Tricky Lions.

Some of the most dangerous tricks of animals are those simulating kindness. Charles Montague, in "Tales of a Nomad," says that byengs often follow lions, and finish a car as the moment lions have left it. Sometimes, however, the hyenas are too eager, and steal bits of meat while the lions are still at their meat.

told that the lion rids himself of the nu sance in the following way: He throws a piece of meat aside. When the iion is looking the other way the hyena dodges in and rushes off with the meat. Presently the lion throws another piece of meat, this time a little nearer. byena takes that also. At last the lion throws a piece very near indeed. The hyena, having become reckless, makes a dash at this also, but the lion wheels round and lays him low with a pat of his paw and a growl of annovance.

I remember at the Usutu on one occasion hearing at night the cries of a hyena in pain, mingled with an occasional short growl from a lion. This went on for about twenty minutes. The next morning we found the ca .cass of a hyena bitten across the neck, and marked by the claws of They had evidently caught it and played with it some time before killing it. I suppose this was done in revenge for the annoyance they had sustained from the hyenas.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET. Nominees of the Convention in Co umbus. The Platform Favors Bi-Metallism. The Republican State convention, which concluded it business with a single session at Columbus, was one of the largest in number of delegates ever held in the state. S. M. Taylor, of Champaign, was unanimously renominated for secretary of state. John A. Shauek, of Dayton, was nominated on the third ballot for supreme judge, defeating the present incumbent, Chief Justice F. J. Dickman. The following were nominated by acclamation: Member board of public works, Charles G. Groce, of Pickaway, commissioner of common schools, O. J. Corson, of Guern-

The platform adopted indorses Governor McKinley's administration and John Sher-man's course on national questions in the United States senate. Protection as embodied in the McKinley bill, is commended, and the Wilson tariff bill with its senate amendments, is condemned as unjust, unpatriotic and favorable to trusts. The Cleveland admin-istration is denounced, its Hawalian polley being characterized as a national disgrace being characterized as a national disgrace and its pension system as a betrayal of the welfare of the Union soldiers, Concerning the silver question, which threatened to create discord in the convention, the following was adopted: "We favor bi-metallism. Silver as well as gold is one of the great products of the United States. Its coinage as a circulating medium should be steadily maintained and constantly encouraged by the national government, and we advocate such a policy as will, by dis riminating legislation or otherwise, most speedily restore to silver its rightful place as a money metal."

or otherwise, most speedily restore to silver its rightful place as a money metal."

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Foster was the lion of the occasion after he had been chosen permanent chairman of the convention, and his speech was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Gov. McKiniey was present at the convention, but he considered himself more in the nature of a host, extending greetings to visiting Republicans, and was not called upon for a speech. The feature of the convention, as it refers to the future of the party, was the outcroppings future of the party, was the outcroppings concerning McKinley for president, Fornker for the United States senate, and a large list of prominent Republicans in the state who are recognized among the possibilities for governor to succeed Mckinley. noon the State central committee at a meeting re-elected Major C. W. F. Dick, of Akron, as chairman of the executive committee; John R. Malloy, of Columbus, secretary, and William Burdell, of Columbus, treasurer. The other members of the executive committee will be chosen at a future meeting.

BUSINESS A LITTLE BETTER.

Better Rates for Some Products are Ruling.

R. G. Dun & Co,'s "Weekly Review of frade," says: The outlook for business seems a little better on the whole, though the improvement is not great. It is somewhat encouraging that the decrease in payments through clearing houses is but 24.3 per rent, for the first week of June, 27.2 at New York, out only 19.4 elsewhere. The decrease in comparison with 1892 is about 30 per cent. Railroad tonuage is larger than a year ago in live stock and moderate in cereals, but considerably smaller in coal and iron products, and in other manufactured goods westbound, speculation in product; has turned to higher prices, and wheat has risen5c, withan official state report of injury in Kansas. Pork products and coffee in the product of the p fucts and coffee are unchanged, and cotton is steady at 7,30 with slender receipts.

With only 2,937 coke ovens working and 14.576 idle, with the Cambria discharging half of its force, and seven out of the nine Carnegie furnaces at Bessemer out of blast, the production and manufacture of iron and steel are smaller than at any other time for years. While it is believed that determinates, the demand for the production after the strike terminates, the demand for the products is at present much below the general expectations even at the east. Other industries have been less affected, but many of the textile mills have been closed for lack of fuel or of orders. Sales of wool in the past week have been 16,342,498 pounds at three chief or of orders. Sales of wool in the past week have been 16,949,498 pounds at three chief markets, against 12,875,900 last year and 26,796,150 in the same weeks in 1892. FIFTEEN MEN DROWNED.

They Were Coxeyites Descending the Platte River.

At least 15 members of the Denver contingent of Coxey's army lost their lives by drowning in the Platte River at Brighton, Col. Four bodies have been washed ashore. The others were carried down the river. One man found drowned at Brighton has been identified as Charles McCune, a Missourian,a member of the Utah contingent.

The storms had swollen the stream, and a very high wind made navigation extremely dangerous. It was McKays bridge, six miles above Brighton, that caused the most trouble. The flood poursed under it with the speed of a mill race, and there, hidden by the stream, were barbed wires stretched necoss to prevent stock from passing under the bridge at low water. The wire caught many of the boats and overturned them.

The rivalry between Pittsburg and Cleve-land for first honors in the Western division of the League is as bitter as can be. The Pittsburgs are regarded as one of the most evenly balanced, hustling teams in the League, and Cleveland is made up of the same kind of stuff. Betrayed by a Bird.

A trifle sometimes leads to the detection of a fault or crime. A theatrical musician owned an epony flute with silver keys; he valued it highly, but as one of the upper notes was defective, he seldom uses it. A young man lodged with the musician, and between the two a close friendship existed. One night the ebony flute disappeared, having no doubt been stolen. Suspicion fell on several persons, but nothing could be proved against any of them. Not long afterward the lodger went to live in a town a few miles off, but as the friendship between the men still existed they occasionally visited each other. Nearly a year afterwa d the musician paid his friend a visit, the one who bought it " and was pleased to find him in postunes. The performance was per- nome. fect with this exception, that whenever he came to a certain high note he invariably skipped it and went on to the next.
