Nothing to Steal.
New Father-in-law—Well, sir, the ceremony is over, and now that you are the husband of my daughter I want to give you a little advice. What would you do if you should wake up some night and find burglars in the house?
Groom—I should tell them that my father-in-law forgot to give my wife a wedding dowry, and they'd go away.—N. Y. Weekly.

Reflex Action.
"We have been very fortunately situated this winter."
"In what way?"
"The people in the next flat whip their little boy so often that our Tommy behaves like an angel."—Chicago Record.

There Are Some Evidences.
"Are there really mastodons?" he asked.
"Of course I can't be sure," she replied, "but there is evidence that some people think their heads are built upon that principle."—Chicago Post.

Wisdom.
"I can't see why they speak of the wisdom of the serpent."
"Well, you never heard of a serpent getting its leg pulled, did you?"—N. Y. Truth.

Tests with the Eophone.
The United States government has just concluded a series of very successful tests of the eophone upon the battle ship Indiana. The instrument consists principally of a plate, usually of metal, varying in size. This serves as a diaphragm to a resonance chamber. Connected with this chamber are tubes leading to any desired part of the vessel. These tubes are sound conductors. The eophone is placed on top of the pilot house of a ship, and by means of it sounds from another vessel so distant that the report of a cannon on board could not be distinguished by the ear are easily heard. The purpose of the invention is to give warning in darkness or fog of the proximity of another vessel or of a dangerous shore, also for the transmission of sound signals.

P. S. RITTER, Sheriff.
Sheriff's Office, Middleburg, Snyder County, Pa., October 11, 1897.

Some Differences.
"Wigginheim is in great luck. He's assistant foreman of construction on a big brick and steel structure they are building down the street."
"I can't see that it's such a tremendous piece of luck. They do that kind of work very fast nowadays. It will only furnish him employment for about three months."
"Three months. It'll last him three years. It's a government job."—Chicago Tribune.

A Valiant Calculation.
"I am convinced," said the broad-minded man, "that a United States senator's salary is, comparatively speaking, a beggerly pittance."
"Oh, I don't know," replied Senator Sorghum. "It depends on how he handles it. A year's salary isn't much if he attempts to live on it. But it makes a very respectable margin in a sugar deal."—Washington Star.

How It Strikes a Boy.
Said little Johnny Green,
This is the funniest world I ever seen;
A fellow is sent off to bed
When he ain't got a bit of sleep in his head.
And he's hustled out of it, don't you see,
When he's just as sleepy as he can be!
—Boston Transcript.

A CLEVER SUGGESTION.

"Oh, I know what we'll do. Let's race round the fountain three times, and the one who wins gets the apple."—N. Y. Herald.

Defeat Itself.
The golden rule could never be enforced by law, because there'd be nobody, don't you see, appealing to the law.
—Chicago Journal.

In a Complacent Mood.
"This is a splendid chance for you to tackle papa, George."
"How so?"
"He's just home from a fishing trip, and if he can get you to listen to his stories, he'll give you anything you ask for."
"I'll do it for your sake, dearest."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why He Does It.
"I tell you, sir, we're slaves to our landlords."
"Yes?"
"Yes, indeed. It's an outrage that we should have to pay rent."
"It's a good deal of bother at times."
"Then why do you do it?"
"I'm too lazy to move."—Chicago Post.

Before and After.
The cheerful alacrity with which a young man will guide his girl towards a milliner's shop window before they are married is equaled only by the marvellous stiff which he will steer her away from one after she becomes his wife.—Tit-Bits.

It Softened the Blow.
"The Jimson girls felt awfully when their father married again, didn't they?"
"Yes, they did until they found their new mother was just their size. Now they borrow her clothes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Merely a Conjecture.
"Wasn't it a surprise when young Rocksworth married the eldest of those Berry girls?"
"O, I don't know. He had his pick of them, and I suppose he thought he ought to take the ripest Berry."—Chicago Tribune.

Bad Management.
"That young Dr. Gibbs hasn't a particle of sense."
"Has he been giving the wrong medicines?"
"No; but he cured a wealthy young woman of fever in two days."—Chicago Record.

Too Decollete.
Spats—How did Miss Van Dough look in her new $5,000 evening gown at the ball last night?
Socratoots—Like a bad photograph.
Spats—What do you mean?
Socratoots—She was over-exposed.—Pittsburgh News

Fickle.
Clara—You know Mr. Smackerton, the fellow that was engaged to Miss Trapper? That fellow never could be depended upon.
Maud—What has he done now?
Clara—Married her.—Detroit Free Press.

An Illustration.
Smith—Mean cuss, isn't he?
Robinson—Mean? He's capable of going into a barber shop for a shave and then getting his hair cut just to keep other people waiting.—Philadelphia Press.

Unsatisfactory Diet.
He—My heart beats for thee, dear.
She—That's all right, my boy; but even were I a vegetarian, I could not live on that kind of beast.—Yonkers Statesman.

His Best Wishes.
"I had a letter from Clara, who is in London, in which she said she was to be presented at court."
"I hope the poor girl will be acquitted."—Demorest's Magazine.

A Look of Gloom.
Lumpkin—Some of those Cuban amazons are regular Venuses.
Bumpkin—You don't say so?
Lumpkin—Yes; they have no arms.—Town Topics
