Text: "A man of great stature, whose nose and toes were four and twenty, and each hand, and six on each foot, and he called Israel, Jonathan, the son of Shimna, David's brother, slew him."—1. Chronicles 2, 3, 5, 7.

Malformation photographed, and for what purpose? Did not this passage slip in by a mistake into the Sacred Scriptures as some...

By the people of God the Philistines had been conquered, with the exception of a few giants, the race of giants is mostly extinct, I am glad to say.

There is no use for giants now except to enlarge the income of museums. But there were many of them in olden times. Goliath was, according to the Bible, eleven feet, four and a half inches high. Or, if you do not believe the Bible, the famous...

The fire bell rings at night; you rush upstairs to look out of the window to see if it is in any of your mills. Epileptic of crime comes and there are embellements and abscondments of directors, and you wonder whether any of your bookkeepers will prove innocent. A panic strikes the financial world, and you are like a hen under a sky full of hawks and trying with anxious cluck to get your progeny of chickens safely under wing.

Well, says somebody, "such overloaded persons ought to be pitied, for their work is real and their innumera and their nervous prostration are genuine." I reply that they ought to get out of the business surplus by giving it away.

shake hands. With the young man just entering business, and discouraged at the sun and the large expenses, shake hands. With the child, growing to God, and started on unending journey for which he needs to gather great supply of strength, and who can hardly reach up to you, because you are so much taller, shake hands. Across cradles and dying beds and graves, shake hands. With your enemies, who have done all to defame and hurt you, but whom you can afford to forgive, shake hands.

"The Commission of Joshua." Joshua 1: 1-9—Golden Text Chap. vi. 14.

JOSHUA.—He is to be for twenty-five years the great figure in front of Israel. After forty-three years of bondage in Egypt, he had during the forty years in the Wilderness been in personal attendance on Moses. Thus he learned the law and the policy of God towards Israel from the mouth of Jeremiah, whose generous devotion and stern self-control the pupil could hardly fail to admire and imitate.

The Lemonade Drinker.

They drink their whisky and beer, To Bacchus they bend the knee, And of an eye they said with a sneer, He never would with them "go round."

They're all of them under the ground— He's drinking his lemonade still. —Murray's Magazine.

Steeple and Quicksand. In the county of Kent, England, says the Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, in the Voice, is the little borough of Tenterden, containing about five thousand inhabitants.

RELIGIOUS READING.

The Blessing of Jesus.

"What a friend we have in Jesus," "Sing a little child one day, And a weary woman listened To the darling's happy lay."

All her life seemed dark and gloomy, All her heart was sad with care; Sweetly rang out baby's tremble— "All her sins and griefs to bear."

She was pointing out the Saviour, Who could carry every woe; And the one who softly listened Needed that dear Holy One!

Sin and grief were heavy burdens For a fainting soul to bear; But the baby, singing, led her "Take it to the Lord in prayer."

With a simple, trusting spirit, Weak and worn she turned to God, "Angels Christ take down my burden, As He was the sinner's Lord."

Jesus was the only refuge, "Angels Christ take down my burden, As He was the sinner's Lord."

And he blessed the weary woman When she came to Him in prayer, And the happy child, still singing, "Little know she had a part In God's wondrous work of bringing Peace unto a troubled heart."

That Pale Woman. At one of the villages on our coast, there are a good many churches and ministers there, and they have tried to do something for these men in their way; but finding they could not, they have given up the church said, "We have rung our bell, engaged our quartette choir, and if you do not come, we cannot help it."
