

CENTREVILLE.—H. F. Mohn and H. B. Wagner, two prominent lumbermen of this place were to Lewistown last week where they purchased another steam portable sawmill. They will in a few days begin operating on the timber tract of H. J. Bailey about 14 miles south-east of this place.

Prof. Chas. E. Spangler went to Freedom, Beaver county, where he has accepted a position as operator in a telegraph office.

Love, a cough, and smoke are hard to hide.

Low. A. Ranck, of Lewisburg, was in town on commercial business one day last week.

Eggs are scarce at two cents a piece, while butter is plenty at eighteen cents a pound.

Simon Stuck, of Michigan, is visiting relatives in this place and vicinity.

Prof. Billhardt's singing at this place now numbers sixty-three.

Miss Cora Orwig, of Millmont visited here last week.

S. H. Straub was to Beaver Springs on Saturday.

Some of our boys who were tanned during the summer while working in the hot sun, may perhaps require additional tanning during the winter while attending school.

Miss Emeline Nevins is circulating among relatives in Montoursville.

Prof. D. Reichly made a trip to Sunbury on Saturday.

Rabbits seem to very plenty, and Toby Sechrist is the boss rabbit hunter in this neck of woods, having caught thirty-one since the season opened.

Thursday, Nov. 27th is the day set to do your thanksgiving and eating turkey, a day to set the thanksgiving table of the nation, when the proud strutting hero of the barnyard will be upside-down, his plumage gone, minus his gobbles, and stuffed with that he can never digest. In school the boy learns Greece is south of Turkey, but at this table he will find that turkey is bounded by grease. Welcome, Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Maggie Steininger, of Hartleton and Mrs. E. K. Troutman are visiting here this week.

The End of the World.

From Longman's Magazine.

The nebulae in Orion, Saturn and the moon are indeed suggestive of change—types, they may be called, of the first stage, the middle and the last that matter passes through in the long process of the evolution of worlds.

And, of all changes, that change has most interest for us which affects our own planet, the earth; it has reached a later stage than Saturn, though not so late a stage as the moon but only in long ages and by minute effects will further changes be noticed.

Agree hence it may be discovered that there is some slight change in the earth's orbit or Mercury, yet nearer to the sun than we, may be seen to pursue a smaller orbit than now, and the terrible fact may come home to man that we are drawing nearer to the sun. Time goes on, and the tropics become too hot for existence, and colder regions find a welcome change to warmth.

Age by age goes by, and the end is, visibly, no nearer; but the figures of astronomers only too surely tell their tale.

Now the tropics are an impassable desert, and all the life on the globe congregates around the poles; Spain has lost her vineyards and the Alps their snows; England is a burning desert and Greenland teems with the vegetation of the tropics; in smaller circles the inhabitants gather around the poles. "But," to quote the words of Mr. Kreighly Miller, "the narrowed limits of the habitable earth can no longer support the vast increase of population, and famine begins to mow down its victims by millions."

"Now," indeed, the end of life on the earth draws on apace.  The heat and drought become more and more insupportable; rain and dew fall no longer. All springs of water fail, and the rivers dwindle down to streamlets, and trickle slowly over their stone beds, and now scarcity of water is added to scarcity of food. Those who escape from the famine perish by the drought, and those who escape from the drought are reserved for a fate more awful yet. For a time the few remaining inhabitants are partially screened from the overwhelming power of the sun by a dense canopy of clouds formed by the evaporation of every lake and sea.

"But soon the sun scorches up these vapor banks and dissipates them into space as fast as they can form. Then the fiery orb shines in unutterable splendor without the slightest cloud wreath to interpose between himself and his victims. Then the last denizens of the world are stricken down and consumed; the last traces of organic life are blotted from the surface."

Dear Sir—Last Summer I cured my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the spavin in just three weeks.
