

That Tired Feeling

It is remarkable how many people there are who have That Tired Feeling and seem to think it is of no importance or that nothing need be done for it. They would not be so careless if they realized how really serious the malady is. But they think or say "It will go off after a while."

We do not mean the legitimate weariness which all experience after a hard day's work, but that all-gone, worn-out feeling which is especially overpowering in the morning, when the body should be refreshed and ready for work. It is often only the forerunner of nervous prostration, with all the horrible suffering that term implies. That Tired Feeling and nervousness are sure indications of an impure and impoverished condition of the blood. The craving of the system for help can only be met by purifying the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one great blood purifier. It expels all impurities, gives vitality and strength, regulates the digestion and makes the weak strong.

"In the spring I felt very much run down—no strength or appetite. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and my appetite improved and I did not have That Tired Feeling." H. R. SERRA, East Lovett, Massachusetts.

BANDIT CORPSES.

Dynamite Dick and Bitter Creek Sain With Their Boots on.
At Spengel's undertaking establishment at Guthrie, O. T., lie the bodies of two of the most notorious desperadoes of the Dalton-Doelling gang. The dead men stretched out on two boards were George Newcombe, alias "Bitter Creek Sain" and "Kid," and Charlie Pierce alias "Dynamite Dick."

The advent of the officers with the remains of the outlaws was a complete surprise to the community, as no one had been apprised of the fact that the bandits were being pursued much less that there had been a fight, and that two of them had been killed. They were brought in just as they were when killed, in full clothes, with their boots and spurs on and armed to the teeth. Besides Winchester each had a revolver and belts of cartridges for both instruments of death.

The outlaws were killed at the southwest corner of Pawnee county at the house of the Dunn brothers, near Ingalls, the old rendezvous of the outlaws, by Deputy Marshal Sam Schuler, at the head of the six other marshals. The bandits were taken to Guthrie about 8 o'clock in the evening. It being moonlight, they were easily seen, and "Dynamite Dick" was killed outright, being filled with buckshot. "Bitter Creek" made a fight, and two Winchester bullets knocked him off his horse before he could pull trigger.

The two men killed are a part of the gang that held up the Rock Island train at Dover, some time ago. They had been chased ever since. Charlie Pierce, alias "Dynamite Dick" is a half brother to "Twin Jack," who was killed in the Cheyenne country by Deputy Marshal Dudley Banks. The express companies have big rewards out for these outlaws.

GREAT STORMS AT SEA

Atlantic Vessels Arriving Report Terrible Weather.
Stories of terrific weather at sea are told by each vessel arriving at Philadelphia. At the Delaware breakwater the signal observer for the maritime exchange reported that the wind was howling at the rate of 42 miles an hour. Many vessels anchored in the harbor, with possibly upward of $1,000,000 worth of sugar on board, are dragging their anchors. The whole breakwater is strewn with wreckage. The American liner Indiana, Captain Townsend, 13½ days from Liverpool and Queenstown, with 653 passengers, arrived after a terrific passage. Michael Gilbreth, one of the steerage passengers, was swept overboard and drowned on the morning of April 22 during the prevalence of a fearful gale, with rain and hail.

Negligence of a Pilot.

After a lengthy investigation the board of steamboat inspectors has rendered their report on the sinking of the State of Missouri last January. The accident, the report states, was due to the negligence of Pilot James Felle, Jr. The inspectors say that the evidence shows that three lives were lost and probably four. The matter has been referred to the United States District Attorney Smith, who will proceed against the pilot in the courts.

Decrease in Immigration.

A statement has been prepared at the bureau of immigration which shows the number of immigrants that arrived in the United States for nine months ending March 31, in each of the last three years, to have been as follows: 1898, 1,000,000; 1897, 1,100,000; 1896, 1,200,000. The amount of money brought in by immigrants during the same length of time was $2,395,846.

Yellow Fever in Cuba.

News has been received from Santiago, Cuba, that the ravages of yellow fever on which the insurgents rely to aid them in securing independence are already apparent in the ranks of the Spanish forces. Many of the soldiers are daily dropping out of the ranks victims of the disease. Physicians predict this will be the worst yellow fever season for many years. The rainy season will soon begin. Then the roads will become impassable, even for the infantry.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

The Queen of Holland is visiting in London.
The Prince of Wales has a peculiar habit of winking his left eye.
King Humbert and Rudyard Kipling are both said to be accomplished cooks.
Mien Gung Ching, attaché of the Chinese Embassy at Washington, rides a bicycle.
Edward Burne-Jones, the well-known English artist, acquired his art without a teacher.
Gustav Freytag, the distinguished German author, died at Wiesbaden, a few days since, of pneumonia.

General Campos, leader of the Spanish troops in Cuba, is sixty-one years old and has been a soldier for nearly forty years.
Prince Bismarck has a very loud, harsh voice, and generally speaks in a dogmatic, dictatorial way that admits of no contradiction.
The Emperor of Germany, it is said, has decided to honor Bismarck by having his head stamped on a future issue of German coins.

Ian Maclaren, a Scotchman, is the literary lion of London. He writes delightful, short stories, each of which is as neatly as the average 400-page novel.
M. Felix Faure is to visit Algeria after Parliament adjourns. He will be the only French ruler, save Napoleon III, who has ever set foot in the province.
Doctor Frederick Andros, who was the first practicing physician to locate west of the Mississippi River, died in Minneapolis, Minn., a few days ago, at the age of ninety-two years.

A recent account of the Chinese Emperor describes him as small and delicate, with a fair skin, beautiful eyes and a good forehead. He looks like a lad of sixteen or seventeen, and speaks like a youth of that age.
John D. Rockefeller, the head of the Standard Oil trust, is credited by a writer in the Boston Commercial Bulletin with having remarked a while ago that his great ambition in life is to accumulate a fortune of $500,000,000.

Count von Reventlow, the Danish Minister at Washington, has been appointed Minister at Denmark at Rome. M. C. Bruin, the Secretary of the Danish Legation in Paris, succeeds Count von Reventlow as Danish Minister at Washington.
Vasary, the Primate of the Hungarian Church, is a man of the most simple tastes. When he was elected he was a poor Benedictine monk. He drove to the Primate's palace at Bratislava in a public cab, carrying on his knees a cage containing his pet canary.

Marie Louise's son by her Chamberlain, Count Neipperg, whom she married after Napoleon's death, has just died near Vienna. He was Prince William of Montenuovo, an Italianized form of Neuberger (Neipperg), and was seventy-four years old. He survived his brother, the King of Rome, sixty-three years.
Aubrey Beardsley, the artist of the Yellow Book, whose grotesque caricatures of people are the reigning fads in art in London, is as odd in appearance as are his exaggerated drawings. He has red hair, which he wears after the Bretonne, and a face thin and pale. He is five feet one inch in height and long and lanky in build.

Max Simon Nordau, the author of the book, "Degeneration," is forty-six years old. He is of incisive personality, with a face of unmistakable intellectuality and an eye trained to see everything about him. During his long years of travel he was a great traveler, and, as he says himself, saw everything from the legendary North.

TRADE REVIEW

Warnings Sounded of Trade and Labor Excesses.

H. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade says: Business begins May in better condition than at any other time since the breakdown in May 1893. Smaller in volume than then, it is not now shrinking, but enlarging. The chief obstacle to a more complete recovery is the anxiety of many to pluck fruit before it is ripe, but in spite of labor troubles and speculative excesses the outlook brightens; money markets continue healthy, with heavy sales of railway bonds abroad.

Demands for full restoration of wages to the level of 1892 have closed many woolen mills, and threaten to close others. The strike which closed iron furnaces at New Castle, Pa., has just ended, but other strikes have stopped numerous works near Pittsburgh. Picaonistas cokeworkers are on a strike and one is threatened by Alabama coal miners.

By lifting wheat to 65¢ Atlantic exports have been checked and flour included, have been only 1,676,107 bushels, against 3,015,455 last year. The close was at 65½¢. Western receipts are now larger than a year ago, and, except in parts of some states, the promise for the next yield is excellent.

The strike at New Castle, now over, stifled Bessemer pig so that $10.75 was quoted at Pittsburgh and the closing of the Wheeling mill stifled billets, while southern makers have nominally advanced their prices. Additional contracts for structural works here and at Chicago, sales of 7,000 rails at the east, a better demand for wire and its products and for plates and sheets, are the encouraging features this week.

Another heavy decrease of 11,667 tons in the output of coke makes the shrinkage nearly 20 per cent. in two weeks, and forecasts is offered at $1.10. Anthracite coal agents agreed to mine only three days of the week in May, but prices are unchanged. The rise in prices of cotton goods continues. The woolen year ends ends with the lowest prices yet known.

"Bradstreet's" financial review says: The results of the week have tended to confirm Wall street's belief in the permanency of the present bull speculation. Professional interests in the market have been inclined to look for a reaction. On any slight concession, however, a buying demand made its appearance. Under these circumstances there has been a further irregular advance in prices throughout the list, with the industrial stocks as the most prominent feature. Leather and Sugar on Friday gave due notice that such proceedings could not be continued for an indefinite period. March railroad earnings show improvement in the proportionate net returns. The renewed favor in which "Americans" are held in London seems to grow in spite of conservative warnings.

Mining troubles are cropping up all over the country, and difficulties appear to be growing, instead of being nearer a adjustment.
Delaware's peach crop will be large.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The Church and the Young Man.

How hard and faithfully many young men are spending themselves to gather the young men to Christ, and in great measure spending in vain, because they labor amidst. As long as the home is negative, fruits will continue comparatively small. On the reformation of the home in this respect we should bring steadily effort to bear.

"If there is to a parent one duty more sacred than another, for faithfulness in which more strict account will be taken, and which will more seriously affect a parent's eternal hope, it is that of raising children religiously. Its neglect not only robs God of a soul to praise Him, but thwarts His glory in the world, and Christ's reward for the travail of his soul, but is a most unnatural crime against the child itself. Will not God requite for the deep hurt inflicted?" Rev. W. H. Laird.

People put things into their friends' ears as if they had control of their friends' tongues.

On the Spot.

"Out damned spot," was what troubled Mrs. Macbeth, but it was something intangible that she saw. In the active season of spring and summer sports—there are spots that are not visionary, but which bring with them pain and great discomfort. Bruises, black and blue, are the accompaniments of every active sport. They often cripple and are always a sore trouble. Come from what source they may, the thing to do in the spot is to use St. Jacobs Oil freely and promptly. There is nothing sorer and it wipes out the pain as we would wipe off a slate. In like manner sudden attacks of rheumatism, to which people are liable at this season, can be promptly cured by applying St. Jacobs Oil to the pain spot.
