

REV. DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

THE ECHOES OF THE MOUNTAIN.

The Sermon as Delivered by the Eloquent Brooklyn Divine.

TEXT: "The sounding again of the mountains."—Ezekiel vii. 7.

At last I have it. The Bible has in it a recognition of all phases of the natural world from the aurora of the midnight heavens to the phosphorescence of the tumbling sea.

Born among mountains, and in his journey to distant cities, he had passed among mountains, and it was natural that through his writings there should loom up the mountains.

A Greek mythology represented the Echo as a nymph, the daughter of Earth and Air, following Narcissus through forests into grottoes and every whither, and so strange and weird and startling is the Echo I do not wonder that the superstitious have lifted it into the supernatural.

The Echo has frightened many a child and many a man. It is no lame thing after you have spoken to hear the same words repeated by the invisible.

Near Colobzeta—that which is said has seventeen Echoes. In 1776, a writer says that near Milan, Italy, there were seventy such echoes.

On that day all the charities, all the self-sacrifices, all the philanthropies, all the beneficent last wills and testaments, all the Christian work of all the ages, will be piled up into mountains, and the suffering human race will hear what my text styles "The sounding of the mountains."

My subject advances to tell you that eternity itself is only an echo of time. Mind you, the analogy warrants my saying this. "The echo of eternity" is a phrase, and not the sound originally projected.

Suppose the loss of a factory or the head of a commercial firm some day comes out among his clerks or employes, and putting his thumbs in the armpits of his vest, says, "I don't believe in the Bible or the church. The one is an imposition and the other is full of hypocrites. I declare I would not trust one of those very pious people further than I could see him."

neighborhood where that family used to live. You meet on the street or on the road an old inhabitant. What has become of them? you say. "Can you tell me anything about the Petersons who used to live here?" "Yes," says the old inhabitant; "I remember them very well. The father and mother have been dead for years."

"One of the daughters of the old folks married an infidel with the idea of reforming him, and you know how that always ends—in the ruin of both the experimenter and the one experimented with. The other daughter disappeared mysteriously and has not been heard of. There was a young woman, sister of the East River contractor, who in the morgue, and some thought it was her, but I cannot say."

Indeed our entire behavior in this world will have a rebound. While opportunities fly in a straight line and just touch us once and are gone never to return, the wrongs we practice upon others fly in a circle, and come back to us in the shape of a rebound.

come, Oh, God! by Thy converting and sanctifying spirit make us right here and now that we may be right forever.

"Well," says one, "this idea of moral, spiritual and eternal Echo is new to me. Is there not some way of stopping this Echo?" My answer is, "God can and He only."

Henry the president of Smith's Normal Institution at Washington, and told him of the evil prophecy, and he replied: "I have probably experimented more with the laws of sound than any other man, and I have seen to me as this. Two buildings may be so constructed that the sound of the one will be good and in the other bad."

And if it is so hard to destroy a natural Echo, how much harder to stop a moral Echo, a spiritual Echo, an immortal Echo. So also the Judgment Day will be an Echo of all our other days.

HOLD THOU MY HAND.

Hold thou my hand, O Father, Hold thou my hand, O pray, When shadows fall about me, And hide the beaten way.

When clouds hang low and heavy, And storms of doubt assail, I blindly grope and falter, My strength of none avail.

I cannot tread unguided, The upward leading road; I cannot bear unaided, The burden of the load.

I seek to journey onward, I think to bravely stand, But unawares I stumble— O Father, hold my hand!

Hold thou my hand securely, When sorrows cloud my sight, And hide from me the beauty, And sweetness of the light.

My heart will make no murmur, What'er may come, I know, I thou will lead me, Father, Where'er I may be led.

LOVE OF THE BRETHERN.

"Permit me again to remind you of what is in my mind, too generally neglected, the duty of loving those who love the Lord Jesus Christ, of blessing God for all the good that others do, and cultivating union, harmony, and love, among all Christian people, which is more than burnt offerings and sacrifices."

TEMPERANCE.

DRUNKENNESS MADE A CRIME.

Roxbury has made drunkenness a crime. This has been done on the advice of the best physicians in the land, who sent the idea of dispenation, and declare that men get drunk, not because they are crazy, but because they are vicious, and should be restrained.

At the police station the quietly disposed are sorted out and separated from the violent criminals. In the morning the latter are brought up for examination by the chief medical officer of the Prefecture of Police, who does his best to ascertain whether they have to do with lunatics or misdoers.
