Letter From Nebraska.

ADMAR, April 29, 1889.
 It is two months since I left home. Now as I have nothing to work at present I will try and give you a short sketch of what I have seen since I left home. I did not see very much from Selinsgrove to Bellevue, Ohio for it was most all the way dark. All I saw was the coke ovens burn, and the natural gas which was of course worth seeing. Bellevue is a nice town, and the country around the town is nice and has good soil. The only water most people have is rain water which they use for all purposes.

Their roads were very muddy when I was there, some places two feet deep.
 Corn was worth 33 cents a bushel, and wheat 95 cents.

From there I took the train and went to Elkhart. Passing some pretty nice towns, but the land along the railroad looks to be very wet.

I found Elkhart to be a nice town. But the surrounding land is not of the best. The town is a very large business place, and I think has as much manufacturing as a town for its size can be found. It has great advantage over many manufacturing towns, as its machinery is all run by water power.

The roads were pretty nice at the time I was there. I had also been to Goshen, and was in to see the jail. They have a well built jail, and lots of men in it from young boys to old grey men. It seems that the devil was handling his tools all over the world. But I also find those who are working against him.

From Elkhart, Indiana, my brother and I left on Tuesday for Hooper, Nebraska, going that distance you see all kinds of land. I saw some places for miles where there was nothing but pure sand, at other places it looked to have some good land. When we came to Chicago, I opened my eyes. After we got off the train we got on a bus, and drove about 2 miles to the other depot, where we made close connections and moved on westward. Soon it got dark and by morning we found ourselves a good distance from home.

From we came to Misoria Junction, where we changed cars. Crossing the Misoria river we saw a level bottom of land. Onward and onward we went until finally the conductor called out Hooper. We then jumped up from our seats and pulled on our overcoats, and got off the train and looked after her as she pulled out. Then turning our eyes we saw a big hill or bluff as they call it, we then almost felt like taking the next train and go east, but as there was none going that way we took a view of the town, which did not take long. I there met Joe Sauer. We then went out to my brother eight miles from town and surprised him a little. We were glad to meet each other. We found that we were in a low Dutch settlement. I thought I could talk Dutch well, but could not understand any of their talk. It is now four weeks since I am here and I can understand a good many words. In this time I have been to Blair. I have been one week over in the Pennsylvania settlement at West Wagners. It is a nice and level country and most all are Pennsylvania farmers that live there, but where I am keeping myself most I don't hear any talk but low German and some English, and the land is not quite as level, but just as good. It is what they call rolling prairie. It rolls up one hill and down the other. But as far as farming is concerned a man can make more money out here than in East, and don't need to work so hard. Farmers are ploughing for corn, and will plant about the 8th or 9th of May. Their wheat and oats looks very nice which they sowed but a few weeks ago. They don't plow their land to sow, they only sow on the corn land and then cultivate it in. There is one county in the state where they have not plowed for ten years.

There was one dirt storm since I am out here, the air was so full of dirt that we could not see a rod in front of us. We have very many high winds, but have nice weather, everything is green.

Plenty of wild geese out here, we could see them on droves by the thousand.

Corn is worth 20c, eggs 7c, butter 10c, and all the things that you buy are high priced.

Hooper is a great business place, it does a very big business for its size. It has two banks, and sells more beer in one day than ought to be sold in one year. Many of the people around here don't give much for the Sunday. The saloons are open, people go to market, boys shoot mark right in town, and everything that ought not to be done on the Sunday. I was to the German Lutheran church, but I could not understand their preaching, as it was too Dutch. If I had the privilege of spending Sunday here as I did in the East, I would like the country pretty well, but so I can't say that I do.

Yours truly,
 J. J. PAWLING.

Chesnutts Carpet.

Every home should have carpet up stairs, down stairs, and in the cellar when you can buy them "for a song." Carpets add beauty and comfort to a home, and brings rest to tired housewives whose weary hands that need scrub no more. For your parlor, or spare room, you can buy here a beautiful all wool Brussels carpet for 40c that is sold by old style credit stores for 75 and 80c. It will wear for 20 years or more; 50c buys a beauty Brussels regular price 65 and 70c. Its all wool. Some people like the best all wool extra super (the best flowers of carpet made), better than Brussels for parlors. They are not quite so handsome but both sides can be used and never fade, regular price every where from 75 to $100. It depends who you buy it from. I sell Lowell & Kentworth make and if a high price merchant would charge you $1 for one and won't give you any thing better than these two makes of carpet, all I want for them is 60, 65 and 68c, so when they ask you 75 and $100 walk home and save from 15 to 20c a yard on it. It looks big but its true, every word, as saying buyers have discovered who tried me. 50c buys one all wool filling, just as heavy—never fades. 45c buys a 55c all wool filling 38c buys a 50c all wool filling, 38c buys a 50c one, 34c buys a 40c, 25c buys a 35c one, 20c buys a beauty, worth 25 and 28c, suitable for Parlor bed or sitting room. These are all flowered and so called Imported. My 12c carpet does for bed rooms—not kitchen, and sold for 20 and 25c, till I knock high prices sky high. Its better than you expect. 22 and 25c buys Home-made rag carpet, chain costs 18, Weaving 12, Rags 8c. How can I do it? Come see me, I'll tell you. 70c Wool stripe carpet, regular price 50c, Fine Rags for 40c. 40c Rag Carpet for 35c, Fine Rags 65c, or for 50c. Fine stair carpet only 15c. Straw carpet 12c, fine Matting 14c—worth 20c. Wool filling Bed Room Carpet 25c. I don't care what you want in Carpets.

Stop throwing money away to enter rich greedy Merchants and come direct and see mine. Young folks going to horse keeping can save a big pile of money by buying their outfit here.
