SALVIA SUMMARIZINGS.
Our long-time friends Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sipes left last Friday in the Autobus for a visit to Mrs. Sipes' sisters in Bedford and Rainsburg, and to their daughter at Huntingdon.
That Mr. and Mrs. Simon Deshong, of Worton, down on East ern Shores of Md., are loyal adherents of the Primitive Baptist Church is shown by the fact that on Wednesday of last week they traveled from their home a distance of 260 miles by train and automobile to McConnellsburg, where they were met by Roy M. Sipes and conveyed to his home at which place they remained until Saturday morning, when they were taken by Milton Decker and wife in their automobile to the Baptist Association—held this year at the Spring field Baptist church in Huntingdon County. From Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Deshong go to a Baptist Association in Virginia, and from that one, they will attend a similar Association in Delaware—all before returning home. Mrs. Deshong comes by her devotion to the Old Baptist church honestly, for she is the great-granddaughter of Moses Starr, a prominent clergyman of that faith in this county many years ago.
Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mann and daughter Marian, of Everett motored to Greenhill on Thursday of last week where they were assisted by Will Bair, wife and daughter in making a kettle of toothsome applebutter for use in their home in Everett this winter. Mr. Mann had a good yield of apples on his mountain orchard on Sidling Hill known as the Reuben Daniels farm.

School Building Program.
Pennsylvania invested seven million, three hundred thirty-three thousand, five hundred and sixty four dollars ($7,333,564) in the construction of school houses outside of Philadelphia and Pitts-burgh in the year ending July 1, 1917, according to a report just completed for the State Board of Education by Dr. J. George Becht, Executive Secretary of the Board. This program is the most ambitious in the way of school building known in the State in any year.

The report shows there were erected twenty one buildings ranging in price from $50,000 to $100,000, six from $100,000 to $200,000, six from $200,000 to $300,000 and two costing more than $600,000. Plans for 223 buildings costing less than $50,000 were submitted to the Board.
Inquiries made, showed that material prices went up during the year from 15 to 35 per cent.
Allegheny County leads the counties in number of buildings, showing twenty four to cost more than $650,000. Luzerne and Washington divide next honors with eighteen, but Fayette is right behind with seven-teen; Berks shows seven; Blair, three; Bucks, seven; Bradford, five; Beaver, five; Butler, six; Cambria, fourteen; Chester, four Delaware, nine; Erie, six; Frank lin four; Dauphin, three; Lacka-wanna, nine; Lancaster, five; Lehigh three; Montgomery, ten; Northampton, four; Northumber-land, three; Schuylkill, eight; Westmoreland; fifteen and York, four.

Small Change Much Needed.
From Philadelphia Inquirer.
Never before has there been such a demand for small bills and coins and the mints seem utterly unable to supply it. Although the fractional currency extant is almost $200,000,000 or two dollars for every individual, and although there is a vast number of one and two dollar silver certificates outstanding, the cry is for more. As a result Congress recently passed a law permitting national bank notes of one and two dollar denomination, although these were prohibited many years ago.
Unquestionably the increase in the price of all commodities has had much to do with the short age of fractional currency and small bills. It requires a good deal more cash in hand for marketing now than formerly, and in spite of banks abounding, the individual now carries more money in his pocket than was his custom a decade ago. There are so many large corporations with big payrolls that banks necessarily are put to it to collect weekly the amounts needed in small bills. Eventually they get back, but not swiftly enough.
It is rather hard on Uncle Sam that just at this time the price of silver is so high. He has unlimited powers of coining fractional currency and used to do it at a good deal more than 100 per cent profit. Unfortunately when silver was low it never occurred to him to lay in a large stock, so that now he is compelled to pry almost twice as much as three years ago and his profits are by so much reduced. Still that would not be so bad if he could supply all demands and that is what he cannot do for lack of stamping machines.
An effort has been made to use this occasion to put silver dollars into circulation but with little result. There are hundreds of millions of them piled up in vaults against which certificates of varying denominations are issued. Circulating these would settle the small bill questions, but aside from the Far West our people will not have the cart wheels, for once they get out of the Treasury they cannot be "certificated" back. In a short time we may expect the new national bank small notes which will be an addition to the large existing number of bills of various designs, few of which are known to the average man and all of which are taken on faith.

A Woman's New Shoes.
When a woman has a new pair of shoes sent home she performs altogether different from a man. She never shoves her toes into them and hauls until she is red in the face and all out of breath and then go stamping and kicking around, but pulls them on half way carefully, twitches them off again to take a last look and see if she has got the right one, pulls them on again, looks at them dreamily, says they are just right then takes another look, stops suddenly to smooth out a wrinkle, twists around and surveys them sideways, and exclaims: "Mercy, how loose they are," looks at them again square in front, works her foot around so they won't hurt her quite so much, takes them off, looks at them, looks at the heel, the bottom and the inside, put them on again, walks up and down the room once or twice, remarks to her better half that she won't have them at any price, tilts down the mirror so she can see how they look from that way, backs off, steps up again, takes thirty or forty farewell looks says they make her feet awful big and never will do in the world, puts them on or off three or four times more, asks her husband what he thinks about it, and then pays no attention to what he says, goes through it all again, and finally says she will take them.
