Letter from Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, PA., Jan. 28, 1895.
Editor Post:

The week just closed in the Legislative work has been a forerunner of a spirited, and we may trust, a brief and profitable session to the people of the State, who expect to receive at the hands of the co-ordinate branches of the lawmaking bodies of the Commonwealth, such forms of legislation as will best subserve their whole interests.

The most important Committee by far of any whose considerations excite the most attention, are subject to the closest scrutiny, and are of the greatest significance concerning the matters which the Legislature can pass upon, was organized during the week, namely, the Committee on Appropriations. Representative Marshal of Allegheny county was made the Chairman of this Committee, and from now on until the close of the session it will sit several times each week for the purpose of receiving and acting upon such subjects as may concern the appropriation of moneys, by the Legislature, to the objects of proper State care.

A full and detailed account of the scope, magnitude, and general work of this Committee, would well invite the careful and experienced efforts of the ablest member of this body, and later on in the session, your member may devote a letter to this subject. Suffice it to say, now, that he will endeavor zealously to guard, so far as lies in his power, the interests of his constituents on the subject of appropriations, believing they should be applied only with the greatest discrimination and prudence, always being kept within the legitimate and economical channels directed by the universal wish of the people of the State.

A somewhat novel incident in connection with the history of the past week here was the arrival of Mr. John O'Vail and Mr. Andrew John, two lineal descendants of the famous Seneca Indian Chief, Cornplanter, who lived early in the present century and was a very prominent figure during the latter quarter of the last century, in the northwestern section of Pennsylvania. These two sons of the forest came down here from their reservation in Cattaraugus county, New York state, where they have two thousand people living under the protection of the federal government, to present to the Pennsylvania Legislature a claim to 1500 acres of land situate in the northwestern part of the State, near where Oil City is built. They allege, upon the authority of the records in the Land Department here, that in consideration of the valuable assistance he rendered the general government during the revolutionary struggle and after, and on account of his constant friendly attitude toward the whites, the state of Pennsylvania through Thomas Mifflin, then governor, conveyed to Cornplanter and his heirs at law forever, title to 1500 acres of land in the locality described and that in 1818 they lost such legal title in exchange for wildcat money and they now desire the State to re-imburse them to the extent of their loss.

The Committee on Judiciary general gave Mr. O'Vail, a tottering Indian Chief of 80 years, respectful attention while he addressed them eloquently and earnestly in behalf of his claim. He spoke in his native tongue, emphasizing his remarks by gestures, Mr. John interpreting the speech as it was delivered. Having no legal status, the Legislature could not, of course, do any thing to remedy the loss, the only relief being in an equitable proceeding and Mr. O'Vail was generously offered $40.00 with which to take himself and companion back home to New York.

Prof. J. T. Rothrock, Chief of the Forestry Commission gave a highly interesting descriptive talk, on Thursday evening last in the Hall of the House of Representatives, on the forest of the State, illustrating his remarks by means of the stereopticon. This is a subject which should receive proper and vigorous legislative attention, as our splendid timber tracts are being rapidly depleted, being cut down annually at the rate of 300,000,000 feet, we ranking second to Michigan in the production on the market of serviceable timber, that state being the first in the Union and according to Mr. Rothrock this is by no means the greatest loss sustained, for the destruction of bridges, by floods, devastation of crops, washing of hillsides and damages resulting from floods, because our mountain sides are stripped of trees, has footed up into the millions within a few years and he argues that the timber should be left alone as a protector of our homes and property.

Col. A. K. McClure of the Philadelphia Times will deliver his address to the Legislature on Wednesday of this week, on "The Life and Character of Andrew G. Curtin."

Dr. E. W. Tool, of Freeburg, was in the City during the sessions of the Agricultural Association. The Doctor's friends here were pleased to see him. The Doctor read a paper on Teaching Vocal Music in our Public Schools, and if the legislature should make the teaching of it compulsory we will soon revel in a continuous ecstasy of song. Gov. Hastings presided during several sessions of the Farmers' meetings. He seems to feel perfectly at home with horny-handed sons of toil. He took a jaunt to New York over Sunday to escape the importunities of the officers seekers. Ex. Gov. Pattison will not become Mayor of Philadelphia if the opinion of the men here on the Hill count for any thing. He has been fortunate in his political career but 86,000 majority in the great city of Philadelphia may prove a stumbling block to his present political star. No important bills have yet passed far enough to pass upon their fate. In my next letter I will have something to say about Compulsory Education, Poor House Question, Forestry Bill, etc. C. W. H.

SELINGROVE.

Rev. Carson of Alexandria, Va., preached in the 2nd Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. The funeral of W. J. Gortner last Saturday was largely attended. Ex-Judge Bucher was seen on our streets last week. Francis Bateman, a former resident of this place, is visiting friends in town. We noticed a number of Middleburgh people on our streets this week. Dr. Marion Ulrich and wife of Millersburg are in town. Prof. Chas. G. Hendricks of Bloomsburg spent Sunday with his parents. Frank Good's horse ran off on Monday with a sleigh attached. Mr. Aaron Gundrum had his hand injured by a door slamming against it.

TROXELVILLE.

The debating society I made mention of was organized and the following officers were elected for four weeks: Pres. Ner M. Middleswarth; Vice Pres. Chas. H. Swartz; Sec. W. I. Zechman. Ast. Sec. John S. Middleswarth; Treasurer. Herbert Wender. The society meets every Friday evening, and everybody is cordially invited to come and take part in the exercises. Last Friday morning the mercury was 14 degrees below zero. It was the coldest morning this winter. Thus far I am ahead of the chicken hawk on the quail question. I have now 13 and the hawk one. C. H. Fetterolf has adopted my plan for protecting the quail. He was feeding a covey of 14 until a hawk had reduced them to 9. These he has now in a box and will feed them until spring. There is loud talk, concerning the establishment of a telephone line from this place to Adamsburg. I suppose a dog trying to lap Lake Erie dry in a week's time is as much of a possibility. On Saturday was "groundhog" day and as the sun commenced to shine about noon, "dox" saw his shadow, and then prophesied sleiding for six weeks more and retired. Our Band has a call from Laurelton to play at a re-union on "Birthington's Wash-day."

ADAMSBURG.

W. J. Treaster and Brother are applying the paint brush to the new house of J. B. Spangler. They know how to make a fine job and they do it too. The only mistake Wm. made is that he commenced to electioneer for the office of Justice of the Peace, he being a candidate in Decatur Twp., but we make allowance for it since his opponent is a preacher. Quite a number have gone to see the Eagle clock at Beavertown and all speak well of it. Herbert Manbeck wife and child have returned from their western trip which they have greatly enjoyed. Rob. Dreese has left for his home at Halstead, Kan. Cards are out for the wedding of Minnie B., youngest daughter of Adam and Sue J. Smith to Jacob A. Laub on Thursday, Feb. 17th. Minnie E. Beaver of Middleburgh spent last week at this place. The mail route between Troxelyville and Beavertown has been changed to Troxelyville and Adamsburg. B. F. Harley and wife and Mrs. W. J. Klose spent Sunday at Kantz. Wm. Norman has moved from Forrester's to M. F. Smith's house. Chas. E. Loyd has moved to Levi Swanger and J. H. Loyd to house vacated by C. E. Loyd. The high wind on Monday drifted the snow so much as to stop the Dunkey from making its regular trips. A number of our people are suffering with pink eye.

KREAMER.

C. A. Meiser and family spent Sunday with Grand Pa Moyer's of Swineford on Sunday. Miss Sarah Moyer of Swineford visited at C. A. Meiser's for a few weeks. The accident put a short stop to dances at this place. The Methodists at this place held communion services here on Sunday morning and quarterly conference on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Gray, a boarder at Romberger's hotel, and a man of about eighty winters was struck with paralysis on Monday afternoon. He is a little better. Meiser & Yoder are dealing heavily in county calves. Parties having calves to sell will do well to call on or address them, before selling their calves. M. E. Erdley sold two good houses last week.

CENTREVILLE.

A party of young folks from New Columbia spent one evening last week at the home of John I. Hartman. Many sleighing parties are on the go these fine evenings. Still more snow to increase the good sleighing. A sleighing party from Kratzerville were royally entertained at Hotel Spangler one evening last week. E. S. Stroub of Thompsonstown spent a few days here last week, his former home. Samuel Metzger of Kratzerville visited here recently. A very quiet wedding took place in our town on Saturday evening. The best wishes of a large circle of friends go with the happily mated couple and unite in wishing them a bright and prosperous future. Master Geo. Orwig of Millmont is the guest of his brother-in-law L. S. Hartman. Mr. Billman and wife of Ohio visited relatives here recently.
