IT HAPPENED IN McCONNELLSBURG.

And Is Happening to McConnellsburg. People Every Week.

The case told below is not an uncommon thing. The same oc curs frequently and will continue to happen as long as folks have kidneys and overtax the kidneys.

Riley Peck, shoemaker, Mc-Connellsburg, says: "I was troubled with my kidneys and soreness in my back. I was dizzy at times and my eyes were affected. I had to get up often at night on account of kidney weakness and I was all tired out in the morning. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Trout's Drug Store gave me great relief and I haven't had any bad spmptoms of the trouble since."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy same that Mr. Peck had. Foster-Milburn Co, Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

The great German drive that has been expected momentarily for the last two weeks, was launched Monday morning at 6 were not taken by surprise, and met the attack with that preparedness and determination that must mean victory in the end. Every hour since the drivebegan, the battle has been raging. With the Germans, it is-now or never. The Allies feel that defeating them now, will mean the -get Doan's Kidney Pills-the swift hastening of the end of the war. But, the slaughter of human life is appalling, and it is the Germany army that is suffering. The latest dispatches bring nothing but encouragement for our troops. NU STATE UNITS IN ARMY. The response from the general staff to the request by Governor Neville that the former Nebraska National Guard regiments be brigaded as a unit for overseas service gives cogent reasons for not following that course. State pride is fully recognized at the war department, but more important considerations have determined the disposition of troops. To begin with, Ne braska troops, along with those of other states, lost any distinguishing state designations when they entered the service of the government and became an integral part of the military forces of the United States. Since Mrs. J. L. Garland and sons, then more young men have gone out Floyd, Bruce and James, formerly under the selective draft than were in the Guard regiments, and no effort has been made to separate them. All are inextricably mixed and the reading of the casualty lists now coming Friday returning on Sunday, back will show how completely mere accompanied by Mrs. Garland's local distinctions have been lost sight of. This is not a war of states, but of the nation, says Omaha Bee. The forces under the president are not composed of 48 little armies, but of one big, general organization, which the officers are striving to weld into one homogeneous whole, in which there will be no rivalry between states, other than the wholesome and generous competition of the men themselves to uphold home traditions.

> Advice is something that somebody who has been through a thing that you are just starting into gives you along with a pain. It (the advice), is free, and worth it. As a rule, old people give young people advice and young people don't take it. Most of the advice in the world is about choosing a career and getting married, and both of these are usually dismal failures. Once in a while you meet a person who never gives advice and never takes that, if desired, armored planes can any. Stick to him. He is a rare in- be turned out at short notice,

PICKED THE WRONG NIGHT

Sharkey and the Officer Disagreed About the Date of Planned Smuggling.

Sharkey, the artful dodger of a o'clock, with all the fury possible gang of dock workers, had become at their command. The Allies, the happy possessor of a considerable quantity of tobacco while he was on duty. He was in a quandary, evade the strict surveillance of the officers of the law in order to get his treasure out of the docks without paying the duty.

On passing out of the gates that night, he bribed one of the officers to allow him to go out on the following evening without being searched, as he would have some tobacco with him.

The officer, although falling in with Sharkey's arrangement, decided to make a capture the next night.

"I charge this man with having concealed about him a quantity of tobacco, which he is attempting to take away without having paid the duty," said the officer to his chief the next night.

"Is that a fact, my man?" asked the chief.

"No, sir," replied Sharkey,

Whereupon he was subjected to a thorough search and, no tobacco being found, he was at once released.

"But what about the arrangement we made?" asked the officer of Sharkey when they were alone. "Oh, that's all right, old man. I had the tobacco with me then," said Sharkey, as he marched out of the gates, much to the disgust of the officer .- Top Notch Magazine.

HOW WATER STRIDER WALKS.

Have you learned how the big water strider walks around on the tor of the water without getting wet? asks Naturalist E. F. Bigelow. It is much the same as you might walk on top of a led without getting into the bed. Your feet would sink down into the thick comfortables, mattress and springs, but you would not be in the bed. Watch this water strider-or perhaps you will call it a skater, although it is rather queer to think of skating in summer. When it skates along in the sunlight you may see a duplicate insect on the bottom of the brook. That is the shadow made by the refraction of the light in the bending of the surface of the water. Yes, water can bend and it can stretch. Balance a needle on the top of a wellfilled tumbler of water. See how it sinks down into the elastic film of the surface. The actions of the surface film under the feet of the strider are much the same.

There is lively argument pro and con on the subject of armor for airplanes. True the German machine which proved to be the death of Lufbery was steel plated. Equally true, however, that it was brought down soon after it had vanquished him. The opinion of Orville Wright is that the armoring of airplanes is of doubtful utility, because it makes them too slow as a rule for easy handling, but he adds

NO HARM IN SPRING FEVER

Is Rather to Be Cultivated Than Combated With Tonics, Declares Medical Writers.

"Spring fever"-a true spring fever -is something to be cultivated, according to the New York Medical Journal. It is not to be combated with laxatives or tonics. The feeling of lassitude and lack of tone is expected annually about however, as to the best means to this time of year, consequently it We unconsciously choose this season as an excuse for giving way to "an indolence which is always seeking to turn us out to play. This pleasure desire withdrawn from the task, that abundant flow of interest which rightfully knows neither times nor seasons, and which truly exercises the body away from fatigue and malaise. The hav of conservation of energy, however, teaches us that withdrawn energy is only at work somewhere else."

It is, in the medical writer's opinion, man's immemorial and somewhat magical feeling of Identification with the world of nature that brings out at this season a "renewed impulse of selfexpression, and for exercise of creative power." The restraints and conventions of a complex civilization, however, make us repress and inhibit these impulses. Hence the marest.

But if we would cultivate the "spring fever" by pitching energetically into creative work it may be made to supplant all periods of default of energy, and we may have spring with us always and under all circumstances,

HAS BATTLE FLAG OF CORTEZ

Mexican Living in San Antonio, Tex., Owns Pennant Carried by Comqueror 400 Years Ago.

The battle flag carried by Herman Cortez, conqueror of Mexico, when he vanquished the Aztecs, overthrew the dynasty of the Montezumas and entered triumphantly into Tenochtitlan, now the City of Mexico, 400 years ago, thus planting European civilization on the Western Continent, is now in San ntonio, says the San Antonio Light,

The pennant, one of the most remarkable works of art extant and a historical relic that has no counterpart in the world, is owned by Senor Ernesto Fernandez y Arteaga, 520 West Euclid street, former Mexican minister to Honduras during the Madero regime. It has been in his family nearly a century, and its history is well authenticated, not only by private documents, but also by free mention in the archives of the Mexican nation,

All Over an Umbrella. An elderly old gentleman kicked up an awful fuss at the Vanderbilt hotel coatroom in New York recently. He had presented his check for his cont and hat, had went away and returned. demanding his umbrella. The boy asked him for a check and he explained that he had presented the check in order to get his cont and hat. The boy told him to look over the rack and see if his umbrella was there, and inasmuch as the elderly gentleman was nearsighted, he found it necessary to take all of the 26 umbrellas, one at a time, over to the window. He recognized none of them. The boy, exceedingly patient, told the excited searcher that little remained to be done. There being no check, and the man finding it impossible to identify his property, the hat boy was quite right. There was a pause, after which the elderly man slammed his hat down on his head, drew over a chair and, announcing that he would sit there until his umbrella was found, sat down violently. It happened that his umbrella had been hanging from the inside of his right overcoat armhole during the discussion. When he sat down the ferule of the umbrella hit the floor the handle hit the complainer's chin and his hat bounded quite out of the room. He followed it.

New Peas and Beans. Up in New York a veritable human dynamo, sixty years young, is evolv ing for America finer races of peas and beans than the world has ever known says the World's Work. Future gen erations will come to know C. N. Keeney as the man who took the string out of the string bean. All his life he has worked over beans. Almost thirty years ago he evolved the first bush beans that were really fit to be eaten -stringless, green podded. Since then almost a score of new varieties have been evolved by him, some green, some yellow, some flåt, some round, some early, some late, but all without resilient, dustless, sanitary, waterproof and not liable to become slippery, is made from fibrous materials in the process patented by J. E. Clark of Toronto. Substances like straw, corn stalks, sugar cane and wood chipsbut not including woodpulp or sawdust-are boiled with water, pressed between rollers to remove the excess of water and then immersed in as phalt, bitumen or other binding material, heated from 20 degrees to 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Removed from this bath by suitable mechanical means, the product is compressed and allowed to harden in the sun.

Pavements From Straw. A payement that is claimed to be

Proof of the Fact.

"I can prove to the satisfaction of the court that my client in stealing the watch of the complainant was netuated by the most laudable motive of economy.

"What was that, sir?" "He merely wanted to gain time."

USUAL TRICK.

"James married a magician's daughter and found she understood her father's art." "How so?"

"He had asked her hand in marriage, but he found it in his pocket."

ITS LOCATION.

"Have you got a site yet for that new summer cottage you have been planning?"

"Oh, yes." "Where is it " "In my mind's eye."

Novel Treatment. A whirlpool bath is the novel treatment applied at a hospital in Manchester, England, for cases of rheumatism, following typhoid and dysentery. The tank, large enough for 12 men, contains 4 feet of water and is provided with sents on which the bathers are immersed to their necks. The temperature is kept at 93 degrees Fahrenheit, just below that of the body. The room is quiet and dimly lighted, and after an hour in the bath the men go to

By a Long Path,

"All that we possess has come to us by a long path. There is no instantaneous liberty or wisdom, language or religion." Even that which comes to us as a sudden revelation is but the opening of our eyes or minds to behold that which has long been begun by toll and struggle. It reaches us as the sunlight does in the morning, when it has travelled around the world,

First Called Sleuthhounds. Bloodhounds were first known as sleuthhounds, owing to their ability to track the deer, wild boar or the wolf. When the wounded game broke away and was lost, these good-nosed dogs were used in trailing the quarry by the blood trail, and hence they were finally called bloodhounds.

Memories of the Crowded City. "This ark is terribly crowded with all these animals aboard," remarked Japhet. "Yes," replied Shem. "And it's lonely at that. It makes me think of one of those apartment houses where they let people have all kinds of pets and won't admit children,"
