Hart's Big Majority.

All the counties in the State have now completed the official count, showing a plurality for Hart, Rep., for State Treasurer of 44,888.

It is reported that Secretary Lamar will be nominated by President Cleveland for Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and that the nomination will be confirmed by the Senate.

A calculation has been made by the Executive Department at Harrisburg, based on the returned number of taxables, as to the present population of this State.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

The following Thanksgiving Proclamation has been issued by Governor Beaver:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a proclamation:

The President of the United States having designated, by public proclamation, Thursday the 24th day of November next as a day of general thanksgiving to be observed by the people of the United States, I do cordially recommend the people of this Commonwealth to assemble in their respective places of worship on the day aforementioned, to render hearty and united thanks to Almighty God for the goodness and mercy which have been vouchsafed by Him to us as a people during the year.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed this thirty-first day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and twelfth.

JAMES A. BEAVER, GOVERNOR.

Don't Fret Over Lost Battles.

The election is over and many keen disappointments linger behind it, but what's the use of fretting over lost battles? Only the regulation politicians and their dependents and ambitious candidates were really excited over the contest just ended in this city and State.

victors and others vanquished, and the defeated men naturally regard things as generally going to pot, while the successful men see beauty in everything about them; but fretting won't help defeat. However distant candidates may feel this morning in city or State, the great busy world will jog along in its own good way in utter indifference as to who lost or won in the race.

Sometimes good men are defeated but men elected, but let it not be forgotten that the people always even up their own mistakes sooner or later and punish those who have deceived them. Taking the people of this free government in the green and in the dry, they govern themselves better than the people are governed in any other part of the world.

Friday last Spies, Engel, Fisher and Parsons, four of the convicted Anarchists were hanged at Chicago. Lingg committed suicide and Schwab and Fielden had their sentences commuted to imprisonment for life in the Penitentiary at Joliet.

The crime for which the seven men were convicted and sentenced to death, known as the 'Haymarket Tragedy,' occurred on the night of May 4th, 1886. On the 1st of that month the workmen of Chicago, save a few exceptions, struck for an eight hour day. The strike was partially successful.

On the 1st of that month the workmen of Chicago, save a few exceptions, struck for an eight hour day. The strike was partially successful. On May 3d August Spies made a speech in denunciation of the non-union men employed at McCormick's works, the result being encounter between the non-union men and the police on the one side and the strikers on the other, in which several men were killed and many wounded.

Next day there was rioting nearly all day near the McCormick works. The German paper edited by Spies, the Arbeiter Zeitung, of that morning urged the strikers to arms and take destructive action, and the Anarchists busied themselves among the strikers all day, stirring them up.

On the 20th of that month the police, 175 men in all, marched to the scene. As they approached the wagon Fielden shouted: 'Here come the blood-hounds; you do your duty and I'll do mine.' He then stepped from the wagon, and when Bonfield called on the crowd to disperse, Fielden exclaimed, 'we are peaceable!' It is said these words constituted the signal agreed upon.

AGED BY ELECTRICITY.

On the Becksville road, about six miles from the town of Loraine, O., lives a farmer named Max Harman, who came from Pennsylvania about a year ago. Harman's family consists of a wife and three children.

The oldest, named Mary, is a young lady, 19 years of age, who has passed through one of the strangest and most painful experiences which ever fell to the lot of a human being. A short time ago she was a plump, rosy-checked girl, in robust health and of a sunny disposition.

Mary was engaged to be married to a man named Jacob Ebertin, who worked for Mr. Harman and made his home with the family. About two months ago the young couple came to Cleveland to make some purchases and see the sights. One of the young man's friends worked in one of the electric lights establishments at the time.

Medical aid was summoned, and for four days the girl lay in a bed in a paralyzed condition. Then she regained the use of her limbs, but immediately began to lose flesh rapidly, the hair on the left side of her head turned gray and began falling out.

THE ADVENTURES OF A WATCH.

A curious story about a watch has just developed at Try, Ala. Twenty years ago Mr. George Etheridge, who lived in the upper part of Pike county, treated himself to a fine gold watch, for which he paid $155. He took it home, and his father told him that, inasmuch as he had invested so much in a watch, it would be a good idea to take down the maker's name and number, which he did, without ever thinking that little precaution would ever avail anything.
