Spain Disavows the Firing on the Allianca-A Satisfactory Answer.

The State Department received from United States Minister Taylor at Madrid the complete and final answer of Spain to the demand of Secretary Gresham for a disavowal of the firing on the United States merchant ship Allianca. The document has been awaited for some time with interest, and it was undoubtedly one of the main subjects which Acting Secretary of State Uni brought to the attention of the Cabinet at the meeting luesday. The answer was most cordial in tone, and is expressive of the fullest disavowal of the course of the commander of the Spanish gun-boat which fired on the Alilanca. It is said to be entirely satisfactory to this government and it fully meets in letter and spirit the demand The following official statement concern-

INCREASED CAPITAL STOCK.

Westinghouse Machine Company Add $250,000 For New Buildings.

The stockholders of the Westinghouse Company of Pittsburg without a dissenting vote, decided to increase the capital stock from $500,000 to $750,000. This was done to meet the expenses of the new buildings in course of erection at East Fittsburg.

The main building of the new shops will be 602x230 feet. A building for the hammer shop and power plant will be 200x60 feet. The construction throughout will be as near-ly fire proof as possible. The specifications call for a steel structure with brick walls, slate roofs, wire-glass skylights, etc. Within the main building, through which switches are run direct from the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, will be the machino shop, erecting shop, foundry, pattern shop, warehouse, offices, etc. The crane runways, each sixty foot span, with electric cranes, ex-tend the length of the building. The remain-ing space is taken up with galleries provided with induct areas. with lighter cranes. A large addition of new machinery will be made. The hammer shop will be equipped with one eight-ton, one three-ton, one two-ton and several smaller hammers. It is estimade. mated that the cost of balldings alone will reach $400,000. The contracts call for completion November 1, and it is hoped that the plant could be removed by the first of the year, but it is doubtful if the change can be quake. made in that time,

Enormous Pendulums,

The only structures in Japan which seem to be earthquake proof are the pagodas, which are erected before the temples. There are many pagodas which are seven or eight hundred yet?s old and as solid as when first built. There is a reason for this, and it lies in their construction. A pagoda is practically a framework of heavy timbers which start from a wide base, and is in itself a substantial structure, but it is rendered still more stable by a peculiar device. Inside the framework and suspended from the apex is a long, heavy balk of timber two feet thick or more. This hangs from one end, and to the other end are bolted, at each of the four sides, four more heavy timbers, and if the pagoda be very lofty still more timbers are added on to these. The whole forms an enormous pendulum which reaches to within six inches of the ground. When the shock of an earthquake rocks the pagoda the pendulum swings in unison and keeps the center of gravity always at the base of the framework. Consequently, the equilibrium of the pagoda is never disturbed, and this is the explanation of the great age of many of them, when from their height one would suppose them to be peculiarly susceptible to the effect of an earth-

Liquor Drinking in Two Countries. It has generally been supposed that "hard times" lead to hard drinking, but the British statistics do not bear out that supposition very logincally. Thus, in 1890, the amount expended for consumption of liquors per capita was about $18,50, while in 1894 the sum per capita had fallen to $17.75. On the other hand, the figures for the decade show that while drinking has decreased to some extent since the "flush" year of 1890, the general tendency through the past ten years has been to spend more for liquor; as in 1885 the percapita expenditures was but $16,25; so that in spite of the hard times the drinking is greater than it was ten years ago. In the United States, while in the hard times the consumption of some kinds of liquors, such as distilled spirits from fruit, decreased, the general tendency was in the direction of increased drinking, so that not only do the figures for 1893 show largely increased consumption over the figures for 1884, but the per capita consumption is also larger than it was in 1892.

THE GUNMAKER OF ILION.

JEFFERSON M. CLOUGH REFUSES A TEMPTING OFFER FRON THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT.

His Health was too Poor to Permit Attention to Business. A Great Sufferer for Many Years But Has Now Recovered.

(From the Springfield, Mass., Union.) There isn't a gun manufacturer in the United States who does not know Jefferson M. Clough, and why? Because he has been intimately associated all his life with the day velopment of the two best American rifles, the Remington and Winchester. For years he was Superintendent of the E. Remington & Sons' great factory at Ilion, N. Y. After leaving there he refused a tempting offer of the Chinese Government to go to China to superintend their government factorics,and accepted instead the superintendency of the Winchester-Arms Co., at New Haven, at a salary of $7,500 a year.

It was after this long term of active labor as a business man that he found himself incapacitated for further service by the embarge which rheumatism had laid upon him and resigned his position more than two years ago, and returned to Belchertown, Mass, where he now lives and owns the Phelps farm, a retired spot where he has five bundred acres of land. Being a man of means he did not spare the cost and was treated by leading physicians and by baths at celebrated springs without the summer of 1800 and the winter of 1890 Mr. Clough was confined to his house in Belchertown, being unable to rise from his bed without assistance, and suffering continually with acute pains and with no faste or desire for food, nor was he able to obtain enflictent sheep.
