

BEACOM IS IN DANGER.

Opposition to Him Is Springing Up Over the Entire State.

BUSINESS MEN'S LEAGUE ACTS.

St. Andrews Major McCauley, but declines to back up Beacom—Senator Flinn Says Beacom Will Be Fought in the State Convention—A New Candidate Probable.

Harrisburg Aug. 17.—The center of political interest in the state during the past week has been located in Philadelphia. The sensation of the week was the declaration of the Business Men's League in favor of Major Levi G. McCauley for auditor general and their failure to endorse James S. Beacom, of Westmoreland, for state treasurer. Mr. Beacom's name was not mentioned in the resolutions. At the same time the league warned the party bosses of the necessity of putting up a strong man for the position of state treasurer.

This action of the league is in full accord with the expectation of their friends throughout the state. The attempt was made subsequently, by the hostile newspapers of Philadelphia and the state, to make it appear that the meeting of the executive committee of the league at the Philadelphia headquarters on Thursday last was composed of but two or three men, and that their action counted for absolutely nothing.

Quay Organs Frightened. That this was absolutely false was shown a day or so after by the frightened declaration of several of these same newspapers that there was necessity for the "combiners" and "anti-combiners" of Philadelphia to get together, inasmuch as the activity of the Business Men's League might prove damaging later on.

The meeting of the executive committee was attended by every member of the committee, members coming from all parts of the state. The action taken represented the consensus of opinion of the league. The call of the frightened Quay organs for all wings of the party to get together was owing to the well known fact that a clear count of the noses in the state shows that Mr. Beacom has not got enough delegates to assure him the nomination. Another reason is that there is an ugly fight on in Philadelphia against the Quay slated candidate for city treasurer, J. Hampton Moore, the present chief clerk in the office of the city treasurer, is a candidate against Colonel Clayton McMichael, and while it is not likely that he will win, he is in a position to give the other candidate a great deal of trouble.

Fight Within the Party. At the league meeting on Thursday a declaration was made which is of interest to every Republican in the state of Pennsylvania. It is that every battle in which the league engages will be fought within the party. It is now proposed to go outside and enlist the aid of the common enemy, the Democratic-Populist party, as Senator Quay did during the late legislature when he had the Democratic state chairman, John M. Garman, openly lobbying among the Democrats for the notorious "ripper" bills. The fact that the fight against boss domination is to be made strictly within the party lines is worrying the machine men, because they have no handle by which they can hold up to scorn the business men's movement in favor of decent politics and a chance for every man. The resolutions adopted by the league are as follows:

"Whereas, we, the Business Men's Republican League of the state of Pennsylvania, in our battle to protect the people's interests from unjust and vicious legislation, and against the incursions of selfish and insolent dictatorship, are pledged—strictly within party lines—to support candidates of ability and fitness regardless of factions or their affiliations, believing that the essential step toward improved political methods is the election of better men to office.

"Whereas, it was thought that the passage of the bill requiring interest on state deposits would deprive the state treasury of any vital issue, but the shameless and persistent assaults upon the state treasury by the 'milage grabbers' and 'treasury looters' during the last session of the legislature has demonstrated that the conduct of the office of state treasurer is of vital importance to every taxpayer, and makes it necessary to elect as its guardian a man whose vault keys shall not be merely the will of a political boss; and

"Whereas, the widespread discontent and disgust pervading in the rank and file of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, because of long continued one man domination, should be met by the selection of men as candidates for auditor general and state treasurer of unimpeachable character and marked independence, free from those influences that longer render possible or encourage 'treasury raids'; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we heartily endorse the candidacy of Major Levi G. McCauley, of Chester county, for auditor general, and pledge him the active and earnest support of this organization, believing his sterling Republicanism, and especially fit him for that office; and be it further

"Resolved, That we earnestly admonish the party managers, if they have honest regard for Republican welfare, to take heed of the threatening storm of righteous disapproval by nominating for state treasurer a man who possesses the confidence of the party, and whose best boss is not that 'he is the creature of a boss.'"

The gravity of the situation with reference to the state treasury and the possibility of forcing the bosses to withdraw Mr. Beacom was generally recognized in the Philadelphia newspapers of Saturday. In a column article on the subject the Philadelphia Press said:

"The action of the executive committee of the Republican State League of Pennsylvania in practically declaring James S. Beacom, the Quay candidate for state treasurer, although without mentioning his name, and the declarations of Senators Magee and Flinn that the Pittsburgh delegation would have some other candidate for that office, indicated that part of the Quay slate at the coming state convention will encounter more or less serious opposition."

Flinn to Fight Beacom. Senator Flinn, of Allegheny, openly declared his hostility to Mr. Beacom in a published interview, saying:

"Under no circumstances will Beacom get the votes of the Allegheny county delegation in the state convention, and this in itself shows conclusively that he will be opposed. The sentiment of our people is strongly against Beacom, and we do not propose to sit in the convention and waste our votes. We will have a candidate to vote for in ample time, and feel that we will get plenty of supporters."

"Who will your friends support?" Senator Flinn was asked.

"Up until the present time," he replied, "we have not decided upon any one. The Municipal League of Pittsburgh is actively pushing W. R. Thompson, a prominent banker, and it is just possible that we may also turn in and support him in the convention. This, at least, is the way our friends feel about the matter just now."

"Will the delegates elected by the Business Men's League be found voting with your friends in the convention?" "It is more than probable that they will, although we have not received any definite information to make us think so. I think, however, that they would join hands with us in order to at least increase their standing in the convention. To my mind there is not the least doubt but that the refusal of the business men to endorse Beacom will have a serious effect on his election, if nominated."

Beacom in Great Danger.

While the nomination of James S. Beacom is possible, it is by no means an assured fact. The bosses, from Senator Quay down, are greatly worried over the situation. The state convention, which will meet on the 26th, may be the scene of some lively demonstrations. Mr. Beacom stands confessedly the representative of boss domination in Republican politics, as the personal candidate of Senator Quay. This fact alone will cause his defeat in the convention, if he is defeated. His ownership by Senator Quay will be his downfall.

Bishop McCabe, of New York, on Dr. James' Headache Powders.

"With regard to Dr. James' Headache Powders, I have no hesitation in commending them to sufferers from headache. They relieve the pain speedily, and I have never known anyone to be harmed by their use. I have been a great sufferer from headache in my life, but have almost gotten rid of it by the constant use of hot water and fruit and by doing without coffee. The Dr. James Headache Powders have, however, greatly relieved me at times and I never allow myself to be without them, and have recommended to others freely. C. C. McCABE."

Shellenberger's store at Bannerville was destroyed by fire on Friday. Nearly all his dry goods was saved. He claims if he gets the full amount of the insurance and all the goods saved as a present he will be out $1000. The force of men that was present did noble work for which he returns many thanks. Mrs. Swinberger also appreciates the bold and hard work her good friends did in saving her dwelling house.

The old soldiers and others are working almost daily fixing up the grounds for the encampment as they want it in as good order as hard work will make it. Some of our farmers claim they will not get potatoes enough for their own use this fall. Mrs. Jacob Erb is improving slowly from her late sick spell. Some of our farmers are expecting a larger yield of corn this fall than they had last fall.

Rev. J. H. Barb, Rev. Dr. Ochsensford, Rev. Hase and other ministers will be in attendance at the Choir Convention. All trains arrived here from Phila. for a two weeks' vacation. An absence of two years has made a change in his appearance. He is engaged in an office in the Drexel Building.

Too Much Knife!

The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm.

Mr. William Walpole, of Walahtown, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in the indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S., I determined to give that medicine a trial, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after awhile ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway.

Cancer is in the blood and it is folly to expect an operation to cure it. S. S. S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is a real remedy for every disease of the blood. Books mailed free. Address Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.
