The Substitute

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL Assistant Dean, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT-The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.—Maithew 20:28.

A "ransom" is a price paid to secare freedom for a slave or to set a clear that it was not merely by living his life but by giving it, in death, that Christ redeemed us. Many become confused at this point. Of course, Christ's perfect life was essential to his worthiness as a sacrifice, for the Lamb must be without blemish or spot. But even though he had lived his perfect life, there would have been no salvation for sinners had he not gone to the cross. In the strong words of Bishop Moule, "His life had to do with his being all-worthy. But it did not, in whole or in part, constitute the sacrifice." The Apostle Peter sums up the matter thus: "Ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers, but with the precious word of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish god without spot."

His life was given "for" us, that is "instead of" us, for so the word may be translated. The idea of substitution cannot be removed from this expression. An illustration of the thought is found in Exodus 30:12: "When thou takest the sum of the children of Israel after their number, then shall they give every man a ransom for his soul unto the Lord." The half-shekel given by each man was "atonement money," "to make atonement for their souls" as the succeeding verses make clear. The people were considered not as doomed but as ransomed by the atonement money paid instead of their death. Just so, Christ's death takes the place of ours.

A single application of Roman Eye Bai-sam on going to bed will prove its merit for infammations of the Eyes, external and in-ternal. Adv. The reality and solemnity of the Nebuchadnezzar had to eat grass. Is substitution of Christ for sinners is set forth in Galations 3:13: "Christ hath redeemed us from the course of The intellectual type of beauty is the law, having become a curse for us." The old revival hymn well expresses the amazing and glorious fact:

Bearing shame and scoffing rude, In my place condemned he stood; Sealed my pardon with his blood; Hallelujah!

The death of Christ cannot be understood save as the death of the sinbearer. This alone explains the agony and bloody sweat of Gethsemane and the plea, "Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me." Christ would not be worthy of the respect paid even to soldiers who have gone without flinching to death, or to martyrs who have sung at the stake, if his death were no different from theirs. But if we understand that he was entering into the shadow of the cross upon which he would bear the sins of the world, we can understand his shrinking horror of it all.

As to what Christ suffered on the cross we must speak with reverent reserve. But his cry, "My God, my God, why has thou forsaken me?" must not be emptied of its awful content. Bishop Moule points out that Christ could not suffer that personal remorse for sin which must be one awful element of the future woe of sinners; yet his cry on the cross "at least favors the belief that the all-blessed Sufferer willed to bear, and the Father to ordain, the personal experience of desertion such as enters into the final doom." The bishop wisely adds, "The reverent disciple will avoid all detailed speculation in such a matter." But well may we sing:

None of the ransomed ever knew How deep were the waters crossed. Or how dark was the night the Lord went through. To find the sheep that was lost.

What a price has been paid for our redemption! Surely we could ask for no more; God himself could ask for no more and Satan is silenced in view of the work done on the cross. Christ's cry, "It is finished," answers all the questions which could be asked in heaven, earth or hell.

We need only fall down and thankfully accept the deliverance bought by his precious blood.

A Christian girl lay dying. With much effort she moved one hand to the other and, after feeling the palm for a moment, whispered, "No nail; his hand was pierced with the nail." With even more effort she raised her hand to her brow and, after feeling It, sald, "No thorns; his brow was crowned with thorns." Finally, her hand stole to her side, and with triumph she cried, "No spear; his side was pierced by the spear."

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC-Vision

The hopes of the disciples were crushed when Christ announced his death on the cross. They were unable to see how victory could issue from death. Jesus took with him Peter, James and John, and went into the mountain apart by themselves. According to Luke, they went there to pray (Luke 9:28). While, doubtless, he longed for fellowship and sympathy as the shadows of the cross were falling upon him, his chief desire was to get the disciples apart and into a state of receptivity, so that he might show them the methods of the kingdom. Before going into the mountain, he declared that there were some standing in his presence who would not taste of death till they had seen the kingdom of God come with power (v. 1). That their drooping spirits might be revived and their confidence restored, he was transfigured before them. The disciples sorely needed such a vision. If the faith of the disciples was to be kept through the dark hour of the cross which was looming large before them the light of the eternal must beam forth. The disciple now, as then, needs a glimpse of the glory beyoud the cross in order to face the issues of the hour. Two men from the upper world were sent to converse with Jesus about his approaching death at Jerusalem-the very thing about which the disciples refused to talk. Then, too, God's own voice was heard in words of approval of Christ's course, directing them to hear the Master. With a fore-gleam of the coming kingdom, and the approving words of God himself, the disciples cannot doubt the ability of Jesus to carry into execution his kingdom plans. That this is true is not only shown by the context and circumstances, but by the inspired interpretation of one who was there with him and knew all that transpired. Peter said: "For we did not follow cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of Jesus Christ, but were eyowitnesses of his majesty. For he received of God the Father honor and glory, when there came such a voice is my beloved Son, in whom I am well nsed. And this voice we ourselves heard come out of heaven, when we were with him in the holy mount. And we have the word of prophecy made more sure, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawn and the day arise in your hearts" (2 Peter 1:16-19 R. V.). 1. Jesus Christ Glorified on the Mountain (vv. 2, 3). He took his disciples "by themselves" and was "transfigured before them." This shows the purpose terminated upon the disciples and not upon himself. Christ's rebuke of Peter for his unwillingness to hear concerning his death apparently for a time estranged the disciples from him, to him from the excellent glory. This shall be manifest when he comes back to the earth. II. Peter, James and John Represent Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom (v. 2). Christ Is peculiarly the King of Israel. According to Ezekiel 37:21-27, they are to be the central people in the kingdom, This people shall be gathered from among the nations, united as one in that kingdom in their own country.

To heal this breech, an unusual transaction was required. His "shining rat-ment" was typical of that glory which

III. Moses and Elias Appeared in Glory With Jesus (vv. 4-13). These men in the glorified state are typical of the state of the saints in glory. Moses, who was once denied an entrance to Palestine, appears now in glory, representing the redeemed of the Lord who shall pass through death into the kingdom. The thousands of the Lord who have fallen asleep, at Christ's coming shall be awakened and pass into the kingdom through translation. Many shall be living upon the earth when the Lord shall come, and they, without dying shall be changed and pass into the singdom (1 Cor. 15:50-53; 1 Thess, 4:14-18).

1. Peter's foolish proposal (vv. 5, 6). Moses and Eilas, who had been a long time in glory, would be ill at home in a tabernacle on the mountainside. It would have been to Peter's credit to have been silent, since he knew not what to say.

2. The Divine voice out of the cloud (vv. 7, 8). He is declared to be the beloved Son in whom God is well pleased. When one desires to know what pleases God, look at his perfect Son, Jesus Christ, 3. Jesus' charge (vv. 9-13). He instructed them that they should tell no man concerning the things which they had seen until he had risen from the dend.

IV. The Mighty Power of the Divine Servant (vv. 14-29). When they descended from the mountain, they saw a great multitude in a state of perplexity. The immediate cause of their perplexity was the grievous state of a young man who was possessed with a demon (v. 18). The father of the the young man had appealed to the disciples to cast the demon out, but they were unable. When they brought him to Jesus, the foul spirit was rebuked (v. 25), and came forth. This young man's state is representative of the nations who are oppressed by the devil. The people were grievously on-
