Major J. W. Wham Presents Some Very Interesting Figures.

While the argument has not been strenuously insisted upon by the Republican papers that the return of the publican papers that the return of the the sole cause of the rapid advance in the price of wheat, there is one thing certain, and that is that high prices for cereals always occur when the Republican party is in control, and under its fostering hand the mills are fired and running. On this subject Major J. W. Wham, of the United States army, and an expert on the subject, recently said in an interview:

"In 1883, the year prior to Cleveland's first election, the average price of wheat was 91 cents per bushel. In 1884, the year after his election, the average price was 64 cents per bushel, a drop of 27 cents, from which price it only rallied slightly during his entire administration, selling the last year at an average of 68 cents per bushel.

wheat immediately bounded back to a point two cents higher than when Cleveland was first elected, the average your which point it only slightly reacted, the average price during the last two years being SI cents per bushel

"Cleveland was re-elected in 1892, and there was an immediate drop of 21 cents per bushel, continuing on down until 49 cents per bushel was reached, the lowest during the century, Millions of men were out of employment. consumption necessarily fell off, Economy, even in the use of brend and its kindred luxuries, was forced.

"Compare the per capita consumption in the United States during the first three years of Harrison's administration, when all the wheels of commerce and enterprise were hot with action, and the first three years of Cleveland's last administration, when the conditions were absolutely reversed, and you have a falling off of one and one-quarter bushels per capita during the Cleveland administration.

"Our population now amounts to very nearly $0,000,000, which would make a difference in consumption of about 100,-000,000 in favor of the Harrison administration.

"The per capita consumption of wheat during the last year of Arthur's ad-ministration and the last year of Harrison's administration, respectively, was nearly six and one-half bushelscall it six and one-quarter bushels; multiplying our $0,000,000 of population by this we have 500,000,000 bushels of wheat necessary for our home consumption.

"Our annual average production of when t during the last ten years being about 470,000,000, leaves us short anmually about 30,000,000 bushels. There was a tariff under the old McKinley law of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, which, being re-enacted into the Dingley law, seems, independent of the fortign shortage when taken in connection with these facts, to give the Amerkan farmer the 'cinch' on the world's wheat market."

HIS IMAGINATION.

The best thing that can happen to American manufacturers is that they shall have a monopoly of the home market first of all. The worst thing is that foreigners shall occupy this market so largely that the Americans, to meet them, must cut prices below the profit point and then almost give away the surplus to Europeans. The notion that trade over seas is a sign of prosperity is a British notion. It is promulgated in this country by free traders, who regard the British stamp upon anything, from an economical idea to a high hat, as an assurance of correctness. We do make some things which we can export at a profit, because we beat the world in producing them, but this is not true of the mass of our manufacturers. - Philadelphia (Pa.) Textile Record.

The only hope the Democracy now has is in some unexpected disaster. It wants a combination of strikes with the weevil in the wheat, an early frost, a coal famine, a European tariff war against America to upset the stock market, a pinching out of the gold supply-all these things coming together would raise its drooping spirits. But short of that there seems to be no opening for another Democratic raid on the offices and the national industries.-San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle.

There is no need to worry about the Dingley law. The men who drew that measure knew what they were doing. They declared that it would raise revenue enough to support the government. "Harrison was elected in 1888, and and that will be the result, after the law has got to work fully. There will be no bond sales to provide money with which to run the government, nor will price for 1888 being 93 cents per bushel, the nation's credit be impared in any way .- Cleveland (O.) Leader.

> The enactment of the Dingley law was a wise act because the government needed a sufficient revenue for its support, and experience had taught the effectiveness of a protective tariff in building up the industries of the country. Business is greatly improved and prosperity is returning because of the necessity of such a law and the sens of security growing out of it .-- Washington (D. C.) Star.

"Because it is my deliberate judgment that the prosperity of America is mainly flue to its system of protective laws, I urge that Germany has now reached the point where it is necessary to imitate the tariff system of the United States."-Bismarck.

The free traders are not shouting about that recent sale of American tin in foreign markets.

It Appears That Dr. Swallow Has Had One For Some Time. From the Clearfield Raftman's Journal.

A leading member of the Methodist chuch of this place tells a story on the Prohibition candidate for state treasurer that illustrates the method that gentleman had of doing business many years ago and likewise today. He was pesiding elder in the Al-100ma district and much opposed to the Juniata valley camp meeting, at that time very popular among the Methodists of this section. He was stopping with a Methodist family in Altoona who were great friends of the well conductid camp meeting, and who constantly upheld the same as against the thrusts of the presiding older. The day before the opening of the camp he wrote for the Altoona papers a scathing crit kism of the camp meeting, and withheld his name. When the papers circulated among the Methodists the morning of the opening they were surprised to find this article. The lady took the paper to the breakfast table where Dr. Swallow was seated and befan commenting severely upon the untalled for attack, and showed the same to the preacher, remarking that there was no grounds for anything said therein. The preacher expressed regret that the camp meeting had thus been assailed, and remarked that whoever had written the article had drawn largely upon his imagination for the evils complained of. Many years afterwards this good lady learned that the man who "had drawn on his imagination" was none other than he who had made the remark. In all of his gimatic discoveries since that time. wil, and they have been many, he has drawn on his imagination the same as when he wrote the criticism of the Jutiata valley camp meeting.
