THE PURE FOOD EXPOSITION.

Editor Post.—A writer has truthfully said, "Who would give their cloth to be cut by one who didn't understand to make a suit, or have his house built by some one who didn't have thorough knowledge of the work he had undertaken?" And yet how often we find a young housewife enter the kitchen without any knowledge of properly cooking our food and no thought of the necessity of studying the art of cooking. But this truth is gradually dawning upon us, whether wives, mothers or servants, that there is a science, and there is an art of cooking. The science tells what should be done, the art takes hold and does the thing. Perhaps no better illustration of the progress in this important study could be furnished than in the Pure Food Exposition now open in this city. It is under the auspices of the Retail Grocers Association opening on Oct. 9th, to close the 28th. The booths are very attractive. The one exhibiting Van Houtens Breakfast Cocoa is in light green and white bunting with trimmings of gold and white, large handsome silver urn and dainty decorated cups and saucers to serve each one with a cup, and taste how delicious it is! This is but a specimen of the many others in the spacious Cyclorama building. Perhaps one of the prettiest and where the ladies love to linger, is at the Gelatine Booth where this article of food now so extensively used, is made in all its loveliest molds and forms so that its transparency is brought out in its perfection. One square mold of about twelve inches has in it a full bloom deep red rose with its green leaves. Many others there are quite as pretty as this one. Just opposite is the exhibit of Cornmeal, this too is a thing of beauty. The golden and white are so perfectly intermingled in the molding of roses, pure apples, puddings and so forth, whilst the cook is busily baking "Johnny-cakes" for distribution. This is characteristic of the entire, and while the cost for admittance is but 25 cents, anyone inclined to taste, gets quite a square meal in the round, all daintily served, and those exhibits whose food could not be tested there, give every person a free sample put up for this purpose, such as salt, vegetable milk, and so forth. Many are interested, but I will mention only the one more. Salt is exhibited in every possible form in which nature produces it. There are blocks three feet high and one foot in diameter, also salt rocks in a variety of beauty and color. But what no doubt is more beneficial for everyday life, we get every afternoon in the "Practical Demonstration on Cooking" by Miss L. A. Willis, principal of the Baltimore cooking school. Her departments are on the second floor. The kitchen is neatly arranged, and has in it all the necessary equipments for good work; the larder is well filled, and the adjoining dining room is fitted in finest modern style and is a beauty. I will give you the subjects of her lectures: Oct. 10, "A family breakfast"; Oct. 11, "Frying and pan-frying"; Oct. 12, "Larding and braising"; Oct. 14, "Entrées"; Oct. 16, "Bread making"; Oct. 17, "Desserts"; Oct. 18, "How to feed the sick"; Oct. 19, "Home nursing"; Oct. 20, "Oysters"; Oct. 21, "An emergency dinner"; Oct. 23, "Salads"; Oct. 24, "How to use odds and ends"; Oct. 25, "Maize"; Oct. 26, "Cakes"; Oct. 27, "Dainty tea dishes"; Oct. 28, "Cold sweets."

Are your children subject to croup? If so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this Remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by G. M. Shindel, Middleburgh, and J. W. Sampsel, Penns Creek.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by G. M. Shindel, Middleburgh, and J. W. Sampsel, Penns Creek.
