The Englishman's Neatness.
Americans are often puzzled to account for the neatness of attire which distinguishes most English gentlemen. Few will deny that as a rule Englishmen are always well dressed. The following information comes directly from an English source, and has the weight of preponderant logic on its side:
"Most Americans buy one suit and wear it until they buy another—that is, after the first is worn too much to appear genteel. In England we do the thing differently. Instead of one suit we buy three or four, or perhaps half a dozen, at the same time. We wear one suit to-day and another to-morrow, changing as often as the fancy takes us. Result, neatness and variety, what is called being well dressed. It costs a little more to start with, but it is economy in the end. After the first cost, it takes no more to keep up the supply than to buy single suits, as it is only necessary to add a single suit at a time."

An Accommodating Road.
"In Santa Rosa," remarked a commercial traveler, "the street railway company lives up to its public announcements: 'Every courtesy shown travelers on our line.'
"The last time I was there the conductor stopped the car and sat down to read a newspaper.
"What's the matter? Broke down?" I asked.
"No; Joe Thomas wanted to collect a bill from a fellow in that shoe shop. He's owed it about three years and this is the first time Joe has seen him," explained the conductor.
"In the next block the conductor waited for Will Keenan to buy a steak for dinner and look up his blacksmith shop. It's an accommodating company."—San Francisco Post.

ANOTHER TRAIN ROBBERY.
DYNAMITE USED.

Travelers in a Panic and Express Messenger Overpowered.
The Lake Shore, Chicago & New York express was held up at Reese Station Tuesday night by four men. Conductor Darling arrived in Chicago with train Wednesday morning and reported as follows:

"I was sitting in the first-class coach when the train was stopped. The robbers turned a switch at Reese, a place in Ohio between Stryker and Archbold. They stopped the engineer with a red light, and it was after ward found that a pile of ties had been placed on the track. After sending a brakeman to the rear of the train with a lantern to protect us from anything that might be coming from behind, I went forward into the baggage car and watched what went on from there. Once I stuck my head out, and a bullet went whizzing by, and I didn't try it again.

"There appeared to be four men in the attacking party, but it was so dark, and we couldn't see distinctly. One of the men was a short, heavy-set fellow with a sandy beard and mustache and about 40 years old. They got into the express car and opened the door. They made the engineer climb down from his cab, and one of the men kept him standing beside the engine in the ditch. The fireman, H. Boardman, was under guard next to the express car. After about 40 minutes they disappeared in the darkness. The amount taken was, I believe, about $8,000.

"The passengers were in a panic, but they were not interfered with. There was an explosion that woke them up.
Express Messenger Nettleton said in regard to the holdup: "I was doing in my chair near the safe about 12 o'clock. I knew there would not be another stop for half an hour, so I was surprised and started when the brakes began to jar on the wheels. The train came to a sudden stop and I suspected something was wrong. We had no sooner come to standstill than there was a shock and a loud report under the right forward end of the car.

"I grabbed my Spencer (a short shotgun) and stood at the door, which was unlocked and had been partly open. In the darkness I saw two men with guns pointed at me. I dodged back into the car, and raising my gun, let them have it, as I thought, full in the face. Apparently it didn't hit, and after that they wouldn't stand any monkeying. "If you place any value on your life, you will put down the gun and let us in," one of the men said. Then I gave up, and they came in and made us work. They got into the way safe easily enough, but after exploding six charges of dynamite against the other one they had to give it up. They kept me covered all the time with their guns. There were two who were working in the car and two who stood on guard outside. The men had handcuffed me and over their faces and I could not recognize them."

As soon as the train arrived in Chicago the express car was run on the side track next to the United Express freight office. Supt. Wygant, and a number of detectives immediately went to the express car. A window had been smashed and the side of the car next to where the safe stood had one board missing. The inside wall was smashed to kindling wood. The big safe showed a circular dent about six inches in diameter, where the dial had been. The dial itself had been blown off and fragments of it lay about the car. Among the other trophies left by the bandits was a four-inch stick of dynamite.

The facts as to the actual loss are hard to get at, inasmuch as everything given out has had to pass the approval of Supt. Wygant. Twice when the story the messenger stopped and appealed to that gentleman to know whether his narrative was meeting his approval.
A rumor that some currency was to be affected that $40,000 worth of jewelry had been put on board at St. Paul, and that this was known to the robbers, and that the raid was planned with this in mind. Supt. Wygant places the loss at $150.

STILL ENCOURAGING.

Volume of Business Not Great, But the Tendency Healthful.
B. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says: It is not the season for the tide of business to rise, but there is scarcely any shrinkage, except that which comes naturally with midsummer heat. The volume of new business is small compared with recent months, but large enough to encourage more openings of long-closed works and more advances in returns to labor. Accounts of shrinkage in the yield of wheat come from the east and from the Dakotas. It would be an unnatural July without such reports, and yet they have weight enough this year to advance the price 8 1/2 cents. Western receipts for the week were not a third of last year's, and for four weeks only 5,306,063 bushels, against 11,983,619 last year. The western movement largely depends on the export demand, which is phenomenally light. Corn advanced about a cent with wheat. Cotton has remained unchanged at 7 cents, although the latest reports favor larger estimates of the yield.

Prices of iron and steel products still rise, the feature this week being the starting advance of 60 cents per keg in cut and wire nails, with new cards for various sizes, which, it is stated, makes the advance really greater than it appeared. Angles are also a shade higher, and other prices strongly maintained. Bessemer pig does not advance, although the Carnegie and one other company have been buying about 140,000 tons which is supposed to foreshadow large contracts for rails.
In the first half '95 orders for rails were 713,000 tons against 502,000 in the first half of last year, and a good many small orders appear at Chicago. Otherwise there is a distinct halting in new demand, though nearly all iron and steel works are crowded with orders for some time to come. The prospect that other furnaces with a capacity of 8,000 tons weekly in the east, and as much in the south, will get into blast within the remaining month of 1895 hinders a further rise in pig. Enormous sales of wool 44,778,864 pounds in four weeks, against 29,220,250 in 1892, far exceeding actual consumption but reflect the belief that the price will not decline, and the few changes this week have been upward. Scarcity of domestic wool in eastern markets is in part due to the heavy speculative withdrawals.

MINE EXPLOSION.
Dead and Injured Taken From a West-phalian Pit.
During a violent storm at Bochum, West-phalia, an explosion of firedamp and coal dust occurred in the Prinz von Prussen mine, which is 350 meters in depth. Next morning 25 dead and 11 injured men were found in the pit, but the total number of deaths is not yet known, as the pit has not been fully explored. Hundreds of wives, children and other relatives of the dead and wounded and missing men are congregated near the mouth of the pit, and their cries and lamentations are most heart-rending. Thirty-two bodies have thus far been recovered.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

There are 2,954 persons in Great Britain who pay tax on an income of more than $25,000 a year.

In the royal palace of Serbia lights are put out invariably by 11 o'clock by order of the King.

There are no fewer than four European banks in Yokohama and in Japan 120, all with large capital.

In the gardens around London there are more specimens of the cedar of Lebanon than on Mount Lebanon itself.

In Norway a law provides that no person shall be permitted to cut down a tree unless he plants three saplings in its place.

The coronet worn by the Countess of Aberdeen on state occasions is distinguished by five emeralds, which are the largest in the world.

According to a Connecticut statistician there are 96,000 crazy people in the United States, of whom only 6,500 are under sufficient supervision.

An eccentric farmer who died the other day in Connecticut directed that his body should be inclosed in an iron casket and thrown to the bottom of Long Island Sound.

It is a remarkable fact that the actual cost of the Kiel ship canal was below the estimates. They amounted to 156,000,000 marks ($37,440,000), and the cost was 155,378,000 marks ($37,290,720).

A colored man was recently shown a skeleton by a Portland doctor. He had never seen one before and was greatly interested. He examined the skull closely and finally asked, "Where are the ears?"

A family in Knox County, Maine, that sleeps too soundly to be awakened by a chime has a novel alarm. A big cowbell is attached to the neck of the dog, and at a certain time in the morning he makes a tour of the chambers.

A Boston paper which has gone daft on abbreviations thus reports a news item: "His Hon. the Lieut. Gov. of Mass. returned from N. H. yesterday with 1/2 doz. other citizens of Mass., and expects next wk to go to N. Y. by way of Prov."

People of middle age can remember when the only use for India rubber was to erase pencil marks. The importance of the article now is indicated by the fact that in the first three months of 1895 this country paid $4,000,230 for its importation.

Massachusetts may not grow as rapidly in population as some of the larger States, but its wealth continues to pile up steadily. It carried a fire insurance policy of $986,000,000, or about five times that of other States with about the same population.

For one person who cares about theaters there are a thousand persons in England wild about cricket, and if the ministry had given G. W. Grace a knighthood among the birthday honors it would probably have been the most popular act of their existence.

Statistics have been accumulated which reveal that in respect to color blindness there is a remarkable difference between the two sexes. About 2 1/2 per cent. of men are color-blind to a marked extent, while not more than 4-10 of 1 per cent. of women are thus afflicted.

A store at Tempe, Ariz., is about to inaugurate a novel cash system. When anyone desires credit he is referred to the office, where, if he be solvent, his note is taken for the amount needed, the cash is advanced him, and he goes into the store and with the money acquired does his buying.

Lord Rosebery will this year exhibit no fewer than twenty-four head of cattle and sixty sheep at the fat stock shows at Birmingham and Smithfield. His lordship will thus be probably the largest exhibitor. His exhibits will include many noted prize winners at last year's Scottish shows.

The first horse on record whose pedigree can be authenticated was bred by Charles II. and called Dodsworth; and, for his amusement when he resided at Windsor, he appointed races to be run in Datchet Mead, and at Newmarket, where, it is said, he entered horses and ran them in his own name.

"Charley's Aunt" has reached Portugal and is attracting large audiences to an Oporto theater. In its Portuguese guise it is "A Madrinhã de Charley." With the exception of an original play of Shakespeare's, this is the first time in years that an English drama has been performed on the Portuguese stage.

William Scrubby, Trenton's official dog catcher, tendered a pair full of dog's tails as vouchers for the number of canines he laid low in the performance of his duty and on which he based his claim for payment. The officials refused to count the tails, but agreed to accept Scrubby's statement of the causal tale as correct.

John Simpson, the veteran St. Regis prospector, states that the kangaroos on Blue Mountain are increasing in number and will soon furnish good sport for local hunters. Joe Reece came across a wounded one the other day and killed it to end its suffering. He is having the hide tanned and will make a hunting coat of it.

The fish commissioners of California recently stocked the two largest rivers in the southern part of that State—the San Joaquin and the Kings—with 50,000 black bass. It is expected that not only will the bass flourish and a little later afford fine sport, but that they will also clear these rivers of the small fry of coarse and low grade fish.

than on a bright day, but no matter what the weather it is a poor day when the trap will not field fifty sparrows.

Austria gives prizes to farmers to encourage them to recover waste lands and lay them down as pasturage, and also to erect shelters or stables for cows in high altitudes. The importance of this may be seen from the statement that one-quarter of the total fodder required for cattle and horses in the empire is derived from Alpine districts.

In the front of a house in the Faubourg de Schaerbuch, in Brussels, there is to be seen, half buried in plaster, a cannon ball which was fired from a Dutch cannon at the period of the revolution of 1830, and has ever since been permitted to remain. Recently it was determined to restore and refront the house, and it was decided to make the repairs without disturbing the cannon ball.

At Portland, Me., one of the crew of a fishing schooner went out in a dory to haul up some trawls which were set off Pemaquid in thirty fathoms of water. The usual number of cod and haddock were found on the hooks, but the man received one of the biggest surprises of his life when he hauled in a forty-pound salmon. What in the world the big fish was doing out in deep water no one can explain.

Henry Elliot, who has written numerous papers on the fur seals of the Northern Pacific, tells how the Eskimo, with a frail skin canoe, when the craft, heavily laden with furs, had to land its freight on a gravel beach, put a row of inflated sealskin floats in front of the umiak (their skin boat) and rolled her high and dry. Without that precaution the thin skin bottom of their boat would have been torn.

Of all the varied changes in the Yale commencement exercises, the most important is the last step which places the scientific department on a clear footing with the academic. The introduction of a class day, a senior orate and a high stand scholarship society are, perhaps, only symbolic, but they have broken down the last barriers which separate the academic from the scientific departments.

In 1880, Tampa, Fla., had 720 inhabitants, and in 1894, 15,688. Five lines of steamers run regularly between Tampa and New Orleans, Mobile, Havana, Key West and local ports. Its hotel property is valued at $3,000,000. The city has twenty-two miles of electric car lines, three electric light plants, about seventy-five cigar factories, and is supplied with pure spring water, through eighteen miles of mains, to the extent of 3,000,000 gallons daily.

One of the sections of the Constitution for Utah provides that the State's indebtedness shall never exceed $100,000. Another forbids the giving or loaning of State, county, city or borough credit to any business enterprise. Another fixes the salary of the Governor at $2,000 a year. Another provides that trial juries shall consist of eight persons, and that in civil cases the concurrence of six out of the eight shall be sufficient for a legal verdict.

In Los Angeles, in a jewelry store, a three-horse power motor is used in the cutting of precious stones. The machine worked by the motor is said to be the only one of the kind in the country. The stone is held by a quadrant, which is adjusted by a set screw to its required position on the lap. As many as sixty stones can be cut at one time, and the method of adjustment is so accurate that in no case would there be the slightest possibility of over-grinding.

From the registry of visitors kept at Stratford-on-Avon, it appears in the past year there have been in round numbers 14,000 visitors, of whom 4,000 were from the United States. Shakespeare's plays were among the first presented by regular theatrical companies in the American colonies, and the visit of Washington Irving to Stratford, with his charming description of it, did more than has ever been done by any other single person to turn men's minds toward the quiet old town beside the Avon.

A Curious Modern Sale.

One of the most curious sales of modern times is that which is to take place to-day (Thursday) at the Paris Mart, the Hotel des Ventes, in the Rue Drouot. The Heraldic College of France is to be put up at auction, together with all its archives. It is true that the institution was never anything but a private enterprise, but it has had an uninterrupted existence of more than half a century, and it has amassed a great store of documents relating to the titled families of France. The Marquis de Magny, the compiler of the "Livre d'Or de la Noblesse de France," founded it in 1841, professedly in order to continue the work of the genealogists of the eighteenth century. But the new generation of Frenchmen care little for tables of precedence, and what Carlyle called "Tom Fool titles," so that the whole concern is going for what it will fetch. Upward of 40,000 genealogical trees and 400,000 original documents upon parchment or paper will be submitted at the sale.—London Daily News.

Corrosion.
When steel is exposed to the action of sea water and the weather it is said to corrode at the rate of an inch in eighty-two years; an inch of iron under the same conditions corrodes in 190 years. When exposed to fresh water and the weather the periods are 170 years for steel and 630 years for iron.

Italy's King is Economical.
No royal or imperial court of the old world is conducted on so economical or short-handed a scale as that of the Quirinal, King Humbert being desirous of setting an example of saving and good management to his people, especially in these times of financial distress in Italy. This is all the more to his credit since he does not hoard the money thus economized, but gives it away to charities. It is doubtful whether there is a monarch in Europe who thus distributes so much as he does, besides which he has paid off the enormous debts left by his father and saved from ruin and disgrace several of Victor Emmanuel's principal associates in the organization of Italy, as now constituted, by means of the payment of their debts as well as by the purchase from their political foes of documents, calculated to compromise and destroy their good name. King Humbert himself is the treasurer of his household, and not a day passes without his going over the accounts of the palace, personally controlling every cent of expenditure.
