THE SALVATION ARMY.

The arrest of persons belonging to the salvation army because of their peculiar, and to most people, distasteful methods, will bring up for definition the legal question—what is a breach of the peace? or, perhaps, the question as finally presented will be: Do the things done by these people amount to disturbing the public peace? It is alleged that they make a loud noise, but so do bands of music, though the musicians are not arrested nor regarded as offensive. An organ grinder is permitted to send out discordant sounds that not one person in a thousand wants to hear and to do it on the sidewalk in front of the best business houses; every body wants him away, but they wait for him to leave at his will. Officers rarely interfere. A minstrel troop of full grown men who could do well at some useful business, will stretch out a hundred yards or so and march about town blowing brass horns and beating drums, and people will stand on the walks and in house doors and look at them as they pass. Nobody thinks of arresting them. Indeed, there are a great many things that are very noisy and yet permitted to be done on the public streets of cities without giving offense, at least not to the extent of subjecting the parties concerned to arrest.

The Salvation army, however, is offensive in many instances if not in all of their public demonstrations, and there must be something about their performances that goes beyond the mere matter of making a noise, or officers would not feel called upon to interfere in the interests of public peace. There must be something about their displays that tends to provoke disturbance on the part of others; the offensive features must be such as to invite assaults or other unlawful conduct from persons otherwise peaceable and law-abiding. And there is where the truth lies in these cases of trouble caused by the Salvation army. The object, ostensibly, is to spread the Christian religion, but it so happens that their methods are most offensive to other Christians who do not believe in demonstrations of this kind. People generally would like to show respect to things which they regard as sacred, too sacred to be peddled and thundered about the street and hosted in places that respectable people do not visit. And there is something about the history of religion which smacks of war. Even a pious man will fight for his opinions concerning religious matters. These Salvation army people are very offensive to average Christians. They are noisy, rude and ill-behaved as judged by ordinary standards. They march up and down the sidewalks singing and shouting; they sing and pray in front of people's houses on busy thoroughfares; they hold prayer meetings in grocery shops; in many ways they draw upon themselves bad language and on the cause of religion discredit.

Somebody in Washington has taken the job of investigating Hazard's weather bureau and signal service sharp at Washington. Among his expenditures it has been found that a large sum of money has been paid out for whisky. Well, a man can't be expected to get up next weather as Hazard has furnished this country on a milk diet, or cold water. Whisky no doubt accounts for our sufferings, as to weather.

Wonderful Cures. W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., say: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Backlen's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced Consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by G. M. Shindler.

ANYTHING TO BEAT A RAILROAD

In speaking of the movement of the general passenger agents to head off the ticket-scalpers, the New York Daily Indicator says: "The railroads have not adopted the rule requiring limited tickets to be used only for continuous train rides, without excellent reasons. The roads have no desire to prevent passengers from stopping over at places along their lines. On the contrary, they have heretofore made it as convenient as possible for people to do this very thing. But how has the traveling public shown its appreciation of the courtesy? Simply by trying, in every possible way, to swindle the railroads whenever they saw a chance. A man wants to go to Buffalo—what does he do? Buys a ticket to Chicago, and when he gets to Buffalo sells the unused portion of his ticket to a scalper. The railroad is doubly cheated. First, it carries the original swindler to Buffalo for less than it takes a passenger who is too honest to indulge in the luxury of cheating the railroad; and, second, it carries another man from Buffalo to Chicago.

Thousands of able men fall in life for purely physical reasons. They are not torpid but their liver is, and the liver blocks the way. They are irritable, yellow skinned, headachy and miserable. I became that great and declines to work. The medicine that can restore to this organ its natural power will add one hundred per cent to the available force of this world. We know of but one thing able to do this—Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. Notice of advertisement on the estate of JAMES H. HANCOCK, late of Franklin township, Snyder county, Pa., deceased. JAMES H. HANCOCK, Administrator.

go at less than the regular rate.

The posted traveler, who cannot arrange to buy more tickets than he intends to use, never thinks of going to the railroad office for the tickets he wants. He patronizes the scalper, and helps that one to skin the railroad. So it goes, the railroads by an extension of country have been victimized and robbed by the traveling public. The everyday traveler at all times has his eyes open to the chance to beat the public. And so widely has the influence spread that even staid, honest-going people, who travel only occasionally, have come to think it quite the thing to deal entirely with scalpers, and assist in whatever swindle may be necessary to effect a saving for themselves of a few dollars. We are glad that the railroads have decided at last to protect themselves from the dishonesty of people who claim to be more than respectable.

THE MATTER OF ROAD TAX.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has recently rendered several decisions of general interest in the matter of road tax. The right of farmers to work out their road tax has been generally for not universal, conceded, although Supervisors in a few townships in the State insisted that the tax should be paid in money. A test case has been decided in favor of the tax-payers, and the right to work out the tax distinct and finally affirmed. In other cases, collectors of road taxes have claimed a commission on the part worked out, as well as that paid into the township treasury. The Supreme Court decided that all claims for such commissions should be rejected—the working out of the tax imposing no labor on the collector or treasurer, but on the supervisor, who is paid for his services.
