The Issue in New Jersey.

The issue at the coming election in New Jersey is the same as in Pennsylvania. The liquor men are uniting their votes upon candidates who will favor the repeal of the new who will favor the repeal of the new cure all disease of the Liver and Kidhigh license and local option law, which has already closed many saloons and prohibits the sale of liquors on Sunday. Rev. A. E. Ballard, vice president of the New Jersey Temperance Alliance, has issued an address to the temperance voters of that State, and after setting forth the efforts made by the liquor men to secure control of the next legislature, he says :

"A vote cast for a candidate who will be sent there to repeal the law it a vote against the cause of temit a vote against the cause of temperance. A vote cast for a candidate who may be pledged to support the law, but who has no reasonable prospect of an election, when there is another candidate pledged in the same way who could probably be elected by a union of temperance votes in his favor, is a half vote against temperance and in favor of the liquor traffic. A clear vote for a peak of the cause of the liquor traffic. A clear vote for a peak of the cause of the liquor traffic. A clear vote for a peak of the liquor traffic. half vote against temperance and in favor of the liquor traffic. A clear vote for a man so pledged, who has a probability of election, is a clear vote for temperance advance and against the liquor traffic. The Tem-perance Alliance policy has always been to sustain any candidate or any law which looked toward pro-gress in the direction of its princi-ples."

This is sound common sense, and t suggests the only policy and practical method by which any laws to promote temperance and secure local or State prohibition have yet been enacted, or can be enacted, in a country where the majority rules. Lutheran Observer.
