PRESENTING OUR BODIES TO GOD.

FRESENTING OUR RODIES TO GOD. We sometimes feel as if our souls are God's but our bodies, which, in their present char-atter, have to do only with this life, are our own.' Of course this is a grave error. The body is God's as truly as the soul, and the interdependence of the two is so close and complete that the soul is hampered by what-ever injures or enfecties the body. This is true notwithstanding the fact that some grand souls exhibit their beauty and power in spite of the infirmities of the bodies in which they are housed. Therefore, it is a part of our duty to God to care well for the body. It goes without saying that every gross, lust-are housed. Therefore, it is a part of our duty to God to earse well for the body. It goes without saying that every gross, lust-ful indulgence is shameful and full of harm to the human body. Even those ha-bituated to excess understand this. Prob-ably they comprehend it most diearis. But any one accustomed to study people's hab-its, any comprehen bysician, for example, will testify that the body office vs abued in-tolerably by many well-meeting person-who are unaware how they ill treat it. For instance, many are afraid of fresh air. They still the meselves in close rooms by fay and sheep without ventilation at bight instead of training themselves to use a constant supply of pure air, and merely to rvoid dangerou-draughts. They grow pale and feeble and pity themselves for the invalidism which is their own fault. Again, food of inferior quality or fundiciously prepared has ruined more these than many an epidemic disease. It is our duty to Got to eat wholesome for and it is not costly. Furthermore, hullfreds of people dose themselves continual with methodisms. Any patent mixture which there of its elements or true purpose, and fathen, and its used, often in utter there of its elements or true purpose, and fathen, are used remedies take much of them, and are used remedies take much of the more ally is used, often in utter there of its elements or true purpose, and fathen, and are to depend upon it. Those familiar facts suggest the lifter and God-fearing persons i d to learn how to honor their Creator by ther care of the body.

11. The topic is still "The Kingdom," for t may be said to be the topic of the whole Bible. He has passed through Jericho, hea-ing three blind men and saving Yaccheus and ing three blind men and saving Yaccheus and is now on His way to Jerusalem to die, They think, however, that the kingdom is now about to come, and they had some grounds for thinking so, for John the Bap-tist, and the twelve, and the seventy, and Jesus Himself had all preached that the kingdom was at hand. Why, then, should it not immediately appear? Why should He not, as son of David, do what the prephets and Gabriel had said He w uid do, all ow the throne of David and reign over the house of Jacob forever? (Isa, ix., 6, 7 Jer. ill., 17, 18; Luke 1, 32, 33.) 12. He spoke of a nobleman going into a

Jacob forever? (Isa, ix., 6, 7 Jer. E., 17, 18; Luke i., 32, 33.) 12. He spoke of a nobleman going into a far country to receive a Einstein and to re-turn. Well, the sons of Herod may have gone away to Rome to receive the kingdom, which then included Jerusalem, but what had that to do with Jesus Christ, the Son of David? He was then present. He had to the satisfaction of His followers proved Himself to be the Son of David. Was He speaking of His going away and returning? Yes, even so, for the Natioff that He came to be King over was about to kill Him, and this would involve a postponement of the kingdom till His return in power and glory. Now was His time to suffer and die, and the heavens must receive Him until the times of restora-tion of all things spoken by the propheta (Acts Hi., 19, 21).

tion of all things spoken by the prophets (Acts iii, 19, 21). 13. "Occupy till I come." This is His message to His servants, whom He called, and to whom He gave each a pound. This parable differs somewhat from that of the talents in Math. xxv., for there the talents are bestowed according to the ability of each, but the ground covered as virtually the same We know that every true servant of same. We know that every true servant of Christ, every true believer, has received the Holy Spirit, has received salvation, and this not for Himself alone, but that He may therewith bless others and glorify His Lord. The boundaries of this age in which we live, the time of the postponement of the king-dom, the time of the formation of His body, the church, are His going away and His return.
