Unshaken Testimony.

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in McConnellsburg. No McConnellsburg resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

John P. Conrad, McConnellsburg, says: "I had terrible pains across my back and I didn't sleep well at night. I was very nervous and when I got up in the morning, I was more tired than when I went to bed. Doan's Kidney Pills soon freed my back from pain."

Over Four Years Later, Mr. Conrad said: "I haven't needed any medicine for backache or other kidney trouble since I used Doan's Kidney Pills."

Raising Sheep.

"Small flocks of sheep may be kept on most farms with much benefit to the land and profit to the owner," says Dr. C. J. Marshall, State Veterinarian of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Discussing sheep raising Dr. Marshall says:

"The majority of farmers have a strong personal liking for sheep and would derive pleasure as well as profit from their flocks if it were not for the discouraging losses which are frequent occurrence. These losses are due principally to stray dogs and parasitic diseases. The dog question is largely in the hands of the farmers themselves;—if they insist upon the rigid enforcement of the present dog laws the problem will be solved.

"The parasitic diseases are due to infection of lung worms, stomach worms, and a particular form of intestinal parasite which causes "noplur" disease. The parasites are propagated on wet lands and will be carried from season to season if sheep are pastured continuously on such fields during a succession of years. To obtain best results with sheep they should be pastured on dry uplands avoiding low marshy places, and not pastured on the same fields during two successive years. Our hill land should furnish ideal conditions for sheep provided it is not overstocked and the range of the herds changed each season. Sheep are valuable as gleaners after a crop has been taken off and to clean up fence rows and underbrush. In this way they obtain a part of their living from materials which otherwise would be wasted.

"It is not practical for our eastern farmers to compete with western rangers in extensive sheep raising; but conditions have recently changed so that small flocks can be made quite profitable. The price of wool has greatly advanced and there is such an urgent demand that eastern farmers are contracting for the sale of wool before the sheep grow it. There is an interesting demand and always a good market for lamb and prime mutton. The conditions are much more favorable to the eastern farmer with a small flock to produce a more finished product than can be done on the western ranges. The carcasses and wool demand a higher price and when the cost of transportation is considered it looks as though the eastern farmer has the advantage in the large eastern markets which demand a high class, finished carcass. In supplying this demand we should look to the raising of pure-bred sheep. There may be some truth in the old adage:

"Whistling girls and good fat sheep. Are the best property a farmer can keep"

Build Only Necessary Roads, is Order of U. S.

Washington, June 20.—Highway construction and maintenance during the war should be "directed only to those roads which are of prime importance for economic and military purposes," the national council of defense declared yesterday in transmitting to state councils of defense a letter from Secretary Houston.

Federal agencies controlling materials for road building will be governed by this policy, and the national council asked that state highway departments be induced to co-operate.

Use wherever possible of local road building material is urged, to save transportation and avoidance of bond issues in extreme cases, is asked in order that such financing will not conflict with war loans.

"As far as possible, important highways already constructed should be maintained," the council declared, "and those should be constructed which are of vital importance because of their bearing on the war. These may be summarized as follows:

"Those which are utilized or will be utilized by the military establishment.

"Those which carry considerable volume of materials and supplies essential to war industries.

"Those which have a bearing upon the production and distribution of food supplies, connecting population and shipping centers with surrounding agricultural areas."

Hints for Wives.

Perchance you think that your husband's disposition is much changed; that he is no longer the sweet-tempered ardent lover he used to be. This may be a mistake. Consider his struggle with the world, his everlasting race with busy competition of trade. What is it that makes him so eager in the pursuit of gain, so energetic by the day, so sleepless by night, but his love of home, wife and child, and a dread that their respectability, according to the light in which he has conveyed it, may be encroached upon by the strife of existence. This is the true secret of that silent care which preys upon the hearts of many men; and true it is, that when love is least apparent, it is nevertheless the active principle which dominates the heart, though fears and disappointments make up a cloud which obscures the warmer element. As above the clouds there is a glorious sunshine while below are showers and gloom, so with the conduct of man behind the gloom of anxiety there is a bright fountain of high and noble feeling. Think of this in those moments when clouds seem to lower upon your domestic peace and by tempering your conduct accordingly, the gloom will soon pass away and warmth and brightness take its place.

Strange Fatality.

Last Friday evening a week, Mrs. Cleveland Price aged 24 years, was busy at her home at Imbertown, Bedford County doing some ironing for the children. A thunder shower was in progress. As she was passing in front of the phone with an iron in her hand and approaching the stove, she was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The current seems to have entered by the telephone wire, and struck her on the right arm. Her grandmother, Mrs. Lucinda Jay was killed at the Cliffs, near Bedford, twenty-two months ago, when she was struck by a train; and her brother-in-law, Roy Wolford, was also killed eleven months ago, while employed at the ganister works, near Bedford.

Dare Not Buy Sugar At Various Stores.

Consumers who travel from store to store in an effort to secure more sugar than is permitted by the food regulations are subject to penalty for hoarding, according to a statement by the Fulton county food administrator.

Purchases for private consumption are limited to two pounds at a time for town residents and five pounds for country districts. Additional purchases must not be made until the first sugar purchased is about consumed.

Sugar for canning and preserving purposes may be bought in twenty-five pound amounts, after the consumer has signed a certificate stating the amount on hand—which must be less than five pounds—and pledging that the sugar is to be used for the purpose stated.

The unpatriotic practice of visiting a number of stores in order to secure several weeks' or a month's supply should be reported by both grocers and patriotic citizens to the food Administrator, McConnellsburg and vigorous action will be taken.

Although sufficient sugar may still be secured for a reasonable amount of preserving, all households are from Monday limited to three pounds of sugar a month for each person. The new ruling went into effect Monday morning.

War Paragraphs.

Women stenographers and typists are now being enrolled in the Naval Reserve as yeomen.

Over 3,000 women are at work in the production of gas masks at the Long Island gas-defense plant.

COST OF FEEDING SOLDIERS

The war department has estimated that it will cost about 35 cents a day to feed each soldier. If you buy a $50 bond you provide sufficient money to purchase one day's meals for 143 men at the front.

If you buy a $100 Liberty Bond you provide the government a day's food for more than a company of soldiers. If you buy a $1000 Liberty Bond you will provide the cost of a day's food for almost a full regiment.

When you remember Secretary Baker's statement that we expect to have a half million men at the front this summer it will be easy for you to appreciate the volume of Liberty Bonds necessary to provide their daily food.

THE BADGE OF HONOR

The accompanying illustration shows the design of the badge of honor which has been prepared for buyers of Third Liberty Loan Bonds. These badges of honor will be distributed by the millions to loyal Americans who subscribe for the new bonds. In previous campaigns the badges of honor were very highly prized, and many people are still wearing their First and Second Liberty Loan badges.

There are no regrets in a Liberty Bond.

If the Kaiser rules this country here'll be no Liberty Bonds and no liberty.

If you haven't yet bought a Liberty Bond, now's the time. If you've already bought one, buy another.
