Quay is a Winner

Editorial Correspondence.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27th. The Quay caucus to-night had 159 delegates present who will support him at the convention to morrow, Six of these are contested which teaves Quay 153 solid or eight more than he needs. The probabilities are that others will flop over to Quay before the convention meets. Gilkeson had 107 delegates.

The Democratic Split

Last week we published as a bit of news the call of T. J. Smith for the Democratic primary election to take place on Saturday. We were then not aware that any feud still remained in the ranks of our friends, the enemy. The Lesherites have issued the following call signed by A. W. Aucker, chairman, and Wm. Keller, secretary:

"The members of the Democratic Standing Committee, of Snyder county, will meet in Middleburgh, Pa., Friday, August 30, at 2 o'clock p. m., to elect two delegates to the State Convention, which meets in Williamsport, September 11, and to Williamsport, State Convention, which meets in Williamsport, September 12, and to boards at home; her time is given transact such other business as may come before the committee.

These developments mean that two conventions will be held by the different factions. The Lesherites hold that their committee has juristhat meets at Williamsport, Sept. 11. This manner of proceedure will bring the Democratic feud to a final, panionship, no congeniality; and if not a permanent test. The state when old age comes, it will bring a

The wife has received just as good education; often stronger in intellect and culture, and when trouble and disaster come, she is the one found to posin contact with men greater than himself, which strengthens him. The wife is very generous; she takes upon herself all the cares and responsibilities of the home, that the husband may have plenty of time for improvement. While he reads, she has the fretting babe in her arms, and a wee little one clinging to her skirts every step she takes, and wrestles with her work, which looms up on every hand. At night the husband rests; he sleeps on, hour after hour, in blissful ignorance that the wife only half sleeps, that the babes are restless, and the mother is up and ready to wait upon them at the least sound. The morning finds the husband refreshed. ready for business; the wife, weary and worn takes up the old cares again. Day by day, she sees less of her husband and hears less of the affairs that interest him. No man can accept from a woman the sacrifices that make life easy and pleas ant to himself, robbing her of all
