

T. H. HARTER. He that will not reason is a bigot; he that cannot is a fool; he that dare not is a slave. EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

POETRY

Lamentous From Lullaby. Time is a fiction and a not fate. Though it flows in a stream, Time there is it in vain.

AFTER THE STORM

"Hark! what is that?" Linton grasped the arm of his friend, and both paused to listen.

GLEANNINGS.

Oranges are cheaper than apples in New York. The governor of North Carolina grants no pardons.

STYLISH PARK HORSES.

Wherein America is Said to Lead the World in Coaches. A stirring picture of horse life worth looking at can be seen on any clear afternoon by standing in Central Park near the obelisk, and watching four-in-hand teams, tandems, cabs, and other vehicles come bounding over the rise in the driveway just beyond the Museum of Art.

THE DEMOCRACY OF FASHION.

The development of social convention under republican institutions is to be expected. One man is as good as another, and if he thinks himself better he must be careful not to betray his consciousness of superiority lest he set down as a conceited snob.

THE HARE AND CHIPMUNK.

"I'm hurried to death," said the Hare, when the dogs were after him, to the Chipmunk, who begged that he would stop and crack a nut of gossip with him.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE RAILWAY.

The Brooklyn Bridge Railway can only accommodate about 6,000 passengers an hour, and it is urged by many that this capacity should be increased ten times and earn nearly all the bridge income, while tolls for the foot bridge should be abolished and those of the carriage ways reduced one-half.

BECHER SAYS THE ANGELS HOLD THEIR BREASTS.

Becher says the angels hold their breasts when they look down on a Wall street man.
