In Constantinople many of the women wear a white veil drawn back and bound behind the head. Some of them dress in Parisian costume and wear dainty Turkish the battle of the boots the French caps. If the veil is a misery to the young and fair, it is a solace to the ugly, whom it puts on a par with the attractive. We noticed that the latter class were strict conformists to the law. There is a growing freedom in the use of the veil which every few years calls forth a fresh order from the palace ordering rigid observance of the Mohamedan law. Polygamy prevails, and, although the public slave market is suppressed, the harems must be supplied from dealers who carry on the traffic clandestinely. Some Turks like Vefik Pasha, Ambassador to France for many years, confine themselves to one wife, but human nature is not noted for living above the precepts and permissions of its religion on the Bosphorus any more than anywhere else. But degrading as polygamy is, those who are competent to judge by reason of being on the ground pronounce the utter facility with which divorce is secured a greater evil. The utterance of a few words by the husband constitutes divorce. The theory of the Koran and the practice of its followers are to keep woman as a slave. LATEST STYLES OF DRESSING THE HAIR. The coiffure is at present in that delightful state of transition which forbids the making of arbitrary laws and allows a woman to dress her hair high or low, according to her caprice. The one thing requisite to stylish hair dressing is that the hair shall be loose and fluffy. The wise women barber up town with the wicked eyes and the winning dimples, says that about one woman in one hundred has the kind of hair that by careful washing will possess the requisite fluffyness, and that that one woman never likes it. The effect is usually produced with curling irons and with artificial additions of curly hair. The coils of braids so frequently seen below round hats, on the street are very often put on and taken off with the hats, for they are really becoming to few faces and more suitable for the street than for more dressy occasions, and ladies prefer to dress their hair high when it is becoming and pin on the braids

The two extremes of styles are the Empire coiffure and the catogan braid. The latter style is a simple loose plait looped BUTTER—Creamery.......$ 1567$ 20 low in the neck and fastened with a rib-

Young girls will return to the old-time popular fashion of leaving the hair loose and flowing, tied back from the face with a simple ribbon and ornamented with a simple flower, which accords well with the picturesque and juvenile style of dressing now in vogue. All the styles seem to be based on Grecian ideals and picturesque models, and perhaps the greatest boon to womankind that the change will bring about is that the stylish "fluffiness" can only be effected in hair that is frequently washed, and a general cleanliness will prevail for a time. - New York Sun.

THE STOCK MARKET DOWN, BUT HOLDERS ARE

Business has been fairly maintained in volume, and is gradually improving in prospects. June has been a month of exceptionally large trade transactions. Prices of commodities, in spite of the rising markets, have, on the whole, during the month, fallen about 2 per cent., and are now hardly 1 1-2 per cent, above the lowest average ever recorded. But there are signs of substantial improvement in the most important branches of industry. The monetary situation remains undisturbed. Nevertheless the stock market, by many consided an Indicator of the future, has been sinking. The wars of Western, and to some extent of Eastern railroads, have disheartened many investors and caused much selling. It is felt, too, that the rise stimulated by sudden advances in trust stocks was not of a substantial character.

The half yearly return of failures shows a relatively larger increase in New England than in any other section-about 28 per cent. -and next in the trans-Mississippi region this side of the Rocky Mountains about 20 per cent. In the Middle States the increase has been but 41 per cent., thence to the Mississippiabout 5 per cent. and at the South about 3½ per cent. Against a general increase of 8 per cent. in numbers there is a decrease of 32 per cent. in aggregate liabilities.

The markets have not changed greatly during the broken week. The iron market remains strong in tone. Southern iron is still offered in large quantity at $16.50 for No. 1, and the demand for manufactured iron'is less active. Sales of about 10,000 tons of steel rails appear to have been on a basis of $28 at Eastern mills.

The momentary prospect is clouded by the exports of $17,507,610 gold and $1,135,-464 silver from New York alone since June 1. In consequence, the circulation of all kinds have been reduced $17,000,000 in June, and though the aggregate is even now $8,000,000 larger than a year ago, it is felt that a continued outgo in July would be apt to cause pressure in September. The New York banks reported last week a surplus of only $7,500,000. and the actual surplus probably was not over $6,000,000, which is not a large proportion for an active fall demand. Thus far the Treasury disbursements for the week have exceeded receipts by only $300,000, but will be much larger for the week to come.

The business failures number 202, as compared with a total of 215 last week, and 230 the week previous. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 214.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

There is a very firm market for all kinds of wool. The sales have been quite large this week, amounting to 2,970,500 pounds, of which 2,565,500 were domestic. No change has taken place in prices, but the tendency is upward. The receipts have been larger this week. In fine washed fleeces there has been more business doing. The sales of Ohio fleeces amount to 208,000 pounds, including X at 34c; X and above at 35c; XX and XX and above at 35c,351c, and No. 1 at 38c, Michigan fleeces were also active, with sales of 308,000 pounds; X fleeces selling at 31c 53c and No. 1 at 37c 38c. Washed combing and delaine fleeces were quiet but firm with small sales of No. 1 combing at 40c, and Ohio fine delaine at 30cc 37c. In unwashed combing wool there have been sales at 30cc 32c.

Wellington never awaited the arrival of the Prussians at Waterloo with the pale anxiety that the appearance of Lady Gay Spanker and Dolly in the third act was waited for by that young dramatist. Nisbett came, she spoke, and conquered. She outranked herself. The hunting speech carried the house by storm. Jerrold, Lemon, and a Beckett rose in their seats and cheered. The pit seemed to boil over. Nothing was heard for several minutes. The author left the house. Up and down, back and forth, he paced, not sensible where he directed his steps, until he found himself on Waterloc Bridge, seated in a recess, trying to cool his face by pressing it against the wet stone balustrade. It was raining but he did not know it. Then there crept over him the drend that the end of the comedy might change the tide of success. He rose and crept back to the theater; the fifth act was on; there was an ominous silence. • • The house shook with peal after peal of laughter at the inimitable manner of Mathews. And every fiber of the young author quivered responsively. In a few moments after this the cur tain descended. The actors had re sponded again and again to the enthusiastic calls and recalls of the public when a strange uproar commenced—p din amidst which it seemed impossible to discern what the audience wanted -Dion Boucieault, in North Amery

Reep Up With the Times.

The world is setting wiser every day. Mankind is constantly advancing from the o.d to the new. As it is with Religion, Art and Science, so it is with Medicine. Each day adds to our knowledge of the imman body, and therefore to our ability in cure its many ills. The day of griping, purging, debilitating pills, for instance, is rapidly passing away, and their place being taken by a Rowel Regulator whose action is natural and easy yet effective. Such a medicine is Man-a-lin, a gentle laxative that acts directly upon the Liver and Kidneys, and leaves no bad effects, it neither gripes nor purges. It not only cures Constipation, but, all the disorders and diseases arising from it, and, when taken from time to time in small doses, prevents Constipation altogether.
