Two Ways of Looking at Things.

"It is a pity that more of us cannot cultivate the twofold way of looking at things," writes Edward W. Bok in June Ladies' Home Journal. "There would be less friction in lite if we did, and sweeter sympathy, kinder understanding, and broader and fuller living. The fact is that we never reach the dignity of true living unless we do learn this all-important lesson. And that it may be cultivated admits of no doubt. it is simply a question of schooling ourselves not to condemn generally what individually does not happen to be to our taste. If, for example, we prefer brown as a color there is no reason on earth why we should condemn the taste of any one who prefered to wear green. What the vast majority of us need is to be a little more self-poised, more judical, more willing to see good in the tastes of others, although they do not please our own particular fancies. If we all thought alike, read the
