Cherries are very rare in this part of the county.

Our old friend Emanuel Yoder took in the sights at New Ber lin last Sunday.

Miss Duck, who was spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. N. Berger, returned home Saturday

Two certain young men of this place, visited a burg last Saturday evening, and reported having a very good time.

PATRIC

KREAMER.-We have not heard anything from our small village for quite a while, so will now try and give you a few items.

W. H. Bolinger who had been engaged in the railroad office at Millville, Pa., has returned home.

One of Henry Erdley's sons, (Ammon) had been stung by a locust a few days ago was quiet ill.

Ben. Pontious is on the sick list. A few weeks ago we noticed in the Globe Mills items the reason why Hon. J. A. Smith could not hold the postmastership at this place. We since hear that Mr. Smith has not been post-master for six years, so that the reporter of Globe Mills is not booked well in this. We think it best if he wants to report for Globe Mills he should do so and not try and run two irons in one

Charles Walter of Sunbury is visiting friends at this place.

Farmers are all busy making hay and news is scarce. Will give you more by next week. Y. Z.

The Torrents Came Upon Them, or the Johnstown Disaster.

The above is the title of a beautiful new song and chorus, which will touch a sympathetic chord in every heart. The words are very touching and are wedded to a sweet and plaintive melody. The chorus is well arranged and very effective.

There was peace within that city, there was plenty everywhere, In old Johnstown, by the Alleghany hills;

There were happy homes unnumbered, there were firesides free from care, There was work for honest labor in the mills But the torrents came upon, them like the thun der from the cloud. An avalanche of water bore them down-A fearful cry of terror rose one moment from th crowd.

Then they hushed to burn in agony, ordrown The demand for this new song is already enormous. It has a finely illustrated title page, representing Johnstown during the disaster.
