The licenses have now been granted under the new license law throughout the State, and there are 7,724 licensed houses against 14,553 under the old law.

There were 11,590 applications, taking the whole State, of which about two thirds were granted.

The revenue from 14,553 licensed houses last year was $976,179. The revenue from 7,724 licensed houses this year is $1,835,963. In short, we have one-half the licensed houses and doubled revenue.

The chairman of the Anti-Saloon Republican Committee, Albert Griffin, seems to know one phase of human nature pretty well. In a circular just issued, in which he expresses his desire to see temperance laws enforced in every part of the country, in reference to all matters of interest, Mr. Griffin asks for suggestions as to what should be done to improve matters, and then, with keen foresight, he adds: "More common scolds and pessimistic grumblers will oblige by not trespassing on our time." The great trouble, Mr. Griffin will find, is that the common scold and pessimistic grumbler never knows that he is such, and as a crank he regards everybody else as cranks who do not agree with him and do not fall in with his views. There is big work cut out for the man who will attempt to convince one of these grumblers or scolds that he is a mere theorist, and that the world cannot be converted to his way of thinking in a day. Mr. Griffin understands this, but we fear his request that these people do not trespass on his time will have but little effect. The chances are that he will receive more "lumpy" suggestions than ever, because every fellow with a suggestion will be certain to regard his request as applying to "the other fellow." In any event, however, we wish Mr. Griffin all manner of success, and a safe deliverance from the "common scold" and "pessimistic grumbler."

G. A. R. Resolutions.

Headquarters Capt. G. W. Ryan Post, G. A. R. Middleburgh, Aug. 3.

At a regular meeting of the Post the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted viz:

WHEREAS—Very few of the surviving Soldiers of the late war, are, after the lapse of 25 years, enjoying the health and strength they would possess but for the service and exposure on march, battlefield and in camp; and

WHEREAS—Great injustice has been done very many needy and deserving comrades who are unable from various causes to furnish the evidence required to establish their claims for pension, and by reason of our present pension laws, therefore be it resolved by this Post, that we endorse the Service Pension bill formulated by "The National Tribune" and introduced in the House of Representatives by Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania to use all honorable means to secure its passage.

RESOLVED—That a copy of these Resolutions be sent to one of our Senators and our Representatives in Congress, and to "The National Tribune" and "Middleburgh Post" for publication.

DAVID REICHLER, Commander, J. Y. SHINDEL, Adjutant.

The "Flopper" Campaign.

The campaign of 1888 will be a noted one in this particular, for its great number of "flopers." Every day brings fresh accounts of several men who have hitherto voted on all questions fairly and squarely with their party going over to the other side, and in the issues of the present day voting in direct opposition to the party they have always upheld and supported. Some of our contemporaries speak lightly of this matter and presume that the assertions of many of these are unreliable, and it is the object of many of the "flopers," who are announcing their intentions, merely to gain notoriety; and when the time comes will cast their vote for the party with which they have always been connected. This may or may not be the case, and we are inclined to believe in many instances will not be, but the vote cast next November will be cast by a large majority of men who will dare to step over the boundary of party lines or issues, and vote according to their honest convictions or opinions on the great national question at stake in the coming campaign. Some time since we made the assertion that the voter of to-day is far advanced in intelligence and independence to what he was a few years back, he will not blindly follow the dictates of party, or party leaders, but has a tendency to think and act for himself. The interesting and intelligent debate on the Mills bill has had the effect of prepossessing some from the Republican ranks no doubt in its favor, while the sound and positive arguments made against it has caused many a Democrat to "flop" over to the opposition, and we believe many of these will vote according to their convictions in this matter.

The question will arise then in the minds of many: What effect will this "flopping" propensity have on the political parties and national questions in the future? We are convinced that it will be followed with the most positive and beneficial results. Formerly the man who changed his political creed in any manner and voted on any question in opposition to his avowed party, was branded as a "turn-coat," "mug wump," and various other opprobrious names, but we have in a measure out-lived these prejudices, and respect the man who will dare to vote for his country instead of his party. When we can point to the American voter individually and collectively as the man or men who will invariably vote as his intelligence and honest convictions suggests, we have reached the highest point of self-government possible for a republican form of administration to attain, and can safely look for a radical reform in every department of our government.

The minority report of the Jackson, Mississippi, election excites even the independent Democratic press to ridicule. They can see no sense in denying the fact that negroes are not permitted to vote in Mississippi, and that if they were brutally notified that if they attempted to vote they would be shot down like dogs.
