Dr. Lincoln Hulley, Professor of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, was introduced and addressed the institute on "The Way the Constitution was Framed." The history of the United States did not begin in 1789, but when the twelve Articles of Confederation were adopted. In 1781 there was danger of 13 nations on account of internal troubles. Here difficulties arose, but the union sentiment prevailed and cemented these 13 original colonies into one compact mass.

Roll call. Music—"Come, Come Again." Adjourned at 11:45.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON. Institute convened at one o'clock. Music—"Revive Us Again." Dr. Schaeffer then spoke on the subject of "Township High Schools." He said: You would not build a house with most excellent rooms on the first story and elegantly fitted on the second story and not build a stairway. But this is the case with our system of education. We have our public school system and our colleges, but the connections are not always good. The high school must furnish this connection.

Prof. Frank L. Krause of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, was introduced and showed the teachers an 1895 map of Pennsylvania and told them on what terms they could be secured.

Music—"The Voice Within Us." Dr. Lincoln Hulley then continued his talk on history. Under the twelve Articles of Confederation the government could not be properly re-organized. A committee with power to act was appointed. Maryland and Virginia made the start but all the colonies were finally invited to participate. They met at Annapolis. Only five states were represented. So they afterward met in Philadelphia and adopted the constitution that now regulates our governmental affairs.

Music—"America." Dr. Schaeffer spoke concerning the Burrows Memorial. Twenty-five years have elapsed since the burial of Dr. Burrows, the founder of the public school system, and no monument marks his last resting place. It is fitting that the teachers and pupils of the public schools of Pennsylvania give their mite toward the purchase and erection of a suitable tablet to his memory.

Dr. Schaeffer then took the floor and addressed the institute on "Language as related to Methods." Through an extended discourse she disclosed her superior knowledge of this most important subject and gave to the teachers valuable assistance in their work of developing the minds of young children and even those of older persons. Miss Buckbee throws a great deal of personality in her addresses and as a lady she has no peer on the platform of institute instruction. She is so thoroughly imbued with the highest sense of lofty attainments that every move and accent proves how thoroughly familiar she is with the matter she presents for the consideration of teachers.

Music—"Star Spangled Banner." Dr. Hulley then continued his talk on the "Formation of the Constitution." The Doctor is quite a young man of more than ordinary ability. His stern, rigorous physical build and his unyielding devotion to books has rendered invaluable service to broaden his mind and open to his abundant resources a field of usefulness. In a clear and concise manner he carefully traced the development of the constitution to its complete formation. It is with a great deal of pleasure that we present the portrait of this young educator in this issue of the Post.

Roll call. Adjourned at 4:15, to meet at 7:30 p. m.

EVENING SESSION. Music by the Orchestra. Dr. Hulley then completed his exhaustive treatise on the "Formation of the Constitution."

Music by the Orchestra. Prof. Chas. H. Albert took the floor and delivered the Lecture of the evening on the "Guardians of the Home." Prof. Albert is a native of Snyder county. His many friends in this county are proud of the achievements of one of her favorite sons. The Professor had the laudable courage to attack the most despicable forms of vice that now poison and confront the children of every community. He took a bold stand for purity and denounced vice of every type. The speaker did not make any attempt at flights of oratory, but tried to reach the hearts of his hearers by appealing to them to assist in eradicating vice and immorality from the minds and hearts of children and placing there instead the symbols of purity and virtue. These are the "Guardians of the Home."

The institute adjourned by rendering a most fascinating selection from their rich store of elegant selections.

WEDNESDAY MORNING. Session opened at 8:45 by singing "Revive us Again." Devotional exercises by Rev. MeLain.

Roll call. Dr. Hulley then gave a list of authors of histories and references for systematic study.

Prof. Albert then gave a few important suggestions to improve the thorough teaching of Geography.

Music—"The Voice Within Us." Miss Annie Buckbee addressed the Institute on "Language."

Music—"America." Dr. Hulley then continued his talk on the "Adoption of the Constitution."

Prof. Bowersox then appointed the committees for the week.

Adjourned at 11:40. At noon Wednesday we close our forms to go to press. Further proceedings will be given next week.
