Reading Freight Wreck.

northbound freight on the Reading road containing merchandise and perishable goods was wrecked at Buck Ridge colliery, a mile east of Shamokin, at 2:47 P.M. Monday morning. A brake chain failed under the wheels and threw the greater part of the train from the track. Fifteen cars were knocked over and their contents scattered promiscuously about. Hats, boots, shoes, groceries and a lot of everything made up of the destroyed property.

Brakeman named Matthews was thrown from the wrecked train and had his right thigh fractured. On the 10th of August last—a year and two ago—Matthews had his left
