

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day back-ache; such is cause enough to sus- pect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1880 is the 1910 census story. Doan's Kidney Pills. Thou- sands recommend them.

The Deep Sea Peril

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

THE F55 IS INVADED BY THE WEIRD MONSTERS AND PAGET HAS A TERRIBLE STRUGGLE TO SAVE HIMSELF AND IDA—THE OTHERS ARE DEVoured.

Naval Lieutenant Donald Paget, just given command of a subma- rine, meets at Washington an old friend and distinguished though somewhat eccentric scientist, Captain Masterman. Masterman has just returned from an exploring expedition, bringing with him a member of the strange race, the existence of whose species, he asserts, menaces the human family. At the club, the "March Hares," Masterman explains his theory to Paget. The recital is interrupted by the arrival of a lifelong enemy of Masterman, Ira MacBeard, and the former is seized with a fatal paralytic stroke. From Masterman's body Paget secures documents bearing upon the discovery and proceeds to the home of the scientist. Paget proceeds to sea on his submarine, the F55, and encounters a German cruiser. He sinks the enemy, which had destroyed the Beotia, on which Ida Kennedy, his fiancée, was a pas- senger. The girl escapes in a small boat. He rescues her, but finds himself unable to take the ship to the submarine because of invisible forces.

CHAPTER VI. The Siege of the Submarine.

"I'm positive it's the water, sir," said Davies. "We've tried running submerged, and the electric engines won't drive her any faster than the petrol ones. It's like running a loco- motive on greasy rails."

"It's plankton," answered Donald. "Marine organisms, you know." He was standing beside Davies in the conning tower. Ida had been taken below and placed in Donald's cabin. She had been hardly conscious since her rescue; she was too numbed from exposure to realize what had occurred, and she had fallen asleep immediately.

At Fair Island, which was an uninter- rupted, cavernous rock, Donald ex- pected to find the oil-ship, from which his stores were to be replenished. Then he was to patrol the northern area of the North sea with the aid of the airplane. A stock of supplies in the shape of food was also expected at the island.

But now Donald was wondering whether it was not his duty to return to the mainland to report the destruc- tion of the enemy cruiser. Of course the officers of the Flying corps who would be with the airplane could un- dertake this duty. But then there was Ida. And there was the swarm of devil men that had appeared.

How could he tell the navy depart- ment of this without being relieved of his command? But how could he fail to tell them?

Donald looked keenly at Davies. He was a nice little chap, disciplined, clean, alert, the beau-ideal of a naval officer in embryo. What he liked best about the little middy was his resolu- tion; he knew that Davies would never hesitate to take responsibility whenever he thought his duty required a prompt decision.

Donald could have no better confid- ant. And he needed one as sorely as Masterman had done. "Davies," he said, "I'm going to tell you something. It's not the engines, but it isn't altogether the water ei- ther. The plankton wouldn't stop us. And it's too fine to clog the machin- ery. Something is trying to push us back, Davies."

"I beg your pardon, sir?" "It was warned about it before I left New York," continued Donald. "What I'm going to tell you will sound incredible, but it happens to be true. You know, Davies, our an- cestors were marine creatures?"

"I thought they were monkeys, sir. At least, a long time ago." "Long before they were monkeys, Davies. At least, they first lived in the sea. And we became monkeys afterward, and then men."

"Yes, sir. I was going to say that the electric engines show signs of de- veloping—" "One moment, please, Davies. There's another swarm of deep-sea men coming to overrun the earth. Masterman told me—you've heard of Masterman, the marine explorer? He told me he'd seen them—no, 'felt' them—before he died. I felt them to- day. They attacked and upset us."

"Excuse me, sir," said Davies, "but wouldn't you like to lie down? I can take the F55 to the island, sir, and we'll call you when we are at anchor." "Please listen to me, Davies. They are invisible, these monsters, all ex- cept the eyes, which look like cur- rants. When they die the albuminous parts of the body harden, producing a milky opacity. They look then some- thing like hairless monsters. And they're trying to stop the submarine from making Fair Island, just as they tried to draw the boat there. They—"

He broke off, unphased by the mid- dy's polite, respectful stare. Don- ald had not imagined that the story would sound so grotesque. He hardly believed now that he could make Dav- ies realize its truth. "I'm sorry to hear about them, sir," said Davies. "What do you wish me to do?"

"Keep the hatches closed," said Don- ald. "We are taking a risk not sub- merging, but we have got to make Fair Island. If they get aboard, it will be a fight to the death. Happily, it isn't hard to kill them, only we can't see them. They are quite invisible, re- member. I killed two of them. Better serve out cutlasses—" "We won't stand for any nonsense from them, sir," answered the mid- dy. "Excuse me, sir, while I call Clouts to take the lookout." He moved toward the entrance.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Swollen hands, ankles, feet are due to a disordered kidney. Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists; or under the eyes in bag-like formations. As a remedy for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation caused by uric acid—an scalding urine, backache and fre- quent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, An- tric acts; the pains and stiffness rapidly disappear, for Anuric, (double strength), is many times more potent than lithia and often eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. All druggists. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for the Liver and bowels have been favorably known for nearly 50 years. Anuric is a recent scientific discovery by Dr. Pierce, Chief of Staff at the In- viduals' Hotel and Surgical Inst., in Bur- falo, N. Y. Send for there for a trial pkg. of Anuric. Large package 60c.

Another man ran panting up to them. It seemed strange afterward, when Donald recalled it, how the three seemed to be aware of each other's presence in the little cabin. It was Sam Clouts. "They've got us, sir!" he cried. "I fought to the end, but the rest are in."

"Paget! I've come to you!" he cried hysterically. "You spoke the truth, sir, and I thought you were mad! I opened the hatches, and they're all over the ship, sir! I've come to die with you!"

"Paget! I've Come to Die With You!" the sea, and I'm the only one left! I've locked the entrance to the conning tower, but it's only a question of minutes, sir!"

Donald could hear the monsters straining at the door. He felt sure that the steel plating, thin as it was, would yield; not to the sudden exercise of any muscular force, but to the silent, steady pressure of the heavy bodies. The door creaked and groaned under the impact.

"Into the torpedo-room!" gasped Donald. "Through the escape hatch! We must save Miss Kennedy," he added. He snatched up Ida and began groping toward the metallic sheathing which admitted air from above into the torpedo room.

"I think I can get the tube apart, sir," Clouts volunteered. It seemed an eternity before Donald heard a section of the metal plate rattle upon the floor. "We'll have to jump, sir!" Clouts panted. "I'll go down first and catch you. Pass along the lady when you hear me call."

The villain, MacBeard, possessed of the dead Masterman's papers, sets out for the abode of the unknown creatures, off the Shetland islands. His purpose is deadly.

Japanese, Past Masters in Art of Mak- ing Weapons, Offer Them When Completed to Goddess.

That the Japanese are past masters in the art of swordmaking is proved by the splendid weapons, equal to those of Toledo and Damascus, which they turn out. The actual method of sword- making in Japan is jealously guarded, an extraordinary feature of the indus- try being the religious ceremony which accompanies every process of their manufacture. The walls of every swordmaking shop in Japan will be found to be covered with allegorical representations of the swordmakers and the chief goddess of the Shintos.

Even the final processes of polishing and sharpening are characterized by certain religious ceremonies, and finally the weapons are offered, one by one, to the sword god to be blessed, says London Tit-Bits. This ceremony con- sists in placing the swords in front of the goddess of the Shintos on the wall, with an offering of sake, rice and sweets, after which prayer scrolls are read and blessing upon the work is invoked.

Pity Father. Carl, aged three, and his baby sister of eighteen months slept in the same room as their parents. Carl woke up early and torment his still sleepy father with questions. "Father, can a cow speak?" "No, my child." "Father, can a dog speak?" The father, thinking Carl was going through the entire list of animals that he knew, said severely: "No animal can speak. And you must now keep quiet, for father wants to sleep." For a long time the child remained quiet; then being no longer able to restrain his curiosity, he asked timidly: "Father, what kind of an animal is baby?"
