There are many localities where a crowd of saloons has made all property comparatively valueless that was not a licensed house, and, of necessity, such places have become plague spots and the centres of crime. Some of them are closely contiguous to the best streets and properties of the city, and they not only drive legitimate business away, but they invite the idle, the dissipated and the lawless to take possession and make them noted for disorder. Under the present law, the Judges are compelled to break up all such saloon dominated localities, and they can do it only by such a sweeping revolution as will rededicate those streets to legitimate pursuits and orderly citizens.

Another potent factor in the popular revolution that has stopped short of prohibition only to give a practical test to high license, is the next to universal revolt against the saloon in politics. With six thousand saloons in our midst, they became an omnipotent power in politics, and the best citizen of Philadelphia has been accepted as absolutely unavailable as a candidate, when it could be said that the saloons were against him. And they not only were felt in all primary and general elections, but they to-day dominate half or more of the School Boards of the city. It is this abuse of the power of the saloon; this illegitimate prostitution of a special privilege conferred by the law, that has done more than any other one cause to reduce the saloons of this city from over six thousand to below two thousand. It is a wrong committed by the saloons against themselves, and the law will more and more severely restrain the granting of licenses until the saloon ceases to be a factor in politics. It has no more right to run politics than it has to run churches, and the number of licensed houses a year hence will be lessened or enlarged as the saloon dignifies or degrades its calling. The Judges simply obey the law, and neither the law nor the Judges can be complained of until the licensed houses of the city give like manly obedience to the law and absolutely separate the saloon from politics.

During the year 1887 the emigrants arriving at Castle Garden numbered 450,845 an increase of 82,591 over 1886. Germany sent the largest number, 81,684, followed by Ireland, 56,860; England, 45,696; Italy, 44,274; Sweden, 37,862; Russia, 33,203; Hungary, 17,713; Scotland, 14,864; Norway, 13,011; Austria, 11,762; Denmark 8,375; Bohemia, 6,449; France, 5 999; the Netherlands, 5,500 Wales, 5,449; Switzerland, 4,537, Finland, 4 031, Belgium, 2,362; Roumania, 834, Canada, 711; Greece, 612; Luxemburgh, 572; Spain, 485; West Indies, 466; Malta, 208; Syria, 175; Burmah; 170; Turkey, 169, Armenia, 161; Iceland 158; Mexico, 151; and other countries, 486.

Taxes on Furniture.

Judge Arnold, of Court of Common Please No. 4, filed an opinion yesterday in which he declared that all taxes levied on furniture were illegal. The city asked on Saturday that the tax for 1887 on $18,000 worth of furniture and three pleasure carriages belonging to J. E. Kingsley & Co, of the Continental Hotel, be paid, and they answered that the act of May 13, 1887, abolished all such taxes The Judge delivered a long opinion, in which he said:

Plainer and more effective words for remitting a tax and taking away the means of collecting it could not have been selected. The persistency and zeal manifested in the effort to collect these utterly extinguished taxes make it necessary for me to write at length on a matter which may be considered so plain that there is no room for doubt about it.

Bismarck is a mighty man; none mightier than he has lived for many a decade, and few in all history. His is a will of iron—one that creates circumstances. When, some six months ago, Dr. Bergeman told him that the Crown Prince had cancer, his answer was, 'The Crown Prince must not have cancer.' 'But—' 'I tell you,' fiercely interrupted the man of iron, 'the Crown Prince must not have cancer.' Why not? For this reason: an incurable disease, by the law of the German Empire, bars succession to the throne. The doctors bowed, and Frederick III. is emperor. Mightier than the doctors mightier than the law, and, for the time, mightier than the dread malady, cancer, is the will of Bismark. For the time—yes, but, unfortunately for Bismark, and more unfortunately, humanly speaking, for the new emperor and his ambitious wife, there is a will back of nature mightier than that of the iron Chancellor.

John Snyder Instantly Killed.

On last Friday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock John Snyder, an old and respected citizen of Ferguson Valley, residing about two miles from Lewistown, was instantly killed in the following manner: He was engaged in dragging logs from the foot of the mountain to his sawmill with two horses, when one of the logs came in contact with some stones. In order to loosen it he took a pry and attempted to raise the end, when it commenced sliding down the hill. Mr. S. then dropped the pry alongside of the log, but in a moment the log struck the end of the pry, causing it to fly up with great force, striking him on the left side of the neck and inflicting an ugly wound. Mr. Snyder fell back gasped a few times and was dead. The deceased was aged about 60 years and leaves a family. His funeral took place Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended.—Lewistown Free Press.

Chief Justice Waite Dead.

Chief Justice Waite, of the United States supreme court, died at his residence in Washington, March 23 at 6.10 o'clock. The chief justice was in his usual health, through exhausted by his recent severe labors, until Saturday night, when, on returning from Senator Heart's where with his daughter he attended a reception, he complained of a chill. The feeling passed off during the night, but he remained in bed throughout Sunday, and until it was time for him to go to the court on Monday, Suffering then from malaise and vague indisposition he did not read the opinion in the telephone case, but sat through its reading and then returned to his home. He was wakeful Monday night and on Tuesday morning symptoms of acute bronchitis appeared accompanied by insomnia and great restlessness. His condition Tuesday was not alarming but on Wednesday circumscribed pneumonia showed itself. During Thursday night, he was comfortable, and no particular alarm was felt, but at 9 o'clock Friday morning failure of the heart's action was observed, and at 6,30 he passed away.

A statement prepared in Washington of the available military strength of the United States put the number of able-bodied male citizens of the United States over 18 years and under 45 years not enrolled in militia forces at 7,920 768. To this must be added to the militia of the several States and Territories, which number 109,887. The grand aggregate of available men is 8,021,605—The National Guard of Pennsylvania, by common consent, stands at the head of the list, almost equal in nearly every respect, and in some respects even superior to the regular army, according to the admission of General Sheridan.

The Late Chief Justice.

In the death of Chief Justice Waite, the country loses an able, conscientious judge and the tribunal over which he presided a member who reflected credit on it. Wise, modest, unassuming, amiable, approachable, he won the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. As the head of the highest tribunal in the land, he fully appreciated the dignity and responsibility of the position and held himself aloof from all associations which could in the slightest degree injure his efficiency as a judicial officer. Many distinguished lawyers have graced the bench of the United States Supreme Court; but for the solid qualities necessary to the high position of Chief Justice, few who have sat thereon surpassed the man who has just been gathered to his fathers, followed by the regret and grief of all sections of the country.

The New Pension Bill.

The pension bill passed by the Senate on 13th was drawn with a view to meeting the objections raised by Mr. Cleveland to the bill he vetoed.

By the provisions of the bill, all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who served three months or more, and are suffering from mental or physical disability, not the results of their own vicious habits, which totally incapacitates them for the performance of manual labor, and who are without other adequate means of self-support, are placed upon the list of invalid pensioners, and entitled to receive $12 per month from the date of the filing of the application in the office; provided that persons who are now receiving pensions under the existing laws, or whose claims are pending in the Pension office, may, by application to the commissioner of pensions, receive benefits of this act, no one person being allowed more than one pension for the same period, and rank in the service not being considered in applications filed

The Kind of Wives Wanted.

Lexington, Ky., has a theological school, some of the students of which have provoked a great deal of criticism by attending the theater and by publishing in their college paper the following racy description of the kind of girls they want for wives: 'The buxom, bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked full-breasted, bouncing lass, who can darn a stocking, mend trousers, make her own frocks, command a regiment of pots and kettles, feed the pigs, chop wood, milk cows, wrestle with the boys, and be a lady withal in company is just the sort of girl for me, and for any worthy man to marry. But you, ye pining moping, lolling, screwed up, wasp-waisted, putty-faced, consumptive, mortgaged, music-murdering, novel-devouring daughters of fashion and idleness; you are no more fit for matrimony than a pullet is to look after a family of fourteen chickens. The truth is, my dear girls, you want more liberty and less fashionable restraints, more kitchen and less parlor, more leg exercise and less sofa, more pudding and less piano, more frankness and less mock-modesty, more breakfast and less bustle. Loose yourselves a little, enjoy more liberty and less restraint by fashion, breathe the pure atmosphere of freedom, and become something as lovely and beautiful as the God of nature designed.'

A Muscular and Notorious Negress Dead.

NEWARK, March 18.—Sylvia Dubois, the famous negress of the Sour Land Mountains, in this State, was one of the victims of the blizzard. She died some time during the week in her cabin, probably from the effects of the cold. She was born in the valley below Sour Land and was the slave of a man named Dubois for years. Then she was sold to a man who kept a hotel at Great Bend, Pa. Then she became famed for her feats of strength and for the prize fights in which she engaged. She boasted that she was never beaten and had knocked out scores of the strongest men. One day she got angry at her mistress and nearly killed her. She picked up her child and fled across the Susquehanna and trampled all the way to Sour Land Mountain, where she lived the rest of her life.

Her fondness for fighting, for liquor and her profanity soon made her notorious. All her children died but Elizabeth, the youngest. She has remained with her mother and is 80 years old. She inherits all her mother's pugilistic powers and has maimed many men. Of late years Sylvia and her daughter have existed by making semi annual trips through the adjacent counties. They got clothes, provisions and coal enough to keep them in the meantime.

A 65 DAISY WRINGER FREE!

A $65 WASHING MACHINE FREE!

Last year we placed upon the market the greatest labor-saving invention of the 19th century. It was a self-operating Washing Machine. It washes the clothes clean WITHOUT THE WASHBOARD OR ANY RUBBING WHATEVER. We advertised a few hundred free to introduce them, and through them free samples sold over $50,000. One lady in Chicago (Mrs. McDermott, 338 W. 15th St.,) was so well pleased with her sample that she became an agent and sold over 1200 in four months. W. C. Hamill, Box 887, Toronto, Ont., ordered over 60 after testing his sample. We have scores of just such examples as this. It pays "to cast your bread upon the waters." OUR GREAT OFFER. This year we intend to sell not less than ONE MILLION WASHERS, and to do this we will first start off by GIVING AWAY 1000 samples. All we ask of those who receive one is that they will give it a fair trial, and if satisfactory recommend it to their friends. Agents are coining money. We have several who are making $10 per day and upwards. First come, first served. So if you want one from the lot we are going to give away, send your name and address at once. Address, NONPAREIL LAUNDRY WORKS, 44 Wabash ave., Chicago, Ill. (Mention this paper).

A Special Offer! As an inducement for you to send us your name at once, we will make this special offer: To the first party in each State and Territory who answers our advertisement we will send a free gift, one of the celebrated DAISY WRINGERS, retail price, $3.00 each. This unprecedented offer is made for the sole purpose of inducing you to try our Washer AT ONCE. If you know of any friend out of employment, won't you please call his attention to this advertisement, for it is indeed the chance of a lifetime.

$100 Reward. During the past year our circulars and advertisements have been copied by other concerns who are jealous of our great success. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! We have been in the laundry supply business for 6 years and will pay $100 reward for any infringement on our Washer.

READ THIS! The New York "Christian at Work" says: "We have personally examined a great many letters received from all sections of the country from those who are using this wonderful Washing Machine, and all unite in commending it in the highest terms." We also have similar evidence from the "Farm and Fireside," the "Hours and Farm," and scores of other papers.
