A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake is Made By Many McConnellsburg People.

It's a common error. To plaster the aching back. To rub with liniments, rheumatic joints.

If the trouble comes from the kidneys.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. H. Bernecker, 567 Philadelphia Ave., Chambersburg, Pa., says: "I had a bad fall and my back became very sore and painful. A constant, throbbing ache settled in the small of my back and I suffered from head aches. I felt miserable and the medicine I took didn't seem to help me. I finally bought Doan's Kidney Pills at Greenwald's Drug Store and they soon removed all the trouble and now I only use them occasionally as a preventive."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. H. Bernecker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

Knobsville.

Mrs. Henrietta Shadle, of Chambersburg, spent a few days during the past week in the home of her son Milton Shadle and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fore and son Fillmore, spent Monday at E. G. Foster's.

Peter Schendelman, of Knoxville, Ill., is visiting his daughter Mrs. Will Kerlin in this place.

Pierce Kelso and wife have returned to their home at Greencastle after having spent several weeks in the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Kelso.

Mrs. Mary Campbell and daughter Ruth, who had spent several months in the home of Uncle Billy Vallance at Hustontown, have returned to their home near this place.

Mrs. Savina Anderson, who had been visiting in the home of her daughter Mrs. Ed Rotz, has returned to her home in Morris Cove.

Misses Lola Wilson and Oda Cutchall spent Saturday and Sunday of last week in the home of the former's uncle and aunt, Hon. and Mrs. Clem Chesnut at Hustontown.

Charles Snyder, who during the past year has been employed at the Westinghouse Works in Pittsburgh, is spending several weeks with his home folks in this place.

Miss Mary Holman, who is teaching in Wells Valley, spent last Saturday and Sunday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Holman.

Not All One Sided.

The parent who believes every word the son or daughter tells them in regard to the conduct of the teacher, is very likely to think ill of the teacher and without just reason. It is natural for youth to be prejudiced and to resent punishment even if it is just. Many a good school is spoiled by the parents upholding pupils when the proper treatment would be to up-end them and use the coal shovel.

HEINZ ASKS HELP FROM FARMERS

Explains Aim of Food Administration in Message to Pennsylvania Farmers.

WELCOMES CRITICISM

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Howard Heinz, Federal Food Administrator of Pennsylvania has announced the appointment of Chester J. Tyson, of Florida, Adams county, and Morris T. Phillips, of Pomeroy, Chester county, as farmers' representatives in the Food Administration and the Food Supply Department of the Committee of Public Safety.

In a message to the farmers of Pennsylvania, in which he outlines the policy of the new appointees, Mr. Tyson said:

"We are called upon to grow more food this year than ever, although with less help and with increased expenses. Sometimes we feel that we are called upon to do this without promise of adequate reward. If these difficulties are real, let us consider them as our personal enemies, and let us meet them one at a time and overcome them as our part in this world's struggle. Let us strive to be true to what we already know to be true—that we are loyal and patriotic citizens and that the farmers of Pennsylvania are the backbone of the nation."

"The Food Administration realizes the difficulties confronting the farmer and is ready to help and encourage him in any way possible. We are calling you to bring to us your own ideas and to suggest your suggestions. The Food Administration desires to hear from you and to consider your suggestions and to make them a part of its policy. To meet these conditions it will become necessary to enforce rules and regulations which in some instances may seem foolish and at first glance unjust. Do not condemn, but help us with your counsel and advice to avoid other mistakes."

Mr. Phillips and Mr. Tyson will have in mind continually the farmers' problems and their difficulties which will be given careful consideration by the Food Administration in all matters of regulation which may be projected. The administration desires farmers to understand that it is open to suggestion, criticism, questions and correspondence of any sort relating to production, marketing and all other farm problems.

In appointing farmers' representatives, Mr. Tyson stated that these representatives will not constitute a new force for the development of agriculture, but rather that they will supplement the operations of existing agencies, including the State Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural Extension Work of Pennsylvania State College, the County Farm Bureau, the State Grange and similar organizations, by working in close cooperation with them.

Mr. Phillips is a dairy farmer and a large grower of corn and alfalfa. He was a member of the recent Tri-State Milk Commission and is now identified with the Agricultural Commission of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Tyson raises grain, hay and corn. In addition, he has for the past twenty years operated one of the largest apple orchards in Pennsylvania. He served as president of the State Horticultural Association and is now chairman of its legislative committee.

Mr. Tyson is a trustee of the Pennsylvania State College and a member of the Advisory Board of the School of Agriculture of that institution.

Both Mr. Phillips and Mr. Tyson are farmers by birth and training and their experience places them in a position to understand and sympathize keenly with the difficulties of the small farmer, and to appreciate the consideration due large and successful growers.

Mr. Tyson and Mr. Phillips are assuming their new responsibilities as compelled to lay aside their business and sacrifice their time to the cause of food production. They enter the service of the Food Administration with the full realization that the very best effort of every loyal farmer is essential to the production and conservation of food, and that grain, wheat, oats, beef, pork, mutton and wool, milk and eggs, the products of Pennsylvania farms, are necessities which the country must have, not only to feed its armies, but to relieve actual suffering and possible starvation at home and in the allied countries.

LAUREL RIDGE.

Miss Flora Shives and Miss Cora Nesbitt visited in the home of the latter's parents from Friday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Himmel Harris and their two sons, and daughter Ruth, spent Sunday at George Lynch's.

Wm. Paylor was visiting in this neighborhood recently, and spent Sunday night with his neighbor R. W. Mellott and family.

Jacob Clouser is seriously ill at this writing, having a bad attack of rheumatism.

Jacob Gordon still continues about the same. He does not seem much better, nor much worse.

Mrs. Georgia Pittman visited her sister Mrs. Samuel Peck last Saturday.

In a letter to his mother, Quay Mellott, states that he was leaving Camp Lee Feb. 26th. He gave an address but, said, "you may guess where we are going."

FARM ANIMALS

COLD RAINS INJURE HORSES

Exposure of Young Animals to Severe Weather Causes Shrinkage and Retards Development.

The exposure of young horses to the short spells of severe weather which occur frequently during the fall, causes a shrinkage in live weight and is a hindrance to rapid economical development. Older horses seem to stand this sort of treatment with less loss. It is doubtless true that animals become accustomed to winter weather, but frequent changes from fine fall weather to bad storms retard gains in colts without shelter.

Four yearling Percheron fillies with an average weight of 1,169 pounds on pasture, with a ration of six pounds of corn and oats (one-half of each by weight) daily shrank an average of 32 pounds each during the spell of severe weather on October 18 to 20 at the University of Missouri. Aged mares in foal, lost only slightly during the same period.

Inexpensive sheds which will protect colts from wind, rain, sleet and snow will prevent part of such loss in weight. Growing horses should not be housed too closely and prevented from taking plenty of exercise, but they should not be subjected to extremely bad weather if they are expected to make satisfactory growth.

DEVICE FOR HOLDING SWINE

Contraction is Simple and Cheap in Its Construction—Illustration Explains Fully.

The device shown in the accompanying drawing is simple and cheap in its construction and easy to operate—so simple, in fact, that the mere illustration

Easy to Hold Hogs.

tion furnishes all the specifications necessary, says Farm Buildings. The uprights should be firmly set in the ground and the upper piece of stocks pivoted to the upright on a pivot at A. By sailing boards to the uprights on both sides in the rear a small chute may be formed by means of which the hogs may easily be driven into the "trap."

CARING FOR FEET OF SHEEP

Neglect Often Brings Troubles Later On—Practical Plan Outlined for Needed Attention.

Neglect of the feet often brings sheep troubles later on. Uncared-for feet are favorable breeding grounds for foot rot and crooked pasterns. Try this plan: Turn the sheep out in pasture while the grass is wet. This will clean the feet and soften the hoof. After a few hours pen the sheep, take a hoof clipper or pruning knife and remove the surplus hoof or crooked portions. Trim so that the horn is on a level with the sole of the foot. If paring is necessary more on one side than the other in order to balance the foot, do this. Aim to have a level foot when the sheep stands on the ground.

COLLAR FITTED TO A HORSE

One That is Too Large Should Not Be Put on Animal in Hope That He Will Grow into It.

A collar should be fitted to the horse, and not the horse to the collar. The collar that is too large should not be used on a horse in the hope that he will grow large enough so it will eventually fit. A collar that fits well in the spring may not fit at all in the fall.

PROPER ALLOWANCE FOR SOW

Amount of Feed Given May Be Governed by Her Appetite—Tankage Should Be Fed Sparingly.

The amount of feed given a sow may be governed largely by her appetite. Tankage should not be fed to exceed more than 5 per cent. Corn may make up half the ration, as it tends to prevent the sow from becoming thin.

SHORT PASTURES FOR SHEEP

Brushy Field on Almost Every Farm Where Animals Can Be Made to Return Good Profit.

Sheep keeping should be encouraged. No other animal can thrive on such short pasturage as the sheep. Sheep manure is the most valuable of all. On almost every farm there is a brushy field on which sheep could browse eight months of the year.

That sounds like a trip to France. There will be "Singing!" and at the same time, will organize the sabbath school at this place, on Sunday at 10:30 o'clock March 17th.

John Pedden spent Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bivens.

Chickens never wash, as many other birds do, but cleanse themselves of insects by wallowing in soil. For this reason every poultry house should be provided with a dust box.

Early Hatching—Winter Eggs.

Early hatching is the secret of winter egg production. The pullet that is hatched early matures early and is ready to lay eggs in the fall when the supply is scarcest and prices highest. Chickens that are expected to be revenue producers for their owners in the year should be out of their shells by April 30 at the latest. If they are properly cared for thereafter they will begin to lay eggs at the very time that eggs are most wanted.

To a great extent the poultrymen of the country have overlooked this simple fact. For one thing, birds hatched later in the spring or summer are not inclined to become broody until late the following season and thus an unprofitable circle is formed. Each year pullets mature too late to produce in the fall and winter, and they sit too late for their offspring to do any better. The poultryman who wishes to get really good returns from his flock must break this circle.

The growing use of incubators has made this comparatively easier. There is no reason why incubators should not be filled in March and early April and the hatching over before May 1. If no incubator is available it may be possible to secure broody hens in the neighborhood.

Mellott-Hill.

Mr. Chester L. Mellott, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mellott, of Needmore, R. 1, and Miss Edith M. Hill, of Needmore, R. 2, were united in marriage on Wednesday February 27th at 12 o'clock noon by their pastor Rev. J. C. Garland at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hill.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served, attended by the members of the immediate families. The contracting parties are most excellent young people, and the NEWS joins with their numerous friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long happy and prosperous life.

Open Your Sack.

An exchange tells the story of a boy who was sent to market with a sack full of rabbits, lingering around town all day and coming back without selling them.

When asked by his mother why he had not sold the rabbits, he said no one asked him what was in the sack. How many of our merchants are like this little boy? They have plenty of goods for sale, but fail to tell the people what is in the sack. If you expect to sell goods in this day and age, you must open your sack and keep shouting the merits of your stock in trade.

Save The Hens.

Every laying hen sold from the farms before the 1st of May means a loss of about 30 eggs to the food supply of the Nation.

These eggs are valuable food, manufactured largely from insects, weeds and grass, garbage, and waste. The eggs, therefore, are almost wholly a net gain in human food. Moreover, the hen is just as good meat after she has laid these eggs as before.

Save the hens is the message that the United States Department of Agriculture is sending broadcast through press notices and poster and through its country agents; especially in the southern poultry-raising sections.

The Thrice-A-Week Edition of the New York World in 1918

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly, No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. We have been forced to enter the great world war and a large army of ours is already in France. You will want to have all the news from our troops on Europe's battlefields, and (918 promises to be the most momentous year in the history of our union.)

No other newspaper at so small a price will furnish such prompt and accurate news of these world shaking events. It is not necessary to say more.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 136 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE FULTON COUNTY NEWS together for one year for $2.15.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.
