

$50,000,000 for Good Roads.

In the popular absorption in the great war it is to be hoped that the voters of Pennsylvania will not overlook two important proposed constitutional amendments that will be submitted to them at next week's election. One, of State-wide interest, authorizes the Commonwealth to issue bonds to the amount of $50,000,000 for the purpose of rebuilding and improving its highways. Regarding the desirability of such work there can be no question. Five years ago, when a similar amendment was submitted to the people, it was rejected because of well-justified suspicion regarding the powers that be. Since then the people have been more generally educated up to the importance of good roads, and the State Highway Department has lived down the odium that formerly attached to it.

Pennsylvania cannot afford to lag in the improvement of its highways. New York has spent much more than $50,000,000 in such work. Illinois will vote next week on a proposed bond issue of $60,000,000 for good roads, and nearly all the States of the Union are taking action along similar lines. The current revenues of the Commonwealth are not great enough to justify the appropriation from them of sums in keeping with the magnitude of the work to be done. The necessary improvements can, therefore, only be secured in a reasonable time through the issue of bonds, and in the payment of these, as well as in the enjoyment of the modernized highways, posterity will bear its share with the present generation. Our roads are much better now than they were five years ago, but the improvement does not proceed fast enough. Rapid progress can only be assured by means of a generous issue of bonds, in the benefits from which all sections of the State will participate.

Bear these facts in mind next Tuesday, and vote for the proposed amendment. It will help to pull Pennsylvania out of the mud and made this a better State to live in.

She Would Wait.

A little girl went over to her playmate's house to play. Since her playmate's grandmother was sick the children were asked to be quite still. But they soon forgot about that and became noisy, and of course the little visitor got ready to go home after they had been scolded for their noise. But, nevertheless, she took time to say this: "Well, Jan, when your grandm'ar dies let me know and I'll come over and play with you."

We Are Progressing

There is an old proverb that a wise man changes his mind, but a fool never does. The wise man has to change his mind to keep up with the times.

Your grandfather thought he was putting on style when he took his best girl out horseback riding. The young man today would like to have a six-cylinder car for his lady love. The smart man of today will be considered "old fogies" by the next generation. We are progressing, changing, keeping step with the times, that's all. Especially in this time of financial matters, modern banking. Few people keep their money hid about the house or run the risk of carrying it on their person. They follow the modern plan, keep their funds in a reliable bank like ours and pay by check. It's the safe, modern, convenient way.

SALVIA.

The public schools in Licking Creek Township were ordered closed for two weeks, beginning Monday morning, October 28, 1918, owing to the prevalence of an epidemic of influenza, so rapidly spreading over our land. Our neighbor, Joseph Sipes is quite seriously ill at this writing, with a general breakdown of his system, and weakness, incident to age.

Veteran J. Andrew Haden is still in a critical condition, and sinking daily.

A number of cases of influenza are currently reported to have started in Licking Creek Valley, but until the contagious subsides somewhat, we can not give any very definite information as to what families are affected. Webster defines influenza, "An epidemic nasal catarrh."

The greatest influx of hunters from other parts of the State ever known to Licking County, have been coming daily since Saturday and Sunday, October 19th and 20th. Mrs. Bertie Haun, near Dealer O. who has been visiting relatives and friends in this County since August, started Monday morning early to return to her home.

Backing up Good Roads Smiles.

Mr. Sproul has come not unequivocally in favor of the amendment to the State Constitution providing for the issue of $50,000,000 in aid of good roads which is to be voted on by the people of this State at the coming election. This is the same amendment which was voted down a few years ago because, as was alleged, the farmers feared it meant an increase of taxes. There was reason to believe that they were sorry for their action, but this does not accord with reports from Harrisonburg that the State Grange, or at least many members of it, oppose the amendment.
