The Privilege Denied Them.

A traveler, who returned from a two weeks' vacation among the Maine watering places, relates an amusing incident that occurred at a small New England hotel where he chanced to stop for a day while journeying to Bar Harbor. The hotel was a small one, and the principal person in charge of the office was the daughter of the proprietor, a buxom lass of probably twenty summers.

A Baring Amateur Lion Tamer.

"An announcement was made by the crier," says the Sout . Waies N. cs, "that a man named William Samuels, a local inn keeper and the champion boxer of Wales, would enter a den of lions at Messrs. Wombwell's menagerie. At 9 closek the band played: 'For he's a jolly good fellow,' and then Samuels walked up to a den containing a lion and about a dozen lionesses. Mr. Bostock, the manager, mounted a platform and informed the public that his old friend Samuels had volunteered to perform a deed of daring such as had never been done in the menagerie since its establishment in 1805.

"the announcement was received with great cheering. Samue's seemed to have no feelings of uneasiness. Attired as a prize fighter, and with a blue resette on his breast, he appeared at the entrance to the cage, and, cudgel in hand, boldly en-tered it. The loss appeared in no way yet they call this a well policed, law- to reli h this intrusion, and it looked as abiding city. . ne consolation, the sin though Samuels would have a warmer welcome than he barga ned for. sessed apparently with nerves of steel, the man walked undaunted up to the end of the cage where the animals were hud-Young Mr. Sissy (who prides himself on his music—"So you would like to hear me sing before I go would Samuels, in no way discomposed, walked among the animals, and made them fly right and left before him. It contained a paper, and the following is a translation of the German words written thereon: "This bottle was put overboard at 12 o'clock noon on Feb. 15, 1886, in lat. 41 degrees 17 S., long. 111 degrees 56 50 E. from Green wich. Ascher, on board the ship Bismarck, on a voyage to Sydney. This bottle was weighted with sand. Who ever finds this paper is requested to send it to the imperial admiralty at Berlin." It is also requested that the finder should add some particulars as to time and place at which the bottle was found. The existence of an ocean current setting in from the Indian Ocean toward the southern end of New Zealand is a fact well known for many years. It strikes the southern end about the Bluff, and chiefly passes to the eastward, but apparently New ealand to some extent divides it, and, though the bulk passes to the eastward, a small stream comes up to the westward of New / ealand, and naturally impinges against the western side of the northern part of the Auckland provincial district .- New York Sun.

Robert Garrett's father left him a fortune of twenty millions. He was from childhood reared in luxury; he received a spiendid education with an especial training into a thorough knowledge of railroad management and was expected to succeed his father as a railroad king.

The Distribution of Wampum.

Thus shell-money of this peculiar description, composed of small circular disks, perforated and strung together, and used as currency and also (so far as our information extends) in important public and religious ceremonies, has been traced from the eastern coast of North America westward across the continent to California, and thence through the Micronesian Archipelago to China. In no other parts of the world, except those situated along or near this line (as in some parts of Melanesia), has the use of this singular currency been known. It is possible, of course that the custom may have originated independently in each of the four principal regions in which it exist-ed—that is, in China, Micronesia, Cali-fornia, and eastern North America. Few persons, however, will be inclined to doubt thatt he Micronesians received this invention from eastern Asia; and at the other end of the line, the transmission of the usage from one side of the Rocky Mountains to the other will seem equally probable. The only question will be as to its passage across the Pacific. The fact recorded by Mr. Wilson in his work, that in 1833 a Japanese junk was wrecked on the coast of Oregon, and that some of her crew were subsequently rescued from captivity among the Indians of that region. will show how easily this transmission might have been made. Nor is this the only instance known. Mr. Charles Wolcott Brooks, in his report on Japanese vessels wrecked on the North Pacific Ocean, read before the California Academy of Sciences in March, 1876, states that "one of these junks was wrecked on the Queen Charlotte Island in 1831, and numerous others have been wrecked on other parts of

Are Your Pullets Laying? This question is often asked at this season by persons keeping bens; and the answer is too often: "No! and suppose they won't lay until eggs get cheap next spring, just my luck." It ought not to be your luck. Pullets hatched in April last should have commenced laying a month ago; while May and and June hatches should be laying this month. It is not too late even now, to force the early pullets to laying in a few weeks The late ones, even as late as July and August, can be brought forward, so as to pay well, while eggs bring good prices. Strictly fresh, pullet eggs will probably retail as high as 50 to 60 cents per dozen, in Boston and New York markets, before March 1st, 1889, Mrs. L. J. Wilson, of Northboro, Mass., says: "In past years I have noticed when my pullets laid at all, they would lay a litter and then, either want to set, or mope around for ten days, often for weeks doing no laying. Last fall and winter there was no interruption of their laying. The results were the best I ever saw in an experience of eighteen years. My thirty pullets were all just six months old when they commenced laying. I never saw such return of eggs. In laying. I never saw such return of eggs. In just eight weeks after they commenced to lay the thirty publics laid 1457 eggs; which I ascribed to the use of Sheridan's Condition Powder, to make hens lay.
