Confusion of Ideas.

A Cumberland clergyman has often urged an old woman in his parish to go to church, and he so far prevailed on her that she attended on Sunday morning. However, by mischance, she got into a pew belonging to a regular attendant.

The verger went to her and beckoned her to come out. At the same instant the harmonium commenced playing, whereupon the old body, skating her head at the verger, said, "It's nea use asking me, you mun git somebody else, as ah can't dance."

A TRAGEDY IN MISSISSIPPI.

TWO LEGISLATIVE MEMBERS

Start a Fight in a Crowded Court Room and Three Persons Are Killed.

In the midst of a large throng gathered in the Attala Court House at Kosciusko, Miss., a desperate duel to the death with revolvers was engaged in between Rev. W. P. Ratliffe a member of the Mississippi Legislature and one of the Populist leaders of the State, and Hon. S. A. Jackson, also a member of the Legislature and a prominent Democratic politician.

Jackson was killed instantly as was also Samuel Russell, a bystander and William Saunders, another innocent spectator, was carried away with but little hope of surviving the wound he received. Ratliffe came off unscathed and was soon incarcerated behind the bars of the county jail.

Ratliffe is a Populist representative in the State Legislature from Attala county. Mr. Jackson was a Democratic representative from the same county. Ratliffe is the editor of the Kosciusko "Vindicator." The men, long rivals in local politics, renewed their old feud with added fierceness recently and out of a publication in Ratliffe's paper over his own signature grew the tragedy.

The trouble all came up suddenly. The men had not met since the publication referred to. There was an auction sale of a bankrupt stock of goods in the Court House and while this was in progress a large crowd gathered, though no person noticed the coming together of Ratliffe and Jackson. The first indication of trouble came in the shape of a scuffle which occurred as soon as the two men got eyes on each other.

The auctioneer hushed his voice while bystanders rushed in on the combatants and pulled them apart, some persons seizing Ratliffe and others grasping Jackson. Separated by a distance of half a dozen steps and each struggling for liberty, both men drew their revolvers.

At that moment Ratliffe, who was held nearest the door, was jerked outside and as he passed through backwards he fired twice, but his aim was unsteady by reason of the jerk which drew him out. One bullet struck the door and the other hit William Saunders in the groin. At this juncture Jackson jerked loose from those who held him and ran out at another door in order to reach Ratliffe. In a moment the fusilade was resumed.

Ratliffe emptied his revolver and then stood still, looking grimly upon his horrible work. Jackson shot but once before he fell, hit full in the forehead after his pistol arm had been shattered. His death was instantaneous. Samuel Russell likewise received his death wound in the forehead during the final fusilade. He gasped a few times, but before the smoke had cleared away life was extinct.

Russell and Sanders had nothing to do with the fight. They were merely spectators. Every chamber in Ratliffe's revolver was emptied, but Jackson's revolver had only one empty chamber when seen after the tragedy. The throng stood aghast when the slaughter was completed.

Even Ratliffe did not move for a time. Then the slayer was surrounded and held until officers came up and carried him to the county jail, where he was placed in a cell. Strong guards were placed about the man in moving him to the jail, as it was deemed advisable not to give the friends of the slain an opportunity to wreak vengeance upon the slayer.

THE ENGLISH PARLIAMENT ADJOURNED.

The Speech of Queen Victoria Briefly Brief.

At London, Monday, the queen's speech, proroguing Parliament was purely formal and unusually brief. It was as follows:

"Upon this occasion, when your labors have been unprecedented in amount and duration, I regret that your release from them will be little more than nominal."

The queen then thanked the commoners for the supplies granted and concluded with the remark that she anticipated lasting advantages from the laws enacted.

Governors Against Prize Fighting.

The Springfield, Mass., "Union" published replies from 37 governors of states to questions concerning state laws on prize fighting and as to the governor permitting the Corbett-Jackson fight to occur in his state. With the exception of a few evasive replies, the questions are answered completely, the latter receiving a negative reply.

Four Men Killed.

An explosion occurred in a coal mine at Brush Creek, south of Kansas City, Mo., in which four men were killed and five injured. There were 115 men in the mine at the time, and it is a miracle so few were killed and injured, as they were all working in the same level. As soon as the survivors could recover from the shock they set about rescuing their unfortunate associates and in a few hours had succeeded in taking out all the dead and injured.

Oyster.

A single full-grown oyster produces, at the proper season about a million young, which swim about for a week or so, and then settle down to home life, attaching their still microscopic shells to any solid body which in their wanderings they have encountered. They are now about the twentieth of an inch in diameter, and form little white specks, called "spat." In six months they attain the size of a threepenny-piece. At two years old they are two inches across, and at three years three inches.

Man's Fall.

Since the original fall of man we have had some signal examples of great falls—not to include Niagara or the immense fall in values which the times have brought about—in the nature of accidents which waylay men at all times. One such is that of Mr. George W. Lord, Olanta, Pa., who says he fell down stairs and suffered four weeks with a sprained back. The use of St. Jacobs Oil completely cured him. Mr. G. Roeder, 609 S. 17th St., Omaha, Neb., relates that he jumped from his engine in collision and sustained a very bad sprain to his ankle; he had to use a cane for weeks, but was finally cured by St. Jacobs Oil. Never fall out with so good a thing.

MRS. LANSING.

MRS. J. H. LANSING, of South Glen's Falls, Saratoga County, N. Y., writes: "After my third child was born, I barely gained strength enough in two year's time, so as to be able to crawl about to accomplish the little house work that I had to do, and that only by lying down to rest many times each day; had sick headache very often, many pains and aches all the time. After I had taken one bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription' I could see a great change in my strength and less sick headaches. Continued taking the medicine until I had taken seven bottles of the 'Favorite' and one of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I am now able to do housework for myself and husband and two children aged nine and five. I also take dressmaking, and enjoy walking a mile at a time, when I can have the time to do so. And I am sure it is all due to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as I know I was failing fast before I commenced to take it." Sold by medicine dealers everywhere.

WHY NOT YOU?

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

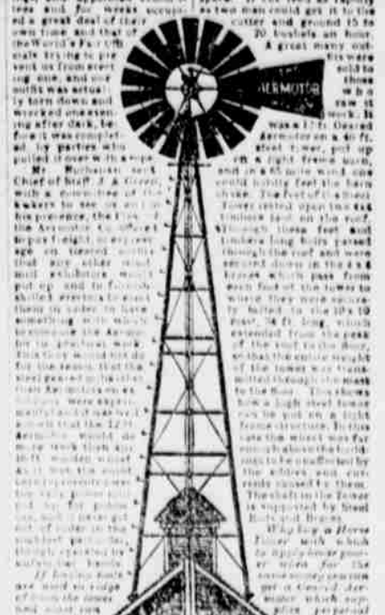
The following cut shows the outfit which caused such a bitter contest among the windmill exhibitors at the World's Fair.



MODEL POWER OUTFIT AT WORLD'S FAIR.

In this model outfit no horizontal shaft was used. We belted direct to other machines from the pulley, which is always a part of the Aermotor Grinder, thus greatly economizing in first cost, in power, and in space. It cut feed as rapidly as two men could get it to the cutter and ground 15 to 20 bushels an hour. A great many outfits were sold to those who saw it work. It was a 12-ft. Geared Aermotor on a 40-ft. steel tower, put up on a right frame work, and on a 65 m. wind could hardly feel the bars shake. The feed-cutter, lower down on the floor, was driven from the main shaft of the tower by a long belt. In the 12-ft. hexagon which extended from the peak of the roof to the floor, was the entire weight of the tower with frame, bolted firmly to the floor. The above is a high steel tower and can be put on a light frame structure. In this case the wind was from the west, and the tower was so placed that the 12-ft. wheel would be in the wind's eye. In this position it would run from 40 to 45 miles an hour. The cutter could be unoiled by the others and current caused by them. The belt to the tower is supported by steel Ball-bearing Brackets.

Why buy a Horse Power with which to run your grinder, or wind engine for the same purpose, when you can get a Geared Aermotor, which supplies perpetual power, not to exceed four horses, for the same money?

The Aermotor Co. proposes to distribute $500. CASH, IN PRIZES for the best essays written by boys or girls, sons or daughters of subscribers, over 10 and under 16 years of age, answering the question, "WHY SHOULD I USE AN AERMOTOR?" For full particulars of competition and amounts and number of prizes send for pamphlet to the Aermotor Co., Chicago, or branch offices, at San Francisco, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Ia., Minneapolis, Buffalo, or 12 Park Place, New York City. Aermotor Pumping and Geared Aeme Power Mills are sold on their merits. Send for pamphlet free. Cars at Chicago and shipped to any one, anywhere, at the following prices:

8-ft. $25. 12-ft. $50. 16-ft. $125.
