also made of black taffeta with yellow piping. It has a sprightly bow of silk at the front which must be

Military Belt of Ribbon.

The revived interest in things military has brought to light a belt of plain fabric on which is applied a narrow ribbon closely plaited in cartridge suggestion. This ribbon centers the belt and the revealed edges of the latter give a border effect.

Ribbons of harmonizing colors are frequently used to fashion one belt. Thus we find coral color and orchid associated, rose and violet, pale blue and pale pink, and purple and sand. Of course, one might go on indefinitely and suggest the appropriate color combinations, but that is largely a matter of individual preference and artistic training; there is practically no limit to alliances of this sort.

Sociable.
An orderly chosen from among the student officers at Ft. Harrison sits daily outside Brig. Gen. Edwin F. Glenn's office door. A different man is chosen each day, and the other day the post fell to the lot of Charles E. Shafe of Indianapolis, says the Indianapolis News. Shafe went on an errand for the general, and returned just after the general had wished to speak to an officer in one of the other rooms and there being no orderly to summon him, had gone after the man himself.

"By George," Shafe commented to the camp adjutant's orderly, a Tenth Infantryman, fresh from five years in Panama, "the general did some of my work for me."

"Yeh, ain't that nice, now!" the adjutant's orderly returned. "Why don't you go in there now and do some of his work for him, just to be sociable?"

SAXON "SIX"

A BIG TOURING CAR FOR FIVE PEOPLE

25.9 Miles Per Gal. of Gas

234 stock model Saxon "Sixes" travel 70,200 miles July 18 and set grand average of 25.9 miles per gal. of gas

To give a national demonstration of the remarkable gasoline economy of Saxon "Six", 234 Saxon dealers joined in a 300 mile drive July 18.

A grand average of 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline was registered for the 70,200 miles of travel.

Consider that this run took place in 234 different parts of the country, under 234 different sets of conditions, over 234 different kinds of roads.

Consider that these 234 cars were stock model Saxon "Sixes", not "tuned up" special cars, not cars with "doped" gasoline.

That proves that this 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline is the ordinary, the average performance of 234 Saxon "Sixes" taken right out of stock.

And it proves as nothing else would prove, the gasoline economy your Saxon "Six" will give you. No other car in its class can match this record.

Furthermore, these 234 Saxon "Sixes" averaged 175 miles per quart of oil.

And not a single instance of mechanical trouble occurred throughout the entire 70,200 miles.

There is the proof that Saxon "Six" is your kind of a car. Price f. o. b. Detroit, $935.

Quite Happy.
Through the wild ways of her good-for-nothing husband, a hard-working charwoman had to remove to a little two-roomed cottage, where there was scarcely space to sneeze without shaking the ornaments from the mantelpiece.

"It's hard lines for you to be brought down like this, after what you've been accustomed to," said a sympathetic neighbor. "I don't doubt you feel very miserable, Mrs. Jones."

"No, I don't," the charwoman stoutly denied. "I'm happier here by a long way than I used to be in the old place. For one thing, when my husband comes home in a brute of a temper, he can't throw me down the cellar steps, as he used to do, 'cos there ain't none now!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Safe.
Madge was three years older than her baby brother, and felt herself equal to assuming the responsibilities of big sisterhood. When, therefore, her mother asked her to "keep an eye" on the baby and see that he didn't fall out of bed, Madge answered:

A Turkish Love Story.
A Turk knocked at his beloved's door, and a voice answered from within. "Who is there?"
Then he answered, "It is I."
Then the voice said, "This house will not hold thee and me."
And the door was not opened.
Then went the lover into the desert, where there is nothing but Allah, and fasted and prayed in solitude.
And after a year he returned and knocked again at the door.
And again the voice asked, "Who is there?"
And he said, "It is thyself."
And the door was opened to him.—Exchange.

Getting Out From Under.
It is probably quite natural that there should be considerable rivalry at Ft. Harrison between the student officers of National Guard training and those with no previous military experience, and sometimes stories are told which might not be told if it were not for this rivalry, says the Indianapolis News.

A young student officer was putting a squad of fellow-students through squad formations the other day of a rather intricate nature and the process proved to be like climbing a roof. It is easy to climb into a perilous position astride the cone, but difficult to climb down to safety. The young student officer got along very well until he attempted to get his squad back into its original formation. Somehow it wouldn't work out right. Then he cut the knot of his difficulty with one command, delivered as sternly as possible. "As you were at first! March!"
This would not have been told if there had not been several former National Guardsmen in the squad.

Was Laid Up In Bed

Doan's, However, Restored Mrs. Vogt to Health and Strength. Hasn't Suffered Since.

"I had one of the worst cases of kidney complaint imaginable," says Mrs. M. J. Vogt, 4815 Washington Ave., Waukegan, Ill. "I was laid up in bed for days at a time."
"My bladder was inflamed and the kidney secretions caused terrible pain. My back was in such bad shape that when I moved the pain was like a knife thrust. I got so dizzy I couldn't stoop and my head would spin like a top. Bends of perspiration would stand on my temples, then I would become cold and numb."
"My heart action was very weak and I felt as if I couldn't take another step. I got so nervous and run down that I wasn't worth living and often thought that I might die as my suffering was so bad. Medicine failed to help and I was discouraged."
"Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I would tell I was being cured after the first few doses. I kept taking better every day and continued until my health improved in every way and best of all, the cure has been permanent. I feel that Doan's is my life. Sworn to before me."

Where Seasons Are Mixed

Exist in United States in Which Ice Freezes in Summer and Thaws in Winter.

There are several cases in the United States where nature seems to have become confused as to the seasons, according to Popular Science Monthly.

During the late spring and summer months and a freezing temperature prevails, but as winter comes on the ice gradually melts and a kind of summer sets in.

One of these peculiar caves is to be found at Coudersport, Pa., and one at South Iowa. The superstitions of the residents of those localities are that the caves a wide berth and look upon any one daring to attempt to investigate them.

Dr. S. Balch of Philadelphia, who made a study of the subterranean caves, as they are called, states according to the theory evolved by investigators the formation of the caves is such that the cold air of winter does not penetrate and settle in the caves until late in the spring at which time the water from spring seeps through the walls of the cave. This water meeting the cold air freezes and stays frozen all summer, as in the fall season again the warm summer air at last gets into the cave and melts

The True Word.

The elderly New York clubmen who are wont to spend much of their time sitting out upon the Fifth Avenue promenade from their leather rest chairs in the lounge window.
