Dear Mr. (John H.) Reiser:
I was in Tanghsien last week, when Mr. Romig returned from Nanking, and I noticed that some of his packages were wrapped in the Fulton County News. I then remembered that you were there that summer and that one afternoon we took a beefsteak and some other food out on the hillside and had a very pleasant time together. It was a surprise and pleasure to find that you are out here in China and I hope that sometime we may renew our friendship.

Sincerely Yours,
COURTLAND VAN DUSAN.

Watch Your Speedometer.

The automobilist pays into the treasury of the State of Pennsylvania more than three million dollars annually for the privilege of coaxing his car over State Roads that in most cases are little short of abominable. This sum of three millions of dollars is a mere bagatelle to the sum he pays for the damage to his machine, caused by the cuppy bumpy rutty stony roads that he must of necessity go over, if he is to get any use of his machine.

When he goes out for a day's run, there is so much of the road over which he must go limping along, that when he finds a smooth stretch, he is tempted to make up lost time, and naturally hits it up, and a speed of thirty miles in the open country on a decent road is only a moderate gait; but as the law says you must not exceed twenty-four miles, you must either hold your machine down to that limit or take chances. This is what happened down four miles east of Gettysburg one Sunday afternoon recently, on a nice peace of road: An eighth-mile was measured off. A State policeman in plain clothes was put on the job and in three hours he was able to go before a justice of the peace and make information against 82 drivers for exceeding the speed limit. The policeman admitted that there were seventy others going at the rate of thirty miles an hour that he did not get. From the 82 that he did get, there was no back talk. It was a matter of the driver or his boss separating himself from fourteen dollars—$10 fine and $4 costs.

The operation is entirely painless. The first intimation you have that you have been pinched is when you get a letter at the post office on a fine day that you have been assessed $14, and that it is payable at sight to Squire Jones, whose post office address is Jonesville. It is the State that has you, and you have the choice of being a prompt payer or losing your license.

Another State Policeman made information before Justice of the Peace Mohler at Mechanicsburg last week against autoists who were traveling between Hogs-town, Cumberland County and Harrisburg on the pike between Carlisle and Harrisburg. Mohler sails that a fine of $25 and costs would be laid for the first offense, and double that sum for subsequent offenses. Among the autoists in the bunch last named were D. M. Rahauer of Chambersburg, D. E. Long of Fayetteville, and Frank Holler of Shippensburg.

We respectfully suggest that a policeman be stationed on the Lincoln Highway almost anywhere between McConnellsburg and the top of Sideling Hill mountain to encourage autoists to speed up enough to keep out of the way of ox teams hauling cord wood.

Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber Company, helped awaken the country to the economic value of the automobile last fall. He said—

“Everything on wheels must be used and mobilized. “The automobile is second to the railroads as an adjunct and supplementary to them in collecting and distributing merchandise.

“Owners should use their cars, both passenger and commercial, more and more.”
