one and he sent the goods to his home, in West Virginia. While he was arranging for their shipment at the railway station he was introduced to the young lady who afterward became his wife, and jocularly invited her to become his cook. She replied that she would be very glad to do so. The next winter Mrs. Kearon sold Mr. Kenna s ticket in another fair given by the same church. This time the prize was a plain gold ring, and again he was successful. He put the ring carefully away until it was needed at his wedding a few months later, and it so happened that his bride was the first person to use the cook stove. Mrs. Kenna is now postmistress at Charleston, W. Va., and the legislature of that state has decided that its representative in the gallery of statues of statesmen at the capitol ring and his kitchen furniture at a

A singular and remarkable fact was brought out at the seventy-first annual meeting of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company, and that is there have been only ten presidents of the company in 71 years, as follows: Philip E. Thomas, Louis McLane, Thomas Swan, William G. Harrison, Chauncey Brooks, John W. Garrett, Robert Garrett, Samuel Spencer, Charles F. Mayer and John K. Cowen. The line was put in operation to Harper's Ferry in 1834, was built to Winchester, Va., in 1836 and to Strasburg in 1870. Westward it went to Cumberland in November, 1842, and on to Wheeling, W. Va., by January 1, 1853. The Parkersburg branch from Grafton to Parkersburg was opened May 1, 1857. It is the only great railroad company that is being operated under its original name and charter.

The patent office is a continual beneficiary from the bleycle craze. Every day a patent is taken out for a new kind of bieyele or an improvement on an old one. Most of them are utterly impracticable and are never seen outside the home of the inventor. It is evident that many of these inventors are ignorant of the laws of mechanics, and their devices to "increase the power" by cranks, levers, cogs and other fimeracks are loughable. The netion that a man can put a certain amount of power into a bicycle and get four times that power out of the machine is opposed to all age based upon experiment. me people who harbor this delu-. to achieve the impossible.

mefit of a conductor who an accident which en-..... ability, the Conso: dated Electric Railway company, of Santa Barbara, Cal., gave the gross reccipts of its lines for one day while he was in the hospital. His case appealed to his fellow workmen and the public, as he had been a faithful employe and was the sole support of his mother. The other employes of the company on the same day gave their day's earnings to him, and patrons of the road had conductors ring up sums ranging as high as $20. The car receipts amounted to $327.05.

A man in Norway, Me., to whom a small debt is owed has taken a novel way to collect it. After blowing a debtor up on the street in the presence of passers-by and street loafers he accosts him whenever he sees him. If the debtor notices him he credits him with so many cents for recognition. If he doesn't notice him at all it is one cent credit. After each meeting the creditor sends in a new bill with the proper credits.

Speaking of alimony, an odd sort of case is reported from Arkansas City, where a man is paying $5,000 to his divorced wife at the rate of $50 a month. After procuring this divorce he married a rich woman, who, however, insists on handling her own money. Once every month she goes around to the divorced wife and pays the $50 on her husband's account. The relations between the two women are amicable.

Physiologists are unable to explain how people falling from heights sometimes escape injury. A servant girl at Mount Vernon, N. Y., dropped from a window 60 feet high, got up and walked back into the house. Her mistress noticed mud on her dress and asked if she was hurt. "No," was the reply, "only a little shook."

POINTS ABOUT HEIPERS.

How to Develop Them Into What They should Se. The helfer is the mother of the dairy cow, and the heifer will be what her antecedents and your care make her. It is too late to look after the antecedents of the calves already born, but not too late to keep them in a growing condition, thurch fair for a cooking and growing into what they ought to a complete kitchen outfit. be. If designed for beef, says a writer farned out to be the lucky in New York Produce Review, feed freely with corn; if designed for the dairy, oats are a most excellent food. They will not be so fat as they would if fed on corn, but fatness is not what is desired in a dairy animal. On the contrary, it is something to steer clear of. If you teach the heifer to fatten she will not depart from the habit when she is a cow. If you want her to excel at the pail give her food that is rich in muscle-making elements rather than a fattening food. Skim milk is good for a dairy heifer up to several months of age, and when she is weaned from milk oats will serve an excellent purpose. In truth, oats should be fed before the diet of skim milk is withdrawn. It is far from impossible to ruin a heifer so far as milk production goes by feeding too much rich food, and it is possible to hurt her seriously by withholding a sufficiency of food. Of the two evils too much food is worse than too shall be the man who won his wedding little, but it is less liable to occur, for where one is injured by too much food, probably 100 are injured by too little, and it is a safe guess to make that at least half of the heifer calves are fed too much like steers for them ever to make the best kind of cows. Only About Ten Per Cent. of Those Attacked Are Saved.

Scouring in calves gives trouble on all, and sometimes causes very serious loss on some farms. It is an infectious dysentery in young animals, and frequently less than ten per cent. of those attacked are saved. The more general trouble is known as white scours or gastro-enteritis, and most farmers have a private remedy for it. A great thing is to prevent scour if possible by the careful changing of food and attention to diet generally. On looking through the oow houses on a large Danish dairy farm recently I noticed that in the troughs in the calf pens there were always two lumps for the animals to lick. One was the customary piece of rock salt and the other a piece of chalk. To an inquiry, the learned professor who had the farm under his direction replied that it was to keep the calves from becoming sour in the stomach. He added that rock salt and chalk were easily accessible, and the calves were never or rarely troubled with the complaint which is so prevalent on American farms. In all probability it may be an old-fashioned precaution, known to many people, as prepared chalk is a constituent of some remadies for diarrhea and scouring, but it is not generally followed. It is easy of trial, and those who put it to a test would do well to relate their experience, favorable or otherwise, as the case may be, for the benefit of others .- Homestead.

IMPROVED MILK CAN.

It Will Not Spill Its Contents Even When Upset.

Here is the picture of a can that has been highly praised as a hot-weather milk receptacle. It is closed tight and capped over at the top, so that it will not spill the fluid, even if upset.

The picture shows a section of the in-receptacle projecting down into the can contains enough ice or ice water to keep cool at the same time that it prevents the milk from being shaken and churned about so much as it otherwise would be, thus causing it to keep sweet longer The can is shown closed at the top in the illustration.-San Francisco Chronicle.

HINTS FOR DAIRYMEN.

Water from a long unused well is not fit for the cow.

Milk quickly and thoroughly. Quick milking is the thing. Watch the milk to see that it is natural. If unnatural do not mix it with other milk. Droppings should be removed several times a day if the cows are kept stabled all the time. Land plaster is one of the very best things for absorbing moisture and odors in the stable.

The oleomargarine business has had a serious setback, but the bogus lard business still goes on.

Sand will make a very good absorbent in the stable, the only objection being that it will get into the hair.

It is always well to milk a stream or two on the ground to carry away any dirt that may be at the crafice.

Cold milk absorbs odors very readily. but cold or warm it should never be brought in contact with odors .- Western Plowman.
