GENERAL ORDER NO. 12.

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 5, 1898.

I. 'Tis thirty-three years since the trifle and the sabre were displaced by the hammer and the plough; thirty years since the uniform of blue was exchanged for the habiliments of peace; thirty three years of achievements that impress that truth, "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

Monuments have been reared to our heroes and to their heroic deeds, some casting shadows on placid waters, others standing above mountain tops; "but neither classic bust, nor monumental marble, nor lofty cenotaph nor stately urn, nor enduring bronze, nor everlasting granite, can add to the glory of our dead comrades in this land they loved so well."

Again we are approaching Memorial Day, again, with fragrant flowers, sweet music and patriotic eloquence shall we stand by the side of the graves of our comrades and pay to them the tribute of our hearts affection-of our loving remembrance of their gallant deeds—and over the little green mounds, which are now their bivouacs, renew our devotion to their memories and to the cause for which they battled.

Loving hands shall place the evergreen and the rose, the lily and the violet, on the hillocks of green which mark the resting-places of our soldier and sailor dead, sweet voices shall sing their praises and fervent hearts shall teach eloquent tongues to reverently voice eloquent thoughts in memory of our heroes gone.

Our Memorial Day is not a day for sack-cloth and ashes; it is not a day for mourning or for fasting nor should it be a day devoted by any patriotic American to frivolous activities or to holiday pastimes.
It is a day for the flag, for flowers, for music, for patriotism, a day for communing with the dead who died that the Nation might live, for the dead who offered all that they had that "this Nation might not perish off the earth."

Let all the people gather spring-time's brightest garlands to decorate our heroes graves; not one shall be forgotten. Intwining wreaths on monuments to leaders we pay a tribute to those who were led; a rose-bud on the grave of private soldier or sailor symbolizes our love for the memory of all who wore the Union blue whether on land or on sea; whether they sleep their last sleep amid tablets of marble or of bronze or found their final resting-place beneath the waters of our rivers and seas.

"The mearest fill, the mightiest river Roll mingling with their fame forever."

II. If arrangements have not already been made for attendance of Posts at Divine Service on Sunday, May 29, they should be perfected at once. This is one of the essential features of our Memorial Services, and Churches of all denominations will gladly aid in your participation in the worship of God.

III. It is recommended that, where feasible, Posts will arrange with the Pastors of the churches at which this part of the service is held to select texts illustrative of "The gains to American citizenship by the success of the Union soldier" and "The unquestioned and everlasting right of the cause of those who battled for the Union."

IV. The success attending the visits to the public schools by the comrades on the school-day next preceding May 30th, has been so great that the continuance of the custom is urged. Tell the children in your own way what the old flag represents, how it was followed in suffering, danger and death; how it was brought back with not a star missing and with freedom for all emblazoned on its stripes. Impress love of country and the duties and blessings of American citizenship; what it cost to preserve it for them and for those who shall follow them.
Tell the school children of our Memorial Day, and what it means, and the future men and women of America, with the object lesson of patriotic teaching from the lips of living men who bore their part gallantly on battlefields, will remember them while memory lasts, and they will learn, too, what patriotism means.

V. Interest your neighbors in Memorial Day, whether they be soldiers or non-soldiers. Make a place for organizations to be with you.
Though a Post be numerically small it can make its ceremonies and its services on Memorial Day so interesting that men, women and children will want to participate in paying homage to our dead comrades.

VI. In localities where there is more than one Post arrangements will be made by them for a division of the work. This can best be accomplished by the officers or committees.

VII. It is again directed that May 30th, is Memorial Day, not decoration day. The latter term is one applied by those who seek to divert the day by games, races, etc.

The only authoritative Grand Army designation is Memorial Day, and it is urged that the newspapers, the public and all comrades give emphasis to this on every occasion.
By command of Department Commander W. D. STAUFFER.
CHAS. L. LIEFER,
Assistant Adjutant General.
