Woman's Work.

For the past few years the lines that have designated a difference between man's work and woman's work have fast been obliterated until now, nearly all boundary lines are removed. "As a rusult of this,' says Mrs. Eugenia G. Benn, of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, "women are prepared to fill many places necessarily made vacant by the war. She is not only standing beside but leading the men in many industrial and professional duties. However, woman will never lose that sense of useful cooperation as a helpmate which places her first duty to do the things which serve as complements to the greater work of the men. In other words it is our first duty to do the little things that men leave undone. Because of this fact sometimes our work seems small and its results medi-

"Especially on the farm does women's work seem to lack appreciation. From early dawn until late at night the multitudinous duties of the home, house family, stock, garden and poultry demand the attention. Besides these the women's duties to that greater field, the commr mty, peristently calls us. And ad ed to all these, comes the per tin of call to war work. There wan never a time when women's du es have been so numerous, bu from now on until a permane is peace for the world is won, our duties will incsease each day. No demande must be made on the farm women's time energy or abilities that are not carefully considered first and spared if possible. Conservation is our watchword and let us not forget that the most necessary thing to conserve is energy. At times we seem to have almost a superhuman strength to do our best for a cause that is morally right. Let us never belittle ourselvee or our labors, and let us never as pire to do the thing that we see some other women doing that our good common sense teils us is just beyond our present usefulness. It has been my experience that it is always the best plan to do well the little things that come to hand and, having done them well, with the thought of worthy promotion ahead, the larger things have come when I was ready to shoulder their responsibilities."

LIBERTY BONDS IBUY BONDS WHILE BUY VICTORY BIG FIGHT RAGES

tion of Nation's Ideals in Big Sales.

In a statement by George Eastman, general manager of the Eastman Kodak Company, of Rochester, N. Y., emphasis is laid on the fact that the success of the Third Liberty Loan by means of popular subscription will represent a realization of the great democratic ideal. Mr. Eastman said:

"No man in his right senses seeks to accumulate money except for the for greater benefits it will buy him. Only the miser seeks money for itself, Does not the same principle apply to a nation? We are the richest nation in the world by many times over, and we have been accused by less successful nations of being money-makers to the exclusion of some of the higher things of life, but the time has come for us to prove that that charge was without foundation, that we have sought money simply for the higher try which provides him with a home things it would buy and not simply for the sake of amassing money.
