CENTREVILLE.

Candidates for honors in the township election are bobbing up serenely—a lively canvass is being made for some of the offices.

Valentine day is coming. Boys make your best girl happy on Sunday the 14th. What is wrong with our lassies that we have not as yet had a full fledged wedding. It is leap year you know.

We understand that the ice houses in this village are filled with a fine quality of frozen water.

Valentine Walter and wife have been visiting in Shenandoah the past ten days.

I. G. Seiler, of Shamokin did business here recently.

The protracted meeting is still continued.

M. L. Wagenseller, of Selingsgrove was in town on business recently.

The weather is rather chilly to-day for electioneering, but the candidates are getting there all the same.

LOWELL.

The citizens of this township formed a ticket on Saturday with a corps of candidates, and they all expect to be elected.

The ball has been started rolling in West Beaver for the relief of Russia. Their names and the amount given will be sent to the Post for publication in the near future.

The Lowell roller mill is turning out choice graham flour. All those that use the same can be accommodated.

C. W. Fisher & Son are using their influence with the farmers in regard to bringing wheat for the relief of starving Russia.

West Beaver expects to be well represented at the County seat on Birthington's Washday, it being a holiday—February 22.

At this writing Henry Baumgardner is confined to the house with a very severe cold, perhaps grip.

A. A. Romig and Aaron Wagner are putting up ice houses. They say there will be lots of ice yet, as the ground hog saw his shadow.

Wm. Koch is treating J. J. Steely's new house to a coat of paint which makes it look "shar." U. No.
