Murder at Port Royal.

The bruised and mangled body of James Carpenter of Port Royal, was taken out of the Juniata River at the mouth of the Tuscarora Creek on Tuesday afternoon. His throat was cut from ear to ear, while on the temples are two ragged holes, evidently made by a blow with a blunt instrument. The murdered man is a brother to Prof. A. M. Carpenter of Beavertown, this county.

Mr. Carpenter was a blind man, engaged in the produce business at Port Royal, and his family consisted of himself, his wife and one son, James. He was generally reputed to have made considerable money and carried a great deal on his person. He was at his residence about 5 or 6 o'clock Sunday evening, when it is alleged he and his family ate supper. His son James left him at the produce shop about 6 o'clock, and that is the last the family know of him. Not returning home that night nor the next morning, his son began to make inquiries for him and insisted on making a search for him.

The produce shop was examined, and there were found pools of blood upon the floor, showing evidence of some effort on the part of the murderer to remove them, and, failing in this, boxes and barrels were placed over them. On some of the boxes were clots of blood and hair, while the floor indicated that the body had been dragged to the door, blood being smeared over almost everything in the place. Outside the shop was found a child's sled smeared with blood, showing that it had probably been used to drag the body away.

Searching parties by this time had gone to the banks of the Tuscarora Creek, south of town, where it was found the murdered man had been dragged. Along the bank, on the rocks and bushes, were clots of blood and hair, his shoes and one stocking were also found. The creek was dragged and a thorough search made, resulting in the finding of the body this afternoon.

Both shoes and one stocking were off, and his coat and vest partly torn off, while both hands were held in the attitude of warding off a blow. His watch was gone, and this was afterwards found in the possession of his son.

A Coroner's jury was immediately impelled by George W. Wilson, a Justice of Millintown, but as we go to press they have not finished their investigations. Nobody has been arrested for the crime, but there is considerable suspicion, and, pending the inquest, the murdered man's son James has been committed to jail.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia, while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by G. M. Shindler, Middleburgh, and J. W. Samspeil, Penns Creek.
