M. EMILE ZOLA'S PLEA.

The Distinguished French Novelist Addresses the Jury.

HE ACCUSES PREMIER MELINE.

Declares That the President's Chief Adviser Has Ordered the Jury to Return a Verdict of Gullty-He Vigcrously Asserts Dreyfus' Innocence.

Paris, Feb. 22.-The court was packed with people yesterday when the Zola trial opened. There was no demonstration when the military officers arrived, but M. Emile Zola was hissed when he reached the court.

The proceedings opened with the address of the advocate general, who declared that M. Zola's assertion that the Esterhazy court martial acquitted a guilty person in accordance with superior orders remained entirely unproved. Major Esterhazy, he added, could not be the author of the bordereau, and he protested against certain newspapers accusing officers of seeking to overthrow the republic. In conclusion the advocate general expressed confidence that the jury would condemn M. Zola without hesitation.

M. Zola next addressed the court, affirming his good faith, and he created a sensation by accusing the premier, M. Meline, of having ordered the jury to avenge the national honor by returning a verdict of guilty, whereupon the presiding judge told M. Zoia that he must not make such charges.

Continuing M. Zola declared that the government knew everything, was perfectly aware that Dreyfus was innocent, and that the ministers themselves would some day announce his innocence. "I swear before the whole world that Dreyfus is innocent," exclaimed M. Zola, "and that France some day will thank me for saving her honor."

"I am not defending my liberty in presenting myself before you. I am defending the truth. Look me in the face, gentlemen. Have I been bought or am a traitor? I am a free writer, who intends to resume his vocation and again take up his interrupted labors. Condemn me, then, if you wish. It will be but an additional error. It will be the seed which will germinate and prevent France from falling into indifference.

"If the country is in trouble the fault lies with the government, who in the hope of saving some culprit had tried to prevent the truth from coming into the light of day. The very life of the people is at stake. It is for you, gentlemen of the jury, to utter the truth upon this affair and render justice.

The speech of the distinguished defendant was constantly interrupted by hisses and protests.

M. Laborie, counsel for M. Zeia, followed with an eloquent speech. His opening words, "We are here in defense of justice and right," were halled with loud protests from the back of the court room, but counsel continued, repreaching the authorities for being led astray by passing interests and with not wishing to deal with the Dreyfus affair, although there are few senators or deputies who doubt his innacence. "Nevertheless," continued M. Caborle, "truth will prevall. The elections will not be allowed to pass amid mystery and ambiguities."

proach the premier with refusing to allow generals to be judged before the fury, and he asked: 'Are generals then, above the legal conscience of the country? Our opponents talked of confidence in the army, but it is now an insult to the army to raise a cry of alarm, as M. Zola has done. He spoke in strong terms, but he did not insult the army."

THE PRESIDENT IN PHILADELPHIA

He Delivers an Oration at the Wash-ington Birthday Exercises. Philadelphia, Feb. 22.—President Mc-Kinley, accompanied by his secretary, J. Addison Porter, arrived here yesterday afternoon in the private car of President Frank Thomson, of the Pennsylvania railroad. The president was met by Frank Thomson, Charles C. Harrison, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, and C. Stuart Patterson, and by them escorted to the street. Here carriages were entered, and the party was driven to the residence of Mr. Harrison, whose guest the president and Mr. Porter will be during their stay in the city. The president today delivered an oration at the Washington birthday exercises of the University of Pennsylvania at the Academy of Music. The prevalent excitement over Spanish affairs seemed to give added public interest to the president's visit, and the big Pennsylvania railroad station and the streets adjacent thereto were crowded with people eager to see and greet the chief magistrate. Two companies of mounted policemen escorted the carriages to Mr. Harrison's residence, which is several blocks from the station. Cheering crowds greeted the president along the entire route.

In view of the condition of public affairs, every arrangement had been made to keep the president in touch with all the departments at Washington, and to keep him fully informed of developments at Havana direct telegraphic communication had been established between Washington and Mr. Harrison's house, and in addition to this a long distance telephone was at the disposal of the president in the event of the necessity of communication with Washington.

The city authorities propose to exercise the utmost care over the president during his stay here, in order to protect him from any possible annoyances. Both the front and rear of Provost Harrison's residence are guarded by policemen, and in all his movements while in this city the chief magistrate is closely followed by a cordon of of-

Her skull had been horribly hacked with an ax and the head almost severed from the body. Her husband, who was arrested, stated that he and his wife had quarreled, but he professed to be at a loss to account for the fact that he had killed her. His conduct on the way to the prison left no doubt in the con-stable's mind that he was feigning insanity. It is said that after committing the deed Preston swallowed a quantity of paris green, intending to make the affair a domestic tragedy, but for some reason the powder did not seriously affect him. Preston is 35 years of age. His wife was 15 years his junior. The couple is said to have always lived happily together, and as yet no motive for the crime has been discovered.
