HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-lour hours; a ediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary pasages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the sight to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE.

Subject: "The Song of the Drunkards."

Text: "I was the song of the drunkards"
-Psaims lxix., 12. Who said that? Was it David or was it Christ? It was both. These Messianic Psaims are like a telescope. Pull the instrument to a certain range, and it shows you an object near by. Pull it to another range, and it will show you objects far away. David and Christ were both, each in his own time, the song of the drunkards. Hollness of destrine and life always did section wisded meritine and life always did section wisded meritrine and life always did excite wicked merritrine and life always did excite wicked merri-ment. Although David had fully reformed and written a psalmody in which all subse-quent ages have sobbed out their pentioner, his enemies preferred to tetch up his old career and put into metric measures sins long before forgiven. Christ who commit-ted no sin, was still more the subject of un-holy song, because the better one is the more iniquity hates him. Of the best being whose voice ever moved the air or whose foot ever touched the earth it might be said:

voice ever moved the air or whose touched the earth it might be said: The byword of the passing throng,

The ruler's scoff, the drunkard's song. The earth fitted up for the human race, in congratulation the morning stars sang a song. The I-raelitish army sife on toe bank of the Red Sea and the Egyptians clear un-der the returned water, Meses sang a song. One of the most important parts of this great old book is Solomon's song. At the birth of our Lord the Virgin Mary and old Simeon and angelic prima donnas in hovering clouds sang a song. What carrichment has been given to the world's literature and enjoyment by the ballads, the canticles, the discants, the ditties, the roun lelays, the epics, the lyries, the dithyrambs! But my text calls attention to a style of song that I think has never been discoursed upon. You sometimes hear this style of music when passing a saloon, or a residence in which dissipation is ascendant, or after you have retired at night you hear it coming out of the street from those who, having tarried long at their cups, are on their way home—the ballad of the inebriate, the aerenade of the alcohol-ized, or what my text calls the song of the drunkards. For practical and saving and warning and Christian purposes I will announce to you the characteristies of that well-known cadence mentioned in my text. First I remark that the song of the dranta-ds is an old song. Much of the music of the world and of the charen is old music. First came the music of percussion, the clapping cymbal, which was suggested by a harmer on an anvil, and then the sigh-For practical and saving and warning and a bammer on an anvil, and then the sighing of the wind across the reels suggested the flute, and then the strained sinews of the torioise neross its shell suggest at the harp. But far back of that, and nearly harp. But far back of that, and back as far as the moral collapse first parentage is the song of the drunk-That tune was sung at least years age, when, the deluge past, Nogh came out of the ark, and, as it discusted with too much prevalence of water, he to strong drink and state red forth, it ages the first known drunkard. He sound-ed the first note of the old music of insur-acy. An Arab author of A. D. 1340 wester "Noah, being come out of the ara, ordered each of his sons to build a house. Afterward they were occupied in sowing, and in planting trees, the pippins and frails of which they found in the art. The line alone was waiting, and they could not discover it.

Gabriel then informed them that the devil bad desired it, and, indeed, had some right to it. Hereupon Noah summoned him to appear in the field and said to him. "On accursed! Why hast thou carried away the one from me?" "Because "Foliad" he devil. "it belonged to me." Shall I part it for you' said Gabriel. 'I consent,' said Nah. 'and will leave him a fourth.' That is not sufficient for him, said Gabriel. Well, I will take halt, 'replied Noah, 'and he sant take the solder.' Time is not sufficient for him, said Gabriel. The costof their keys, the wae-frobe has lost its last article of appropriate attice. The Balshazarean feast has left nothing but the broken pieces of the erashed challess. There it is ande, the ghastilest thing on earth, the remnant of a drunkard's hone. The costlest thing on earth is sin. The most expensive of all music is the sont of the drunkards. It is the highest tariff of Nations—and a profective tariff, but a turiff of doom, a tariff of wee, a tariff of death. This evil whets the knives of the assards, cuts the most of the wounds of the assards, makes necessary most of the almshouses, causes the most of the ravings of the insane asylum, will encove the performance and want it necessary most of the almshouses, most of the ravings of the insantaskwaster of Nations, and the human raise cronches under its anotheme. The song of the drunkards has for its accompaniment the clank of chains, the chaiterian teeth of poverry, the rattle of executioner's staffold, the creaking door of the deserted home, the crash of shipwrecks and the grouns of empires. The two billion twenty million dollars which rum costs this country in a year, in the destruction of grain and suxar, and the supporting of the papers, and the invalids and the criminals which strong drink causes, is only a small part of what is paid for this expensive song of the drunkards.

It has powerful rivals in the intoxicants of other Nations—hasheesh and arrack, and pulque and opium, and quavo and mastic and wedro. Every Nation, barbarie as well as civilized, has its pet intoxicant. This song of the drunkards is reniered in Chinese, Hindoo, Arabian, Assyrian, Persian, Mexican—yea, all the languages. All zones join it. No continent would be large enough for the choir gailery if all those who have this libretto in their hands should stand side by side to chant the international coords. Oh, how many heroes and heroines of musical achievement! There are songs which are easy to hear, but most difficult to render. When Handel, with a new oratorio, the first the mother, and the mother are seen to be a singer, and the mother are seen to be a singer and the mother are seen than a seen that the mother are seen that the mother are seen than a seen that and the said that are you doing here?" When Handel, with a new oratorio, entered a room where a group of musicians had assembled and said, "Gentlemen, you all read music?" Taey said, "Yes, we play in church," "Very well," said the great composer, "Play thes. But the performance was so poorly slone Handel stoppes his ears and said: "You play in church! Very well, for we read the Lord is long suffering, of great kindness and forgiving of Iniquity, transgression and sin. But you shall not play for me." Purcounsic, whether ingered on instrument or trilled from numan lips, is most difficult. But one of the cassest songs to learn is, the song of the druglards. Anybody can learn it. In a little while you can touch the highest note of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convivality or the low standed of the soft of convicting the form and the soft of the s name of besoltedness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, in-Bommation and alceration falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure Backache.

It has cured more cases of leneorrhea by emoving the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infailible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constinution and sick headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is of great value for ional application.
