Republican Ticket.

- For President, JAMES G. BLAINE, of Maine. Vice President, JOHN A. LOGAN, of Illinois. For Congress, LOUIS E. ATKINSON, of Juniata county.

Harpers Weekly turned against Blaine because he gave his book "Twenty years in Congress" to another house for publication.

In the Democratic convention of Union county last week, Hon. A. H. Dill was nominated for Congress in this district by acclamation, and given the privilege of selecting his own conferees.

There are now about 225,000 pensioners of all classes, and of these 225,000 are the soldiers themselves. The remainder are widows, minor children, and dependent parents, including 1,200 survivors of the war of 1812, and nearly 3,000 widows of the soldiers who served in that war.

This Republic of ours is unquestionably the greatest agricultural nation in the world. In that respect it stands proudly pre-eminent at the head of modern civilization. It also follows as a natural consequence to this progress and prosperity that the Republic is the richest, most enterprising and the most commercial nation, although her chief efforts are directed to internal developments and trade, or rather perhaps we should say in consequence thereof.

At the close of the war there were 45 men on the pension list who had lost both arms, and 48 who had lost both legs. One poor fellow in Minnesota is still living who lost both his arms and legs. He has a pension of $100 per month. Many of the armless men have iron hooks and tongs. Doorkeeper Decker, of Washington, can write very well with his iron hand, and eat oysters from the shell. At present there are 22 armless and 32 legless soldiers living.

The Senatorial district composed of the counties of Northumberland, Union and Snyder will make choice of a successor to Senator Wolverton, Democrat, at the coming election. The district is a contested election is Republican, but notwithstanding this fact Senator Wolverton has represented the district for six years. That he is an honorable, upright gentleman, an able lawyer and a good representative, goes without saying, but he is a Democrat, and on political questions votes with his party, and therefore should be succeeded by a Republican. There are good men and true Republicans in this district; men who will reflect credit upon their constituents if they are chosen, and we can see no good reason why the district should not be represented in the Senate by a man who will reflect the political sentiment of the district. There ought to be a Republican gain in Northumberland.

THE IRISH FOR BLAINE

There is no mistaking the fact that in the present Presidential contest—the hearts of the Irish people in this country are for Blaine as against Cleveland. The most intelligent of the Irish newspapers, voice the sentiment of their country-men in favor of the Republican candidate, because they recognize in him a man whose words and acts in the past given them better assurance of sympathy in the future than they can extract from the record of his Democratic opponent, Mr. Cleveland. It seems to be the main business and occupation of the Democratic organs just now to deny the existence of any Irish revolt within the party, but the zeal which they devote to the denial only proves the existence of the very thing which they attempt to disprove. Never before in the history of American politics was it deemed necessary to enter upon a defense of Irish loyalty to the Democratic party. It was always taken for granted that whatever other nationality might prove false to the Democratic banner, every Irishman who had a right to vote was certain to cast his ballot for the Democratic ticket on election day. To-day the real subject of inquiry in connection with this subject should be, not why the Irish should vote for Blaine, but why they have in the past persistently voted against the party of which Mr. Blaine is to-day the honored standard bearer. It is simply a case in which the fact remains long after the circumstances which produced the fact have ceased to exist. The Irish began to vote the Democratic ticket in this country as a measure of self-protection. They found the old Whig party inheriting the prejudices against foreigners handed down to them by the old Federal party, and they naturally allied themselves with the Democracy as the foe of both Federalism and Whiggery. The war changed these conditions without changing the loyalty of the Irish to the Democratic party. The Whig party went to pieces, and the best half of it joined the Southern Democracy, to become in a few years the most formidable portion of the Great Rebellion. The old enemies of the Irish in the South joined with their old friends in that section to make war against the Union. The Irish question was buried and forgotten in the secession question. Old things passed away, and a new world of politics was begun, in which Irishism as Irishmen had no interest, but in which all had interest only as they were in favor of or against the preservation of the American Union. It follows from all this that the Irish have been acting with the Democracy for nearly twenty-five years without being able to give any substantial reason for it. The spirit of Know-Nothingism in this country disappeared when the Republican party came into power—a party essentially National and in no way international in its character—a party whose mission was wholly directed to home affairs, and which welcomed alike natives and foreigners who sympathized with its aims and its purposes. Yet still the Irish were Democrats. They did not undertake to say why, but they voted the Democratic ticket regularly and vigorously. In return, what have they received? A few local honors here and there, but scarcely a National recognition worthy of the name. More than half the Democrats elected to Congress since 1861 have owned their election to Irish votes, yet how many Irishmen have been elected to Congress in that time? Not half a dozen. Mr. Finerty is an Irish member of the present Congress, but he is there by the votes of Irishmen, and not by the votes of Democrats. He had to find a district in which the Irish vote controlled the Democratic vote. He was not elected as a Democrat, but as an Independent. The Democrats of Chicago, like those of St. Louis, find the Irish very useful at the polls, but rarely deem them fit for the honors of office. The Irish vote of New York City has for twenty years been the only block in the way of Republican success in the State, but how many Irishmen has the City of New York elected to Congress in that time? So in Missouri. With the aid of the Irish vote the Republicans can carry this State every year. How many Irishmen have the Democracy honored with more than local office? Everywhere it is the same answer to the same question: What have the Irish done for the Democracy? Everything. What has the Democracy done for the Irish? Nothing.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ELEVEN REASONS.

A young reader asks why he should become a Republican. There are many reasons, but the following are a few: 1 The past twenty years under Republican rule have been the most glorious era in the history of the country. The grand success of the party in the past is the strongest reason for trusting it in the future. 2 Past successes have been due to the right purpose and true wisdom of 4,500,000 Republican voters. These voters have not changed in character or belief. No other body of citizens has shown itself entitled of such confidence. 3 The Republican party trusts the people as no other party does. It has had the courage to serve the best interests of the people, with faith that the intelligence to appreciate. Thus it has represented and obeys not the large land owners at the South, nor the tricksters of the city, but the people. 4 It has always protected labor. The abolition of slavery removed competition of unpaid labor and elevated all labor. The homestead law gave every laborer power to support his family without any dependence on an employer. At the desire of labor the eight hour law was passed, and the importation of coolies prohibited. Above all the party has defended labor by a protective tariff. 5 When goods made by pauper labor abroad can be sold here without paying for admission into this market, the danger is that our own will become pauper labor. The Republican party makes foreign goods pay duty, and so builds up home industry and a home market. The Democratic party has constantly tried to break down this system. 6 The Republican party protects the civil and political rights of all citizens. In its youth, it refused to deprive adopted citizens of rights. It is the only party that has always resisted attempts to control votes or elections by fraud, fear or force. 7 It has done more than any other party to protect citizens when abroad. Led by Mr. Blaine in Congress, it caused Great Britain to give up the claim that British-born citizens still owned allegiance to the British crown. It is pledged to make American citizenship a safeguard in all lands for every citizen who goes on a lawful errand. 8 It upholds the public faith. No other Nation in history has ever met a great debt as honorably and rapidly as this Nation under Republican rule, in spite of Democratic opposition. Hence no other higher credit. 9 It has given this country, in spite of constant Democratic hostility, a better currency than any other Nation enjoys. Defeat of the party would open the door to the old Democratic currency—to thirty-eight kinds of paper issued at will by wildcat banks. 10 It honors the soldiers who saved the Union by putting down a Democratic rebellion. It has granted large pensions, and has enacted that Union soldiers shall be preferred in the choice of civil officers. It names for Vice President a soldier-statesman, against Hendricks, the copperhead and demagogue. 11 Its candidate for President has exalted ability and great experience, is one of the foremost statesmen of the age, and was selected as his chief adviser by President Garfield. Advise him the Democrats have named a man of no experience or knowledge of men, who never had force enough to make people know or care what his opinions were, and who was nominated by corrupt rings of which he would be the tool.—N. Y. Tribune.

Following is the tariff on some of the farm products when imported from other countries: "Rye and barley, 10 cents per bushel; beef and pork, one cent per pound; cheese, four cents per pound; butter, four cents per pound; lard, two cents per pound; wheat 20 cents per bushel; corn, 10 cents per bushel; oats 10 cents per bushel; hay, $2 per ton; honey, 20 cents per gallon; pickles, sauces, &c., 35 per cent, ad valorem; vegetables, 10 per cent, ad valorem; vinegar, 7 1/2 cents per gallon; fruits, preserved in their own juices, 20 per cent, ad valorem."

The short wheat crop of 1883 in the region feeding the export of the Atlantic coast ports made a difference in the value of the exports of wheat for the last fiscal year of $42,000,000, and it was the chief factor in the reduction of our bread-stuff exports from $203,000,000 in 1883, to $155,000,000 in 1884. A part of this change was due to a fall in price, but the chief cause was a short crop in the interior. In 1883 one-fourth of our wheat left San Francisco for Europe, in 1884 one third. It is these changes which knocked the profit out of the lines, which thread Western wheat fields and turn their grain into the trunk lines, and it is the change back again made probable by an increase of this wheat supply by 70,000,000 or 80,000,000 bushels over last year, which is the real basis of the bull market.

Clara writes to inquire: "What has given woman the reputation of being such a great talker?" We do not know, Clara, unless it is her mouth.

The liver is the largest gland in the human organism and stands guard, as it were, at the portals of health. Properly performing its functions it filters out poisons and impurities from the blood; falling in this duty it is liable to become inflamed, and an occasional dose of McLeod's Improved Liver Pills will relieve it of its troubles and vigorous action of this great gland, and save doctors' bills and days of misery. Bristle-headed physicians can have their money returned.

No one, better than the mother, knows the amount of persuasion, threatening and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm expeller; and no one more highly appreciates the utility of a medicine, which is pleasant and easy to take so effective a remedy, as the mother who has used it. There is nothing in the shape of a vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived. Take no other. Money returned to disappointed purchasers.
