Young Republicans, who voted on age last fall, must be assessed in order to vote this fall.

The Democratic party proposes to reduce the price of clothing for the workingman; but its scheme of benevolence in this respect involves the idea, unfortunately, of depriving him of the opportunity to earn sufficient wages to buy clothing at any price.

Mr. Edward Atkinson estimates that the next census will show the population of the United to be 64,500,000, while the Hon. S. S. Cox thinks it will fall short of that number by 24,000. But who would predict what our population will be in the year 1900? How vast will be the influx from other lands before that date, especially if our present immigration laws shall remain unchanged! And in the year 2000, when a period of time shall have elapsed equal to that which has passed since the United States became an independent nation, what enormous numbers of people will dwell within what now constitutes the borders of our country? During the past 112 years the American people have increased from 3,000,000 to perhaps 57,000,000. During the next 112 years it will not be surprising if they shall increase so as to equal the present population of Europe, or possibly even of China. Fortunately the country is big enough, so that even in the latter case all will have plenty of room.

Farmers and Lower Wages

Free traders generally argue that protection has nothing to do with wages, but a day or two ago a Republican farmer informed us that the farmers of his neighborhood were being assured that if the Mills bill passed and if Cleveland was elected the wages of farm labor would be greatly reduced—that then the wages would be no higher than was paid to the same kind of labor in Europe. In other words, that the Democratic policy would VIRTUALLY PAUPERIZE THE LABOR OF THE COUNTRY. What do the workmen think of this feature of the issue?

At the same time, these over-zealous and imprudent free traders did not stop to consider that the farmer's first question, after such a statement, would be: And will that benefit the farmers? And an examination by the farmer into the condition of the farmers of England and the pauperized farmers of Ireland would be to show that the degradation of the farmer followed quickly on the heels of the degradation of the laborer, and that in no countries of the world were the farmers in a worse condition than in free trade countries, where labor was so cheap. Free traders will not fool the American farmers with such trash.

The man who invented the milk shake machine has already made $100,000 out of it. It is not always the complicated and wonderful invention which makes the most money. While the inventor of the milk shake is rolling in wealth easily required, Mr. Keely, of motor fame, continues to dodge his creditors.

The delegates of this (18th) Congressional District will meet in conference at Lewistown on the 11th of September. The candidates for the Congressional honors who have announced themselves are Hastings Gehr, of Franklin; A. W. Potter, of Snyder; H. J. Culbertson, of Mifflin; J. M. Miller, of Union, and L. E. Atkinson, of Juniata.

Partisanship vs. Citizenship

From the fact that there are already eight parties or factions in the field, who will present their claims to the voter in the coming campaign, the question very naturally arises, Is it necessary to have so many parties in existence, or is there room in the United States for more than the two principal leading parties who are dominant in the field to-day? We have often heard the remark that opinion governs the world, and in a country like ours it is to be expected that there will and ought to be a great diversity of opinion; but there is plenty of scope to develop it and advance new ideas, fresh impulses, and broader views of statesmanship in either of the parties in power, rather than endeavor to create a faction which is of but mushroom growth, springs up in a few days, and in as short a time dwindles and vanishes from public notice. In these frantic efforts to establish and build up parties the voter has to a certain degree overlooked his citizenship while fruitlessly beating the air in trying to attract attention as a party, either one of those factions combined within the limits of either of the two leading parties would act as a mighty lever to raise them to some efforts to meet their demands.

What advanced idea of statesmanship or progressive government has ever been developed by any of these side issues who chose to designate themselves parties? None whatever. They seem to have but one incentive, one principle, one motive, one idea, and that a government like ours can be made a one-horse affair out of, is too ridiculous in the extreme; it partakes too much of the nature of quack medicine which is warranted to cure every kind of ailment that human flesh is heir to. Where in the history of the world can a country be found that in little over a century has made such progress in National development and prosperity like ours? We assert and maintain that it is without a parallel. How has this been accomplished and what means have been employed to produce it? Has narrow-minded bigotry, egotism and selfish party interest brought it about? We answer emphatically, "No;" but this march of progress and reform has been pushed on by men whose ideas were as broad, open and expansive as the canopy of heaven which spreads its mantle over our continent.—men who could legislate for the country and not for party,—men who had at heart the interest of every man, woman and child within our boundaries, and not for factions or classes of men.

These one-idea fanatics have yet to learn that radical reform and the supplanting of old and established ideas by new and somewhat vague opinions, can not be brought about by one act of legislative dictation. It is dangerous to attempt to go from one extreme to another unless you are prepared to meet stubborn resistance, revolution and bloodshed. But it can be done by gradual and liberal legislation, and preparing and educating the masses up to the standard of acceptance.

There are then several questions of importance that confront the patriotic and honest American citizen of to-day: Is my party of more importance than my country? Should party interests be the dominant idea, and the country's requirements be made subservient to them? Is it right to work for my country demand my support and aid? Am I an American or the blind devotee of some faction of dissatisfied element of party aspirants? When he ponders over these questions and considers what a narrow and limited scope is offered to a partisan, but how broad and expansive is the work of a citizen, he will not hesitate to come out boldly on the side of his country.

Mrs. Dart's Triplets.

President Cleveland's Prize for the three best babies at the Aurora County Fair, in 1887, was given to these triplets, Mollie, Ida, and Ray, children of Mrs. A. K. Dart, Hamburg, N. Y. She writes: "Last August the little ones became very sick, and as I could get no other food that would agree with them, I commenced the use of Lactated Food. It helped them immediately, and they were soon as well as ever, and I consider it very largely due to the Food that they are now so well." Lactated Food is the best Food for bottle-fed babies. It keeps them well, and is better than medicine when they are sick. Three sizes: 2c, 5c, $1.00. At druggists. Cabinet photo. of these triplets sent free to the mother of any baby born this year.
