DISTRICT ATTORNEY,

H. E. Miller, Jr, Esq, whom we have selected to represent the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the county of Snyder, is a young man with a liberal education; a fair legal turn of mind; a big majority of good common sense, and good social qualities. He is a gentleman of excellent moral character, reputable and honest: We vouch that he will discharge the duties pertaining to his office with fidelity and on sound business principles.

District Conference.

At a conference held in Lewistown, Pa, on Tuesday, March 13th 1888, composed of three representatives from each of the counties of Franklin, Juniata, Mifflin, Snyder, Union, (Huntingdon and Fulton not being represented) of the Eighteenth Congressional District, for the purpose of formulating a plan for the nomination of [illegible] under the apportionment, it was decided that the present plan of three conferees from each county be continued. As delegates to the Republican National Convention are elected in the same man in which Congressmen are nominated, it was further decided that Thursday April 19th 1888 at 2 o'clock p. m. be the time and Lewistown, Pa., the place, for holding the conference to elect two persons as delegates, two persons as alternates to represent the said Eighteen Congressional District in the Republican National Convention at Chicago on June 19th 1888 and one person as Presidential Elector to represent said district in the Electoral College. Each county in the district is requested to send three conferees to said conference at Lewistown Pa.

Plant Fruit Trees.

Doubtless Arbor Day, April 27th, will be generally observed throughout Pennsylvania, as is right and proper. The planting of trees cannot but result in good, and in the enhancement of the value of property thus improved. And not only shade trees, and those useful, when matured, in the mechanic arts, but plenty of fruit trees should also be planted. As an article of diet, fruit is every year becoming more popular, as an agreeable and healthful change from the largely animal diet of the winter months. The opportunity of indulging in this change should be within the reach of all. But unfortunately the supply of fruit, especially of the smaller varieties, is not equal to the demand, the result being that the prices at which it is sold place it beyond the reach of many. This condition of things can be changed for the better if more fruit trees are planted, and greater attention given to the cultivation of fruit in a small way, for home consumption and for sale to neighbors who cannot give space to the trees. In Spain, it is said the public roads are lined with fruit trees, to the products of which any passer-by is entitled in season, and in the care of which all take an interest. It is to be regretted that this is not more universally the case. The people of Pennsylvania, by generously planting fuit trees on Arbor Day, will do much to improve their property and supply the present deficiency in the fruit crop.

SHAFFER HANGED.

The brutal and cold blooded murder of Isaiah Colby and Nora Colby, his wife, was avenged at Lock Haven, Wednesdays, April 4th, 1888, and Luther J Shaffer has expiated his crime on the gallows.

The sky Wednesday morning was overcast with clouds, but they were not threatening, and at an early hour people from the country began to come in and by the time fixed for the execution the town was filled with visitors. On the faces of all could be seen a look that indicated anxiety and mental excitement. At the jail the inmates were early astir and preparation was begun for the execution that was soon to take place.

Shaffer's last night on earth was spent but little differently from those of the last few weeks. He spent the evening up to ten o'clock playing checkers with Sheriff Leahy and Harry Beck; the turnkey. He chatted and talked pleasantly with those gentlemen and appeared to be calm and composed in mind. When at that hour they bid him good night and retired, Thomas Hewitt, the night watchman, took their places, and Rev. Father Seibert, Shaffer's spiritual advisor, entered the cell and remained locked in with the condemned man during the night. Shaffer soon grew sleepy, went to bed and slept soundly throughout the night. Early in the evening he received a brief visit in his cell from Rev Father Sheridan, of Clearfield, whose kind words have done much to assist Father Seibert in his ministrations.

The irons had been removed from Shaffer's limbs at seven o'clock and for the first time in many weeks he slept without the galling fetters. Several special officers kept guard outside of the prison walls during the night, but there was no incident occurred to disturb the slumbers of either Shafier or the other inmates of the jail.

After eating his breakfast, which he apparently relished as well as usual, and after Father Seibert had said mass the prisoner was in a very pleasant frame of mind, and was in readiness to receive his relatives.

About eight o'clock a cab was driven to the jail and the condemned man's father and sisters entered the prison to take their leave of an erring son and brother. The scene was affecting and touching, and drew tears from the eyes of all who witnessed it. Shaffer bore up manfully under the trying ordeal. Directly after the mass had been said the sheriff's family bade him good-bye and he was left alone with his spiritual advisor until the time should arrive for going to his death.

During all the hours of the forenoon the crowd of sightseers increased and by ten o'clock the sidewalks on both sides of the street in front of the jail were crowded with men. Hundreds of persons stepped up to the jail door and rang the bell, and made every effort possible to obtain admittance. Men offered large sums of money for passes, in some instances offering as much as ten, fifteen and twenty dollars for a pass, which had they obtained would not have admitted them as they were not transferable. The crowd was orderly and quiet and gave the police no trouble, seeming to be generally satisfied to be permitted to gaze upon the prison walls. In the rear of the jail yard eyes were pressed close to the cracks in the big doors with the hope of obtaining a glimpse of the gallows.

Tuesday Shaffer was taken out into the jail yard and shown the scaffold. In the evening he was taken into the room to look at the coffin in which his remains were to be placed. Feeling of its finish he remarked: "Its a nice one, Ain't it?"

He was apparently as composed when looking at these emblems of death as though he had no part whatever in the ghastly proceedings so soon to begin.

At eleven o'clock the holders of passes were admitted to the jail and they occupied positions in the jail yard in full view of the scaffold. Among them were many reporters, all of whom were busy with note books and pencils, dotting down the details of the affair as they occurred. There was some delay in gaining admittance, owing to the immense crowd of men that solidly blocked the street.

The gallows stood at the south side of the jail yard, directly opposite the door, which opened out from the corridor on the lower floor of the jail. It had been erected on Monday by Jacob Hartman and the drop was let fall for the first time in Clinton county, by Sheriff Leahy and County Detective Keller shortly after the structure had been set up. A thorough test of the gallows was made later in the day and then all was ready for Wednesday's work.

At eight minutes past eleven the mournful procession emerged from the door at the rear of the jail and proceeded to the gallows. Sheriff Leahy led the way, followed closely by Shaffer, supported by Fathers Seubert and Sheridan. The prisoner mounted the steps leading to the gallows with a firm tread, and immediately in their rear came Deputy Sheriff Malone. Arriving at the platform on the scaffold Shaffer was given a seat in a chair, and the two priests chanted prayers, Shaffer holding in his hand meanwhile a crucifix, upon which he kept his eyes. Shaffer looked pale, but his countenance wore the same composed look as during his trial. After the prayers had been said he bid good-bye to Father Sheridan and kissed him, the minister then descending to the ground. Father Seubert continued to pray with the prisoner, who was now kneeling upon the trap. Shaffer rose from his knees stepped to the front of the scaffold and said: 'Gentlemen, I am going now. I bid you all good-bye and hope to meet you in Heaven.' The prisoner's limbs were then pinioned, the noose adjusted, the black cap drawn over his head and the Sheriff and his deputy descended from the scaffold, leaving Shaffer and Father Seibert alone upon the gallows, the latter continuing to repeat prayers.

At 22 minutes past eleven the fatal drop fell and in a moment Luther Shaffer's body was suspended in mid air, dying in expiation of one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed. The execution was successfully conducted and no accident occurred to render the sad scene more agonizing.

Doctors R. Armstrong and A. G. Walls were the physicians selected by Sheriff Leahy to make examinations of the body. At ten minutes after the drop fell the doctors found that the pulse was hardly perceptible and in 18 minutes the pulse had ceased to beat and life was extinct. His neck was broken. Thirty-five minutes after the drop fell the body was lowered and given to Undertaker J. N. Sloane, who prepared it for burial at the jail, after which it was taken to the residence of Shaffer's brother-in-law, H. W. Swope, on Church street, Thursday forenoon at 10 o'clock the remains were taken to St. Agnes Catholic church, where the funeral services and mass were said. The interment was made in the Catholic cemetery in Lock Haven.

The Weekly Evening Post.

The New York Evening Post will begin, on the third of May, issue a weekly edition, having for its principal aim the promotion of Revenue Reform, which has become the paramount issue in national politics. The existence of an actual surplus in the Treasury, estimated to reach $140,000,000 on the 30th of June, 1888, and the further increase thereof under present laws, are a menace to all business interests, and a direct incentive to wastefulness and corruption in the appropriations of public money. The attention of the people having been strongly drawn to this subject by the President in his last annual message, the need of information and popular enlightenment on questions of revenue and taxation has been increasingly felt in all parts of the country.

It is the intention of the management to make a first-class weekly newspaper of 12 pages. Subscription price $1 per year. A free copy of the first number will be mailed anywhere on request. Send address on a postal card to The Evening Post, New York.

The Bird Bully.

The war against the English sparrow has been revived in Ohio and it is said that in some instances as high as 1,000 of the little feathered creatures have been killed by exterminating parties, under the sanction of local authorities. A few tender-hearted people have ventured to protest against the wholesale slaughter, but public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of killing the imported pests. The English sparrow has been a nuisance since the day he was pursuaded to emigrate and raise a family in this country. His breeding powers are something marvelous. He increases and multiplies by the double rule, and when he dies it is either from violence or old age. And he is a born fighter. From the moment he is enabled to get out of his nest he is ready for a row and his pugnacity has made him a dreaded terror to all his kind. He is the bully of the birds and there is good ground for the fear that he may drive the songsters away from home. To the robin and the bluebird he seems especially formidable, and were these handsome fellows permitted to speak no doubt they would testify that the sparrow has made life for them one continual burden.

It seems cruel that birds should be slain by the hundreds and the thousands, but there is no question that public good demands the extermination of the English sparrow. Whether it can be accomplished or not remains to be seen, but at least the number can be greatly diminished.

A $5 DAISY WRINGER FREE!

A $3 WASHING MACHINE FREE!

Last year we placed upon the market the greatest labor-saving invention of the 19th century. It was a self-operating Washing Machine. It washes the clothes clean WITHOUT THE WASHBOARD OR ANY RUBBING WHATEVER. We advertised a few hundred free to introduce them, and through these free samples sold over 80,000. One lady in Chicken Cove, McDermott, 333 W. 15th St., was so well pleased with her sample that she became an agent and sold over 1200 in four months. W. C. Hamill, Box 887, Toronto, Ont., ordered over 600 after testing his sample. We have scores of just such examples as this. It pays to cast your bread upon the waters." OUR GREAT OFFER. This year we intend to sell not less than ONE MILLION WASHERS, and to do this we will first start off by GIVING AWAY 1000 samples. All we ask of those who receive one is that they will give it a good trial, and if satisfactory recommend it to their friends. Agents are coining money. We have several who are making $10 per day and upwards. "First come, first served." So if you want one from the lot we are going to give away, send your name and address at once. Address, MONARCH LAUNDRY WORKS, 42 Wabash ave., Chicago, Ill. (Mention this paper).

A Special Offer! As inducement for you to send us your name at once, we will make this special offer: To the first party in each State and Territory who answers our advertisement we will send as a free gift, one of the celebrated DAISY WRINGERS, retail price, $5.00 each. This unprecedented offer is made for the sole purpose of inducing you to send for one of our WASHERS AT ONCE. If you know of any friendless of employment, won't you please call the attention to this advertisement, for it is indeed the chance of a lifetime.

$100 Reward. During the past year our circulars and advertisements have been copied by other concerns who are jealous of our great success. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! We have been in the laundry supply business for 6 years and will pay $100 reward for any infringement on our Washer.

READ THIS! The New York "Christian at Work" says: "We have personally examined a great many letters received from all sections of the country from those who are using this wonderful Washing Machine, and all unite in commending it in the highest terms." We also have similar reference from the "Farm and Fireside," the "Home and Farm," and scores of other papers.
