The Editor and his wife appreciate very much the gift of a jar of fine canned peaches for Thanksgiving and a bouquet of choice Chrysanthemums from Mrs. T. K. Downes and Miss Anna Smith. The peaches grew from a peach grafted on a plum stock many years ago by Miss Smith's father the late County Commissioner Bartimeus Smith. The peaches are said to have a peculiarly pleasant flavor of the plum and peach combined.

Blames It on Teeth.
According to a Paris physician, premature baldness is due to some trouble with the teeth.

Card of thanks.

Use Apples Now.

Before the war one-sixth of our total apple crop found its way to England, Germany, and Scandinavia.

But there is no steady foreign market for apples at present and we may, therefore, expect a large home supply. Because transportation in this country is under such strain, however, it is possible that those who do not live in apple-growing regions will not benefit from this unusually large home supply.

This places increased responsibilities on those who can obtain apples easily to see that none are wasted. Use them freely. It would be hard to find a more wholesome food. Eat them in their natural state and cooked. Make them into jellies, apple outter and jams. Save the "windfalls" by cutting out the bruised part and drying the rest. Another way to save apples that cannot be kept for winter is to make them into apple sauce and can it. All apples, no matter how poor, can be preserved.

Late Pasture.

Warm rains and the absence of the usual cool weather has made fall pasture unusually good. The mistake so commonly made every fall of pasturing until snow falls shall not be made again this year. This is particularly true in pasturing the newly seeded clover. Many a fine stand of clover is destroyed by too late pasturing in the fall. Under no condition should this be pastured after the first of November.

Old meadows or well-established permanent pastures may be used up until rough weather sets in without serious injury to the plantation. Where late pasturing is made a practice, shelter from cold rains and frosty nights should be provided. This is particularly true where colts are allowed to pasture late in the fall.

"A good deal of misinformation exists regarding the value of late pasture," says Dr. J. R. Rosenberger, farm adviser of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "Many farmers think they save feed by allowing stock to run out as late as possible. It is true they do, but too often at the expense of the weight of the animals. Often the splendid gains made on early fall pasture are almost all lost again before the stock are taken to the yard and put on a winter ration. Pasture grasses lose their nutritious value when the sap through severe freezing is driven from the blades of the plants into the root system."

RECORD OF DEATHS.

where he grew to manhood. In 1862, he enlisted in Co. E 132nd Reg. Pa. Vols. At the expiration of the term, he reenlisted in Co. F, 2nd Reg. Artillery, and served until Jan. 1, 1866. During this time he took part in many of the great battles of the Civil War.

A few years after the close of the war, he was united in marriage to Miss Elsie S. Whitmyer of Lairdsville, and moved to Kansas where they lived 11 years, moving from there to Warfordsburg 30 years ago. His wife preceded him to the grave six years ago.

Mr. Crist is survived by the following grown children: Mrs. May Halderman, Kansas City, Mo.; Frank B. Lewistown, Pa.; Mrs. Sylvia Hiles, May's Chapel; Bundy O. Clyde W. Harry J. and Miss Fern, at Warfordsburg.

Mr. Crist was a good citizen and well-beloved by all who knew him. He was a staunch patriot to the last, and the flag for which he gave the best four years of his life, was lowered with his casket into his grave.

ELMER W. HORTON.

Elmer Wells Horton, son of Benjamin and Catharine Horton, formerly of Taylor Township, died in the hospital at Robertsdale, Pa., on Friday, November 1, 1918, aged about 31 years. The cause of his death was influenza, developing into pneumonia. Elmer's wife and four children were all sick with the same disease, and with little help, the burden of caring for them fell upon him. When he went down with it, it was thought best to send him to the hospital, but the worn down condition of his body and the virulent type of the disease, soon brought the end. The funeral, which was private, was held on Monday, and interment was made at Robertsdale. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Annie Parks, of Robertsdale, and by four children—the eldest being 10 years of age, and the youngest four months; also, by his mother and the following sisters and brother: Etta, wife of Howard Fleck, Broadtop City; Carrie, wife of William Deavor, near Hustontown; Annie, wife of Howard Nonemaker, Cherry Grove; John, of Robertsdale, and Bertha, wife of Albert McCoy of the same place. His brother Harry died at the Blair Memorial hospital at Huntingdon two years ago as the result of a surgical operation.

Elmer was an industrious, kind hearted man—always ready to help any one in need. He was a skillful barber, having learned the trade in Cleveland, O. With Vaine Brown, he conducted a barber shop at Robertsdale for several years. He was also the local food administrator.

S. K. MORGRET.

Stillwell Kirk Morgret, or "Stillie" as he was more familiarly known to his friends, died at his home in Shiremanstown, Pa., Monday, October 21, 1918. He had, as he supposed, recovered from an attack of influenza, but going to work too soon, he brought on a relapse which his already weakened condition was not able to sustain. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Gabel, of the Brethren Church of God took place on the 24th, and interment was made in Slate Hill cemetery. The deceased was a son of the late Aaron Morgret of Ayr township, and he was aged about 26 years. He is survived by his wife and four children. The names of the children are Mary, Margaret, Pearl, and Carl.

He is also survived by his mother, and by the following sisters and brother: Lizzie, wife of David Brinkley, Harrisburg; Jennie, wife of Harry Spangler, Altenwald; Ella, wife of James W. Craiz, Leitersburg, Md.; Hattie, wife of Frank Gress, Fort Loudon; Blanche, wife of Harry Sheaffer, Marion; Mrs. Daisy Moser, Lemoyne, and George W., near Big Cove Tannery.

The deceased was a popular and efficient employe of the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Company.

MRS. MILLER

Mrs. Stella Caroline Miller, was born July 25, 1897, died November 4, 1918, aged 21 years, 3 months and 9 days. Mrs. Miller was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Tridle of Fort Loudon and is survived by her husband, parents and two sisters and five brothers. The sisters are Mrs. Clarence Zeger of Fort Loudon and Mary at home; the brothers are Merrill, Raymond Charles, Reid and Kenneth all at home. The deceased was married July 3rd, 1918 to B. F. Miller of Mercersburg where they lived until the very sad death of this most excellent woman, in the bloom of life.—She was a member of Trinity Ev. Lutheran Church, Fort Loudon, Rev. W. G. Slifer, pastor, but on account of his indisposition the funeral was conducted by Rev. E. A. Repass of the Lutheran Church in Mercersburg, taking place from the home, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, November 6, with interment in Fairview Cemetery, Mercersburg.

MISS EMMA HESS.

Miss Emma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hess, near Andover, died in Willard, O., last week, of acute indigestion. Her remains were sent to Hancock, from which place they were conveyed last Sunday by Undertaker Will Truax, to the home of her parents, from which place the funeral was held on Monday, interment being made at the Sideling Hill Christian church. The deceased was aged about 20 years and is survived by her parents, two brothers and a sister.

The funeral services were conducted by Revs. Calvin Garland and John Mellott. The immediate cause of her death was a surgical operation for indigestion which was recommended by her physician. She was a member of the U. B. Church, and loved to attend church and Sunday school.

C. H. E. PLUMMER

At the age of 70 years, 7 months and 25 days, Clarence H. E. Plummer died at his home near New Grenada, Tuesday, October 22, 1918. He was born in Woodcock Valley, Huntingdon county, Pa., February 27, 1848. When just a boy, he removed with his parents to Trouhereck Valley. When he became of age, he went to Peoria, Ill., where he spent a few years, and then returned to New Grenada and engaged in the mercantile business about 25 years, May 29, 1874, he was married to Miss J. Belle Grisinger of New Grenada and to this union were born two children—Clyde A., living on the home farm, and Wildry L., who died when ten years of age. In 1899, he moved from New Grenada to the farm, where he remained four years and then went to Sixmile Run, and was there twelve years as manager of a store for the Huntingdon Coal Company. Then, moved back to the farm and lived a retired life—working when he felt like it. The cause of his death was dropsy. He was a kind husband and father and will be missed by a host of friends. The funeral services were conducted by S. C. Keller of Camp Hill, and interment was made in Bethel cemetery at New Grenada.

information of the weather conditions prevailing over the route and issuing weather forecasts and warnings of heavy snows and cold waves for the region traversed. The plans for the assistant superintendents of highways at points along the route to report to the weather Bureau office at Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock each morning by telephone or telegraph the depth of snow or ice on the highway, giving its general condition. These reports are published in the newspapers and furnished to the different automobile clubs, thus becoming available to automobile and motor truck drivers passing over the highway. The forecasts and warnings are given public distribution and telegraphed to the superintendent of highways at Harrisburg, who gives instructions to his forces along the highway to make provisions for the anticipated weather conditions. This service was in operation last winter and gave great satisfaction. The Weather Bureau is ready to give similar service to other traffic routes as may be desired.
