College Life.

How can I secure a college course? Judging from the numerous inquiries made concerning how young men of limited means secure their college education, I am led to believe that a few words on this subject would be highly appreciated. I feel confident that thousands of young men are denying themselves a good college education, men who might receive the benefits therefrom as well as those who do. Thousands of anxious hearts are longing for a place on college rolls and a peep into the mysteries of the higher intellectual realm. There is no reason why these longing hearts should not be satisfied; there is no reason why these young souls should thirst in vain for a college training. If a young man has a desire for a college course and has vigor, pluck and ambition, let him matriculate. But, you say, these traits will not pay the expenses incurred in pursuing a course. True, but a proper application of them will, almost without exception, bring the desired result. There are more students of limited means in American colleges to-day than those who have plenty and to spare.

VARIOUS METHODS CITED.

The question now arises, How do they meet the current expenses? In various ways. In the first place, there is always some work to be done about the college buildings. A book-keeper and typewriter in the business office is wanted. A typewriter for the accommodation of the students, to copy their Essays, Orations and other business productions, is called for every day in school life. Several assistants in the library are needed at a salary of from $100 to $300 per annum. One man can pay expenses from commission received in handling the laundry; another by keeping the student trade supplied with stationery, etc., and still another by supplying books. The yearly expenses may be met also by the income realized on hauling trunks at the beginning and end of each term. Services in the line of attending fires, sweeping rooms, buildings and halls, and caring for the campus are required and will be remunerated. I have known students, who were carpenters, plumbers and mechanics, to utilize their vacations by applying themselves to work in the various trades about the college buildings, laboratories and gymnasium. A growing institution always needs such men. The services of a paper-hanger, a neat penman and of almost every other trade are needed. Whatever your trade or well will likely be called for to a greater or less degree. The amount of pay, of course, will depend upon the quantity and quality of the work done. Nearly all of these employments I have treated in detail will be sufficient to liquidate the board bill, and in many cases others in addition. The business manager of the college paper can realize from $100 to $200. Good literary men can make money by writing newspaper articles, editorials and news correspondence. A reporter for a good city daily can make from $10 to $12 per month for reporting news alone. It is known that men have matriculated at Harvard and Yale with less than a dollar in their pocket and worked their way through on newspaper writing. One man cleared $150 in a single month on writing articles for two newspapers.

But I know some good, stout-hearted, strong-constituted country boy will be sitting by his father's humble hearth and pine because he is neither a carpenter, mechanic nor anything that can be of any profit to him in pursuit of an education.

He will gaze upon his muscular hands, and his coarse boots nearly covered with real estate and thinking only of his past,—his daily monotonous walks behind the plow, "Surely, surely," he mutters, "they can have no use for me. College life requires brain and not muscle."

Yes, my young man, we have nearly as many farmer boys in college as all the other occupations combined. The young man brought up in the country, is industrious with the best positions in the city, while the city lad must take a back seat. Yes, the services your powerful muscles can perform will be more eagerly sought than the others. Every student and all the friends of the institution will be taking a mental measure of your capacity on the foot-ball field. In nine cases out of ten, all your college expenses, (tuition and room rent) will be assumed by the athletic association. One man is taking a course in civil engineering. He spends his vacations in the vicinity of the college taking surveys and making plots at from $2 to $3 a day. There is certainly a chance for the young man who is willing to work. These are some of the many ways in which energetic young men lay the foundation for a noble and prosperous career. It is not generally known but, it is nevertheless true, that all colleges of good repute have free scholarships or grant free tuitions to worthy young men unable to pay. This means a reduction of from $50 to $150 annually in school expenses.

BOARDING.

Boarding is looked upon as the most expensive part of a college career. It is so arranged now that by boarding in clubs it is often secured as low as $6 and $8 per month though usually $9 and $10. Those who desire it, of course, can secure more expensive victuals. In these clubs, too, is a chance for an honest young man to earn his board by assuming the management of the club.

Since there are scarcely ever more than ten men in a club, one-tenth of the men can earn their board in this wise. Since economy is of necessity the prevailing and governing idea of many students, I cannot overstate the anxiety and solicitude of a student in securing his financial support while in pursuit of knowledge is the best passport for the highest walks of educational life. Thousands of American students every year, in eloquent strains of oratory, bid adieu to their Alma Mater, conscious that their acquisition was due entirely to their own exertion. These same young men when they enrolled felt as uncertain of the result as thousands of others who, fearing the consequence, hesitate, yet long to make the start, in the educational career. Of the former class we have nothing more to say except a word of approbation. To the latter class, we say "where, there is a will, there is a way." It is for these latter thousands that we have penned these lines. If but a single soul is endowed with a higher education, we feel as though our feeble efforts were not in vain.
