This week some of our farmers will commence to make hay, the crop promises to be good. The wheat crop will be heavy, considering the open winter we had. The corn, ow ing to the wet weather has not been properly cultivated, and a good crop cannot be expected. Strawberries are plenty, and raspberries will be over abundant. Of sweet cherries there will be some, but sour cherries are almost a total failure. Apples are suffering considerable from make the crop light. Potatoes are for incubation, and she went to work doing well, the bugs are unusually at laying another lot of eggs and is scarce, and we hope they will keep now busy hatching them out. Thats 80.

Our citizens are peaceable and quiet. but somewhat superstitious, I heard of a town in Pennsylvania where they rost their coffee all on one side of the street, but that is not the case with Kratzerville-they rost and drink coffee on both sides of the street, though as a rule they all walk on one side of the street in going to and from church. There are crossings at every corner.
